ONE KILLED, 16 INJURED IN SEVEN CAR CRASHES ON MARYLAND ROADS

Baltimore Youth Is Fatally Hurt as Motorcycle Hits Machine.

ATTACHE OF LEGATION FREED FROM BLAME

AUTO STRIKES GRAVEL, BURSTS INTO FLAMES

Husband of Woman Driver May Die as Result of Beltsville Wreck.

One person was killed, sixteen persons were injured, six seriously, as the result of seven motor vehicle accidents yesterday in nearby Maryland and Virginia.

John Pearl, 18 years old, of Baltimore, received fatal injuries when the motor cycle he was piloting crashed into an automobile driven by Etienne Lardy, chaarge d'affaires of the Legation of Switzerland, yesterday afternoon on the Buckeystown pike, 5 miles north of Frederick, Md. Lewis Haller, 35 years old also f Baltimore, a companion, sustained several broken bones and internal injuries.

The death was held acidental by John F. Keleir, magistrate at Buckeystown, in an investigation which revealed that Pearl aparently lost control of his motor cycle while rounding a curve at high speed, and smashed intothe car occupied by Mr. Lardy and his wife, who were proceeding toward Frederick. Both were removed to the City Hospital in Frederick, where Pearl died shortly afterword.

Leonard McGill, 32 years old, an automobile salesman, of 901 Twentieth street northwest, was in a critical condition in Casualty Hospital after the machine in whch he was rding struck a pile of gravel near Morganza, Md., at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon overturned and burst into flames. He received burns over his entire body, a lacerated scalp and nose and other injuries.

Two Others in Car Hurt.

Thomas Morris, 32 years old, of Morristown, Md., another occupant of the car, received severe face and scalp lacerations. Philip S. Mitchell, of 1833 California street, another automobile salesman, received fractured right ribs, the right shoulder fractured and other injuries. Both Morris and Mitchell also received burns, but not as severe as those suffered by McGill. They are all in Casualty Hospital.

The three injured men were brought to Casualty Hospital by Charles W. Owens, of Aberdeen, Md.

The other accident, in which four were injured, one probably fatally, occurred near Beltsville, Md., when a car driven by Mrs. Dorothy Thompson, 41 years old, of 206 Adams street northeast, overturned after the woman lost control of the car, police reported.

Mrs. Thompson received lacerations of the forehead and a fracture of the right ankle.

Her husband, William R. Thompson, 44 years old, same address, the most seriously injured, received a possible fracture of the skull and other injuries.

Two Other Passengers Cut.

The two other passengers in the car, Mrs. Marie H. Clements, 39 years old, of 724 C street northeast, received a lacerated eye, and Wilbur R. Clements, her husband, same address, face lacerations. The condition of Mr. and Mrs. Clements was reported not to be serious. All of the injured were taken to Casualty Hospital.

Llewellyn Luce, of 3151 Mount Pleasant street northwest, an employe in the general accounting office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, received a broken arm when the car in which he was a passenger overturned near Marlboro, Md., after crossing a railroad track. He was taken to Casualty Hospital.

Ottmer Hamele, of 3606 Ordway street northwest, the driver of the car, escaped injury. Hamele told police that he lost control of the machine and that it dashed over the railroad track, turning over.

Tire Blows Out; 3 Hurt.

Returning to Washington from Point Lookout, Md., early last night after spending the day at the resort, three persons were injured when the automobile in which they were riding overturned after a rear tire blew out.

Those injured were Mrs. Manuel Lopez, 64 years old, of 312 T street northeast; Mrs. Blanche Puig, 32 years old, of the same address, and Lee S. [illegible], 32 years old, driver of the machine, who also lives at the T street address.

Mrs. Lopez was the most seriously injured. She was treated at Casualty Hospital, as were the others, for several fractured ribs, multiple body bruises and shock. Mrs. Puig was treated for lacerations to the right arm and knee and shock. Wall suffered minor lacerations and bruises. The injured were brought to Washington after passing

Air Crashes Kill Four; Two Hurt in Virginia

Wreck Near Alexandria Hurts Pair, Who May Die; Mother Watches Husband and Son Fall to Deaths; Air Mailman Victim.

Apparently unable to come out of a spin, two fliers were seriously injured when their airplane crashed in the woods on the Richmond-Washington highway three miles south of Alexandria, Va., early last night. Both were rushed to the Alexandria Hospital.

They are Elvin Robertson, 27 years old, of Bancroft, Va., and Frederick Kante, 27 years old, of Easton, Md. Robertson suffered serious injury to his left eye, a broken nose, possible skull fracture and lacerations of the face. Kante suffered bruises of the head and face and a possible skull fracture, lacerations of the arms and a deep cut in the chest.

But little is known of the accident nor could the identity of the airplane be learned last night. Neither of the injured men was allowed to talk.

Residents of Alexandria and motorists along the highway said that they saw the plans above the dense woods fall into a tail spin and drop into the woods. The treetops broke the fall, or else it is believed both would have been killed.

Where the ship is from, he destination or the status of the injured occupants was a matter of inquiry for the police of Alexandria last night.

Sacramento, Calif., June 30 (A.P.).—Ira I. Wilkinson, 45, an official of the Capital Airways Co., and his stepson, Charles Wilson, 18, were burned to death when their airplane crashed in a residential district here today and burst into flames.

Ira Martin, pilot, escaped serious injuries, but was driven back by the flames as he attempted to rescue his two companions. The tragedy was witnessed by Mrs. Wilkinson, wife and mother of the victims.

Columbus, Ohio, June 30 (A.P.).—Flying through heavy fog and smoke clouds which enveloped the surrounding territory, Waldo E. Robey, 24, of Kansas City, air mail pilot for the Continental Air Lines, Inc., crashed

CLOSE POLICE WATCH CUTS TRAFFIC TOLL

71 CHARGES ARE FILED

Maintenance of an exceptionally vigilant road patrol by a motor cycle squadron, augmented by ten special officers and markedly cautious driving by motorists combined yesterday to reduce traffic accidents to a minimum, with injuries to nine.

Thomas Shorts, 27 years old, of 636 Tenth street northeast, was the only accident victim of the day whose injuries loomed as possibly serious. Shorts suffered a concussion of the brain, a possible fracture of the skull and lacerations about the face and body when he was struck late yesterday afternoon by an automobile.

After regaining consciousness at Casualty Hospital, where he was reported in an undetermined condition, he declared he was returning to his home after witnessing the Washington-Philadelphia baseball game and that he could not recall where he had been hit. Police reported that they were seeking Charles Evans, of Great Mills, Md., as the driver of the machine which hit Shorts at Tenth and S streets southeast. He had been taken to the hospital by two unidentified men, who drove away immediately.

The accidents for the most part came during a twelve-hour period ending at 6 o'clock last night in which traffic charges had been placed against 71 persons by the police precincts and the traffic bureau. The traffic bureau reported only nine arrests during the day, the majority of these cases arising from moving against the red traffic light. Arrests in the precincts were led by the Third with twenty, followed by the Second with fourteen and Eleventh with ten. Other traffic arrests were reported in the First with two, Fourth with four, Seventh with six, Eighth and Tenth with three each.

MELLON ANNOUNCES 185-MILLION SURPLUS

National Debt Under $17,000,000,000 for First Time Since World War.

INCOME TAX RECEIPTS BIG

(United Press.)

A Treasury surplus of $185,000,000 was announced last night by Secretary Mellon in summarizing the Government's financial condition at close of the fiscal year.

Mellon accompanied his announcement with a statement that "the Government closed the fiscal year with its finances in a highly satisfactory state."

For the first time since the war, Mellon said, the national debt has been reduced below $17,000,000,000. During the 12-month period closed last night, the debt was reduced approximately $873,000,000, as compared with $907,000,000 in 1928.

Total ordinary receipts during the fiscal year aggregated $4,083,000,000, as compared with $4,042,000,000 in the fiscal year 1928. Expenditures chargeable against such receipts were $3,848,000,000, as compared with $3,644,000,000 in 1928.

The $185,000,000 surplus for this fiscal year compares with a surplus last year of $398,000,000 in 1928. In the budget early this year the Treasury forecast a surplus of $37,000,000, so the actual surplus exceeded their estimates by $148,000,000.

Mellon announced $124,000,000 of the surplus has already been applied to retirement of the public debt, and the balance, which has temporarily been carried in the general fund, will be applied to debt retirement early in the fiscal year, 1930.

Aggregate tax receipts, which include customs, income tax and miscellaneous internal revenue receipts, was $3,540,000,000, or $176,000,000 more than receipts from these sources in 1928. Income tax receipts totaled $2,330,000,000, as against $2,174,000,000 in 1928, or an increase of $156,000,000.

Increased prosperity, which caused

WABASH SEEKS TO FORM FIFTH TRUNK SYSTEM

Railroad Requests I. C. C. to Allow It to Purchase Nine Carriers.

CONTROL OF OTHER LINES APPORTIONED

EasternTerminals Planned at New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

SEVERAL PETITIONS FOR MERGERS PEND

B. & O. Asked for Permission to Buy Company Now Seeking Leadership.

(Associated Press.)

A plan for a fifth trunk line railway system in the East is to be filed today with the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Wabash Railroad.

The proposal, details of which were made public last night by the Wabash, calls for acquisition of control either by lease or purchase of stock of nine railroads and joint interest in other carriers.

This would provide a new trunk line, with Western terminals at Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha and Des Maines, and Eastern terminals at New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The four trunk lines now established in the East are the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Chesapeake & Ohio. Two of these, the Baltimore & Ohio and Chesapeake & Ohio, already have submitted plans to the commission for absorption of other railroads.

Would Buy Nine Railroads.

Control of the following lines is sought by the Wabash: Lehigh Valley, Wheeling & Lake Erie, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Western Maryland, the Lehigh & New England, the Akron, Canton & Youngstown, the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern, the Toledo, Peoria & Western and the Chicago & Illinois Midland.

The Wabash desires a one-sixth interest in and joint use of the Montour Railroad Co., the Monongahela Connecting Railroad Co., the Union Railroad Co. of Pittsburgh and the Newburgh & Soyuth Shore Railway. Under the proposal, the same interest in these railroads would be given the New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Pennsylvania and Delaware, Lackawanna & Westeren.

A one-seventh interest and joint use of the Toledo Terminal Railroad Co. also is to be requested.

Control of Others Apportioned.

The petition proposes that the remaining control be apportioned equally to the New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & hio, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and the Grand Trunk Western.

Trackage rights desired by the Wabash are: Over the line of the Pennsylvania, between Logansport and Effener, Ind.; between Harrisburg and Rockville, Pa. and between Delphos, Ohio, and Fort Wayne, Ind. Over the Grand Trunk Western, between Ashley and Muskegon, Mich. Over the Reading Co., between Shippensburg and Harrisburg, Pa., between Rockville and a point at or near Blackwood, Pa., and between South Bethlehem and Philadelphia.

"This additional system is proposed," the Wabash announced, "in the belief that no four-system grouping in Eastern territory, such as is proposed by certain of the railroads' competitors is humanly possible without such merging of strictly competitve lines, such suppression of established identities in transportation servce, such distortion of existing channels and such disruption of trade adjustments as to defeat

FRENCH DECIDE TO START DEBT DEBATE JULY 9

AMITY IS PROMOTED BY STIMSON'S REPLY

Caillaux Pledges Himself to Early Ratification of Accord.

ALL DANGER OF SPLIT IN CABINET IS PASSED

Reservation on Receipt of Sum From Germany Seen as Possibility.

Paris, June 30 (A.P.).—Parliament virtually has decided upon July 9 as the date for opening debate on the ratification bill for the Mellon-Berenger debt accord in the Chamber of Deputies, now that French public opinion has become reconciled to the impossibility of obtaining delay on the maturity date for France's $400,000,000 war stocks bill.

Admission by the United States of its inability to delay the payment beyond August 1 was received with fine sporting spirit by all France. This was reflected in newspapers of all shades of political opinion.

The friendly manner in which Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson couched his refusal to Ambassador Claudel's request for postponement made a deep impression here.

Relations Are Unaffected.

The semiofficial newspaper Temps said today: "The Washington Government's reply is negative, but the form in which it was made by the representative of the American Republic at Washington proves that the United States Government understood the spirit in which the Paris government undertook the mission entrusted to it by Parliament.

"Although deploring the negative reply, we must note that Secretary of State Stimson gave his refusal a most courteous character, so that the incident had no bad effect on the friendly relations of France and the United States."

The Petit Parisien remarked: "Mr. Stimson put into the refusal of Ambassador Claudel's request all the courtesy which real friends owe one another.

Ratification Is Pledged.

Joseph Caillaux, former premier and minister of finances who negotiated the Franco-British debt accord, pledged himself to ratification of the Mellon-Berenger accord today.

M. Caillaux, who is a bitter opponent of Premier Poincare and still commands great influence in French political life, declared today, "My vote, as well as those of my friends, is pledged to ratification.

"The great nation to which we belong can not dream for one minute of even the possibility of having its signature unhonored."

It is expected that the Chamber of Deputies will finish with the ratification bill by July 16, when the bill will be sent to the Senate. The chamber will consider it again on July 23, which gives the deputies a full week to put the finishing touches to whatever reservations or other annexes they may desire to incorporate before final ratification, about July 30.

All danger of a cabinet crisis, which seemed imminent for a time last week, is now considered to have been passed.

Reservations Are Hinted.

Paris, June 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—France is now expected to ratify the Mellon-Berenger agreement for payment of the French debt to the United States before August 1—with reservations, indirectly expressed.

The procedure which the French Parliament appears most likely to follow is that of authorizing the Poincare government to ratify the agreement by decree, this authorization carrying no reservation.

Then, when the government has ratified the accord, Parliament will pass an act approving the ratification and in that act express a reservation to the effect that France will pay if Germany meets her obligations under the Young plan for a final reparations settlement.

This procedure is regarded in the Chamber of Deputies as an adroit method of ratifying the debt accord without attaching any direct strings to the ratification. There would then be nothing in the French ratification, it is thought, which would lead the United States Senate to hesitate over ratification. Yet France would have placed on record in her own Parliament a reservation to the effect that continued payments by her depends upon Germany meeting her reparations payments.

Some Want Actual Clause.

EDUCATOR IS BEATEN TO DEATH IN HIS AUTO

NO CLEW TO ASSAILANTS

Atlanta, Ga., June 30 (A.P.).—Prof. Alexander Hamilton Johnson, of Hartwell, Ga., widely known Georgia educator and a delegate to the convention of the National Education Association, was found dead in his automobile today, his head and face battered and bruised. Police said he apparently had been beaten to death.

The office of the Fulton County solicitor said no trace of his assailants had been found.

The educator, who was 41 years of age, was principal of two schools at Hartwell, and served as Federal vocational director for the Hartwell area. He was married and was father of two small children.

Police learned that Mr. Johnson last night telephoned his sister, Mrs. J. R.

BOY TRYING TO ASSIST DOOMED FRIEND SINKS

SAVIOR OF PAIR MAY GET CARNEGIE MEDAL

Others in Sunday Mishaps Suffer No Ill Effects After Being Revived.

Two Washingtonians—a girl and a boy—were drowned and five other young persons of this city and a visitor were saved from a like fate by rescuers at nearby resort beaches. In one of the rescue efforts a local youth was pulled from the bottom of the Potomac River after he had gone down for the third time. In another a young Washington widow and mother saved two others at a risk of her own life, displaying such heroism that she is to be recommended for a Carnegie medal.

The dead are:

Delia Sesso, 11-year-old daughter of Mr and Mrs. Henry Sesso, of 1420 Fifteenth street northwest.

Charles Gessford Thayer, 17-year-old son of Policeman and Mrs. C. C. Thayer, of 5828 Colorado avenue northwest.

The Sesso girl was drowned in South River. She perished, while Mrs. Marion Boyd Hurley, 26-year-old widow and mother of a 7-year-old son, saved two of her companions—Alva Gammarino, 19-year-old telephone operator, of 1636 Sixteenth street northwest, and Florence Sesso, 15-year-old sister of the dead girl.

Colonial Beach Is Scene.

Young Thayer was drowned in the Potomac River, off Colonial Beach, while hundreds of bathers watched him and his companion, Carl Davis, of 1614 A street northeast, sink for the third time, thinking their plight a mere boyish prank. Carl Markwich, a Colonial Beach High School boy, found Davis on the bottom and carried him to shore, where he was resuscitated. Markwich also aided in rescuing Marvin Blount, of Lynchburg, Va., who had been visiting at the Thayer home, and who was pitched into the water along with Thayer and Davis when their canoe overturned. Blount succeeded in clinging to the capsize dboat until Markwich righted it and aided him aboard.

The Sesso girl's death was a tragic end to a picnic celebrating the fifty-first birthday of Tony Vettori. After lunch was served, a group composed of the two Sesso girls, Alva Gammarino, the latter's 10-year-old brother, Armando, Mrs. Hurley and Louis Vettrol, 22 years old, of 2316 First street northwest, rowed across the river, landing on Mount Holly Farm, the property of Lieut. Comdr. Richard Knight, U. S. Navy. The beach on the farm slopes down several feet past the water's edge, then abruptly drops. The party was playing on this beach when suddenly the Sesso sisters and Miss Gammarino stepped off the shelf and sank. None could swim.

Girl Grabs Her Sister.

In the confusion Delia Sesso grabbed her sister Florence, and in the struggle they moved farther from shore. Florence Sesso succeeded in freeing herself and was rescued by Mrs. Hurley, who was some distance away when the three girls plunged beyond their depth. Mrs. Hurley also rescued Miss Gammarino. She made futile efforts to find the ohter Sesso girl and at last collapsed on the beach.

Persons who witnessed Mrs. Hurley's feat described it as most heroic. They said that in rescuing the two girls she endangered her own life, being forced to struggle with each as she swam ashore.

Post-Fox Contest Offers Chance Yet for Film Fame

Enrollments to Get Screen Tests Made Will End Saturday Night.

Opportunity is still knocking at the doors of persons in Washington and nearby communities, offering them the chance to have a screen test made and possibly to have their pictures shown to the executives of the Fox Film Corporation, who are seeking new types for pictures which they will make in the future.

But opportunity is going to stop knocking at these doors next Saturday night at 6 o'clock. At that time the Post-Fox Screen Test Contest will be brought to a close. Those who have qualified by that hour will have their screen tests made and will have their pictures shown on the Fox Washington Theater screen and, if selected as among the ten best from all those made, reviewed by the Fox Film Corporation heads.

Those who delay too long will be "out of luck." There will be no exten-

Southern Star Fails In Hop for Panama

Biplané Lands in Honduras After Take-Off From Tampa, Fla.

Tampa, Fla., June 30 (A.P.).—Capt. John K. Montgomery and his crew of five in the giant biplane Southern Star failed in their attempted nonstop flight from here to Colon, Panama, the big plane being forced to land at Tela, Honduras, at 1:15 p. m. today, according to a cablegram received here. No reason for the landing was given in the brief message. Capt. Montgomery planned to continue to Panama in the morning, it was stated.

The Southern Star hopped off from the municipal airport here at 1:55 a. m. today, and, after heading shouth, was not seen again until 9:15 a. m., when the steamer Carillo radioed that the plane had been sighted over Cozumel Island off the eastern coast of Yucatan.

The crew of the American International Airways ship included, in addition to Capt. Montgomery, Harold B. McMahon, pilot; Powell Hunter, radio operator; H. B. Huntington, navigator, and Louis Medina and Benjamin Sherman, mechanics.

Two Professional Gunmen Held in Murder of Marlow

One of Pair Arrested as Witness Wanted for Mail Robbery.

New York, June 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Two professional gunmen, one of them wanted for the Elizabeth, N. J., mail robbery and murder in 1926, were arrested in Long Island City today as material witnesses to the murder of Frank Marlow, racketeering ace, who was "taken for a ride" last Wednesday night and whose body was found in Flushing, Long Island.

Police Commissioner Whalen said witnesses have placed them in Flushing the night Marlow was murdered. A third man with no criminal record was arrested with them and is being held for investigation.

The men under arrest are Daniel, alias David, Grasso; Nicholas McDermott and Joseph Graham. Grasso has been sought by United States postal inspectors and police from coast to coast after witnesses placed him as night was very modest about her heroism. She was reticient about discussing it, except to be sure that she was not credited with rescuing the wrong persons. She admitted that she is not an expert swimmer.

The body of the Sesso girl was brought from the bottom of the river an hour after hte drowning by Douglas Crosby, intrecollegiate lightweight boxing champion, and Barney Turner, guards at South River Beach. They were aided by Policeman Harvey E. Avery. It was taken to Annapolis, where a verdict of accidental death by drowning was issued.

Mr. and Mrs. Sisso were among the party of picnickers and were prostrated by the tragedy.

The body of Thayer was found at 9 o'clock last night by divers, and when brought to shore was identified by Mrs. R. W. Garner, of Colonial Beach, an aunt.

Canoe Is Overturned.

Other Washingtonians rescued yesterday are Harry F. Brown, 19 years old, of 1223 O street northwest, and Joseph Patrick, 20 years old, of the same address. They were pitched into the waters off Chesapeake Beach, Md., when their canoe overturned 3 miles off shore and were saved more than an hour later by a party of fishermen who chanced to pass in a boat and realized the boys' plight.

Brown and Patrick left here early yesterday morning on Patrick's motorcycle for an excursion to the resort and there hired a canoe, which they said was overturned by the unusual roughness of the bay.

Brown and Patrick had checked a camera, hats and valuables for safe keeping before paddling off, and when well away from shore donned their bathing suits. When the bark capsized the boys' clothes were lost, and it was with difficulty that they recovered the paddles. Both boys can swim, but were unable to make much progress in towing the overturned craft in the rough water.

Members of the fishing party, whose names were not obtained, pulled Brown and Patrick into their boat and took them into shallow water, where the canoe was righted and they were able to paddel to shore.

With their clothes lost, Brown and Patrick were obliged to make the 40-mile motorcycle trip back to Washington in their bare feet and bathing suits.

TWO GUNMEN HELD IN MARLOW MURDER

the scene of the Elizabeth mail robbery and testified that he fired the sawed-off shotgun which killed John Enz, driver of the truck.

"The arrest of Grasso and McDermott tends to support our theory that Marlow was murdered by hired professional gunmen," Commissioner Whalen said. "Graham, the youngest of the three arrested this morning, has no criminal record, but we are holding him for investigation nevertheless."

The three men were in the detention cells at police headquarters tonight.

With the arrest of Grasso and McDermott the number of persons held in jail as material witnesses in the Marlow case now stands at seven. Four men and a young woman were held at $50,000 bail each the day after Marlow sprawled out of an automobile near Flushing, dying from three bullet wounds.

Grasso has been a fugitive from justice with a price on his head since gangland's guns rattled in the streets of Elizabeth October 14, 1926, and Enz, a motor cycle policeman, and an innocent bystander were killed. Comparison of his picture taken at police headquarters today with the picture of the flier broadcast by the Federal authorities after the Elizabeth murders indicate he has become stouter and has grown a moustache. Commissioner Whalen said none of the three would make statements of any kind to the police.

Grasso is the last of the men sought for the murder and robbery, in which the bandits got $151,000. Police and gang feuds have disposed of the others. James (Killer) Cunliffe and William (Ice Wagon) Crowley killed each other in Detroit in a gun fight over a woman and the spoils of the robbery. William Fanning and Carnice Neary are life prisoners in the New Jersey State Prison at Trenton. Benjamin Haas and Frank Kiekart are at the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta serving ten-year sentences.

Grasso and McDermott will be arraingned tomorrow in Long Island City on a charge of violating the Sullivan law. The detectives who arrested them found a pistol and 50 rounds of ammunition in the room.

CANADIAN DEFENSE IS LOWEST IN COST

Ratio Is $1.59 Per Capita; Next Lowest Is $2.10 for Germany.

3,400 IN STANDING ARMY

No nation in the world spends less on warlike activities than Canada, according to J. L. Ralston, minister of national defense. The ratio is $1.59 per head of population. Germany is the next lowest with $2.10.

Canada's standing army, the Permanent Militia, in official parlance, approximates 3,400. The Royal Canadian Air Force, also a permanent body, boasts a strength of 470, and the Royal Canadian Naval Service some 500 of all ranks.

The non-permanent militia has a peace establisament, on paper, of 136,000, and an actual strength of 51,000. Of these only 34,000 were actually trained last year. A similar number will go training this year. Training consists of twelve days in camp for a number of corps, particularly those in which rural units predominate, cavalry regiments and the artillery. Infantry regiments in towns and cities reach their equivalent of twelve days training by night drills in the spring and fall.

The permanent forces, artillery, engineering and mechanical departments, cavalry and infantry, is scattered in small detachments throughout the country, its chief duty and responsibility being the training of the non-permanent militia. Its largest representation is in Halifax, Canada's Atlantic fortress.

Regulars Highly Eficient.

The "regulars" are efficient to a marked degree, and the standard of the nonpermanent militia steadily rises. Canada's participation in the Boer War and the World War, and the scheme whereby Canadian officers may serve with the British army for technical or general training, have aided to that end.

Canada's happy geographical position is an influence in its contentment with a small military force. The United States is not a factor at any time in the country's defense budget. No responsible authority in the Dominion believes that Britain and the United States will go to war with resultant invasion of the Dominion. Small wars are not in the calculations. Since 1885 there has been no trouble with Indians that has required the services of more than a detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

On major conflicts, the belief of the Canadian military chiefs is that they would have a reasonable period of warning. Hence their aim is to build an efficent nucleus around which the whole defense forces of the nation might rally in an emergency. Dispatch of an expeditionary force overseas, if decided upon, would be under the aegis of the British navy, as in 1914. Then the first Canadian expeditionary force of 30,000 men, completely equipped, was assembled and sailed for Britain some six weeks after the mobilization order was issued at the outbreak.

Plans Industrial Mobilization.

Close attention is paid to the facilities for the industrial mobilization of Canada. Federal and provincial research bureaus and the educational and professional institutions cooperate in this respect.

The Royal Canadian Air Force, meanwhile, in addition to instructing non-permanent militia pilots and civilian aviation clubs, return part of the cost of its upkeep to the country in service for the forestry, geological, postoffice and justice branches of the government. It carried out a continuous survey of Hudson Bay and Straits and adjoining territory in the winter of 1927 and spring of 1928 that made history in Arctic and sub-Arctic flying. It has aided provincial forestry patrols in fire protection and air dusting against tree destroying insects, has taken judges and court officials to remote regions for the enforcement of Canadian law. And it is said of it that no other air force in all the world has surveyed and mapped so many square miles of its nation's territory.

NORTH CAROLINA LAW HITS YOUNG ELOPERS

CURB RECKLESS DRIVERS

Raleigh, N. C., June 30 (A.P.).—Three of the most far-reaching pieces of State-wide legislation enacted in recent years became effective in North Carolina at midnight tonight, when the new workmen's compensation act, the new marriage banns law and the act making effective the highway patrol become operative for the first time.

Under the new acts the minor who seeks a marriage license without previous notice, the workman employed by an employer or employing firm employing more than five persons who is injured, and the motorist who runs afoul of the law will be directly affected. Perhaps the most far-reaching of the three is the compensation act. The State itself, counties, cities, towns, factories, contractors, offices, stores and even churches that employ as many people as five—including choir singers—are affected and their employes are protected and limited by it.

The industrial commission charged with the administration of the compensation act, has estimated that there are 16,000 employers and employing firms in the State which will be affected.

Under the terms of the bill, agricultural and domestic labor is exempt. The highway patrol will be sworn in at Raleigh tomorrow. Then a lieutenant and three policemen on motorcycles will go to each of the nine highway districts of the State. The duties of the patrol are limited to the enforcement of the State's road and automobile laws.

The marriage banns law, while not as strict as the original bill introduced in the last legislature, is aimed at curtailing the number of runaway, "wild party" and similar marriages among minors. It will not apply to persons 21 or over. If a minor is a party to the proposed marriage, five days' notice, including the names of the contracting parties and their parents, must be filed with the register of deeds. Where notice of the marriage has been published in a newspaper at least five days before, the act does not apply.

NEW HOTEL COMBINE DETAILS ANNOUNCED

OWNERSHIP IS UNCHANGED

Details of the new hotel combination involving management of properties appraised at more than $60,00,000, whereby United Realties, Inc., Davenport, Iowa, owners of Black Hawk hotels, will operate Wardman hotel properties here valued at more than $28,000,000, were announced yesterday.

The Western affiliation includes the St. Paul Hotel, St. Paul; the Fort Des Moines and Savery at Des Moines, Iowa; the Hanford at Mason City, Iowa; the Davenport and Black Hawk at Dovenport, Iowa; Grove Park Inn, Asheville, N. C.; Lake Shore Drive Hotel; Chicago, and the Grand at Mackinac Island, Mich.

Harry Wardman, president, Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., stated yesterday that the Western firm will assume charge of the local hotel properties previously announced, July 15, but no change in owernship will be made at this time nor are changes in personnel contemplated for the present.

Dick R. Lane, president United Realties, Inc., will move here at once to supervise, and associated with him in management of the properties will be George E. Allen, managing director Lake Shore Drive Hotel, Chicago, and the Grand at Mackinac Island and formerly managing director of the Belmont Hatel, Chicago. F. Roger Miller, vice president Grove Park Inn, Inc., will have charge of advertising, publicity and public relations. A. C. Krakow, comptroller United Realties, Inc., will supervise the auditing and accounting department of the Wardman group under the new management.

Mr. Lane is former president of the Iowa and Northwestern Hotel Associations and for many years has been an executive councilman of the American Hotel Association. He and his brother, J. Reed Lane, chairman board of directors United Realties, Inc., have been identified with successful hotel enterprises in the Central West. The Black Hawk Hotel Corporation is now operating a total of 9,000 rooms.

Headquarters of the new operators will be Wardman Park Hotel. Mr. Wardman said he is delighted with the new arrangement and has absolute confidence in the future of his properties under the new managemnt, and J. Red Lane declared the latter expected to continue the development and was enthusiastic about its splendid possibilities.

TREASURY SURPLUS TOTALS 185 MILLION

corporations to have larger incomes in the present fiscal year, overcame effects of the tax reduction which lowered the corporation rate by one-half of 1 per cent, the Treasury said. Back tax collections showed a falling off somewhat greater than expected, it added.

Income Tax Receipts Larger.

"On the other hand," Mellon said, "there was a remarkable increase, amounting to about $220,000,000, in receipts from the current individual income tax. Until the returns have been analyzed, it is impossible to assign definite reasons for this abnormal increase; but, generally speaking, it was unquestionably due to widespread prosperity."

Cumulative results of the reduction in surtax rates "to a more reasonable point" and increased income realized on the sale of capital assets due, in the main, "to an exceedingly active and constantly rising security market," were also credited by Mellon with responsibility for the larger tax payments by individuals.

The Treasury's estimates of receipts from the corporation tax and from back taxes were "reasonably accurate," Mellon added. Owing to the unprecedented conditions in the stock market, however, he said, it was impossible to forecast with certainty the receipts from individual income taxes, which were considerably underestimated.

Customs Duties Increase.

Mellon's statement added:

"Customs duties, including the tonnage tax, yielded $602,000,000, as compared with $569,000,000 in 1928. Miscellaneous internal revenue receipts were $607,000,000, a falling off of 14,000,000 from the 1928 figures. The estate tax yielded about the same amount as the previous year, $60,000,000.

"The most significant changes to be noted in 1929 in receipts was the almost complete disappearance of revenue from sale of Government-owned capital assets, downward trend in back-tax collections, loss occasioned by repeal of the automobile tax, modification of the admissions tax and the reduction of the corporation tax rate. On the other hand, there was an increase in receipts from the individual income tax, a record-breaking revenue from the tobacco tax and an unusually large yield of the stamp tax."

Bondsman Gone, Accused Seeks Jail

Pueblo Man Offers Self Up Pending Raising of $2,500.

Pueblo, Colo., June 30 (U.P.).—William "Wild Bill" Hill, of Boone, may or may not be guilty of violating the national prohibition law, but Pueblo city and county officials concur in admitting "Wild Bill" is an honest man.

Hill was arraigned on a charge of operating a still and possession of liquor. His bond was fixed at $2,500. Hill was released, but later one of his bondsmen failed to put in an appearance at the commission's office, and Bill was at liberty with no bond against him.

Hearing of the situation, Hill did what officers claim establishes a precedent in local law cases. He boarded a tram car and went to the county jail where he proposed to wait until his bond could be raised.

SHAKE-UP ADVOCATED IN BORDER PATRONAGE

McKellar, in San Antonio, Avers Agencies Should Be United Under One Officer.

LAX CONDITIONS SCORED

San Antonio, Tex., June 30 (A.P.).—Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, member of the Senate committee investigating Republican patronage in Texas, said today that conditions disclosed in the hearing here have convinced him that all border patronage agencies should be placed under one officer who would be directly responsible to the President. Senators McKellar and Smith W. Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, committee chairman, left here tonight for Dallas, where the hearings are to be resumed tomorrow.

Republican National Committeeman Rene B. Creager, of Brownsville, whose actions have been attacked by witnesses, is to go to Dallas for the hearings. He issued a statement today in which he reiterated "bitter indignance" at the manner in which Senator Brookhart is conducting the investigation.

It seemed probable the Dallas session would last but one day.

Hearing Called "Profitable."

Senator Brookhart declined to make a detailed statement, saying only: "The sessions here have been very profitable."

The Tennessee senator's statement declared, "The Mexican border near here has long been the scene of innumerable law violations. It is no criticism of the border country to say this. It is simply true of all border countries.

"The facts brought out by our committee will, I hope, enable the Congress to pass remedial legislation. It is apparent to me that all Federal activities on the border should be placed under one responsible head who should spend all of his time on the border. The customs, Department of Justice, prohibition, immigration forces and all other Federal agencies should be under the control of this one responsible head and all reports made first to him and through him forwarded to the respective departments."

"He-Man" Needed at Head.

"His men should be under civil service, but under a civil service held for border service alone. There are many qualities other than those of reading and writing needed in employes in this service. You must have a real 'he-man' at the head and every subordinate must be of the same variety and must be incorruptible.

"The present state of law enforcement as disclosed by the hearings is indeed deplorable. Jealousy between bureaus and individual groups, nonobservance of the laws by some of the law officers themselves, failures to prosecute law violators, if not connivance with them, and a general spirit of disregard of all laws seems to permeate all of the Federal enforcement bodies. The entire present political system as practiced on the border is subversive of good government and must be remedied. As long as these appointments are held as political patronage, so long will the present conditions of lawlessness prevail."

Canadian Border Next Objective.

Senator McKellar expressed a desire to investigate conditions along the Canadian border before his committee makes a report.

Clashes between Senator Brookhart and Creager were frequent and bitter when the latter testified before the committee's final session here yesterday. While Creager was discussing the $100,000 fund being raised by Texas Republicans, Senator McKellar stopped a rapid exchange between the two with: "Let me be the oil on the troubled waters."

"Let the Senator (Brookhart) treat me with courtesy and I will give him the utmost courtesy," Creager promised.

"We will have plenty of courtesy out of you," said Senator Brookhart.

"Yes, here in the courtroom," Creager responded.

Among the railroads included in the Chesapeake & Ohio petition are the Nickel Plate, Wheeling & Lake Erie, the Erie, the Pere Marquette, the Hocking Vally, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, an dthe Virginian.

In addition, the Pittsburgh & West Virginia and the Nickel Plate have applied for permission to acquire control of the Wheeling & Lake Erie.

The Wabash has been granted permission by the Interstate Commerce Commission to intervene in the Baltimore & Ohio and Chesapeake & Ohio application but an application to have hearings held jointly on the petitions held jointly was denied.

Jaywalkers Win Champion By Alderman's Experience

Chicago City Father Receives New Philosophy on Law-making by Policeman's Guffaw and Explanation That Citizens' Opposition Nullifies Ordinance.

Chicago, June 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The host of jaywalkers of Chicago have won a fight for the repeal of the ordinance recently enacted to compel them to obey signal lights and cease acting as jays.

The police tried to enforce the law, but found it a task that ended in failure, although the city fathers gave the police an extra two weeks to determine if they could inject discipline into the mobs that refused to obey. Arrests made no impression. The police were overwhelmed.

Alderman Thomas J. Bowler announced tonight that the city council favors repeal of the ordinance, and he will introduce the repeal at the next meeting. A bit of philosophy, acquired as he was jaywalking himself today, influenced Alderman Bowler. He was crossing La Salle at the City Hall. His thoughts were on a meeting of a national safety commission at Washington and on what he had seen on New York's congested streets. He has just returned.

Whiz-z-z! an automobile flashed by in front of the alderman's face. He turned around and saw a policeman on the corner grinning at him.

"Why don't you enforce your jaywalking law?" demanded Alderman Bowler, who was unknown to the policeman.

Pastor's Watch Stolen Hour After Presentation

An hour after the members of the Men's Bible Class of the Trinity M. E. Church had presented to their pastor, the Rev. John Phelps Hand, of 1607 Allison street northwest, a gold watch in acknowledgment of his services to the congregation, the latter reported to police that the gift had been stolen together with his coat and valuable papers.

Dr. Hand told police that after the morning services he drove to his home and left his coat, containing the watch, in his car. He had removed the coat because of the warm weather, he said. After lunch he returned for the coat and found it gone with the watch, sermon notes, letter heads, memoranda and other papers.

SPAIN THANKS BRITAIN FOR RESCUING FLIERS

EMBASSIES ARE VISITED

Madrid, June 30 (U.P.).—The capital continued wildly enthusiastic tonight over the rescue of the Spanish transatlantic fliers, Commander Ramon Franco and his three companions, but the greatest rejoicing will be reserved for Tuesday, when the British airplane carrier, H. M. S. Eagle, will land the four adventurers at Gibraltar.

The Eagle, which picked up the fliers southwest of the Azores Islands after they had drifted about in the Dornier-Wal "16" plane for a week, is scheduled to reach Gabraltar at 9 a. m. Tuesday. Great festivities for rescued and rescuers have been planned from the time they land until the capital receives them with open arms.

Commander Franco and his companions were resting on the British vessel as it sped toward Portugal today, a wireless message received through the British admiralty said. They said they had nothing further to add at present to their story of overshooting the Azores Islands in their flight from the Alcazares seaplane base, landing southwest of the islands and being forced down a second time by lack of fuel when they got their bearings and took off for Horta.

Only Brief Radio Sent.

Only the statement that they were "resting after a very arduous week" was wirelessed from the rescue ship, whose airplanes found the big plane floating some 50 miles southwest of Horta.

Meanwhile, the emotion of the populace here had reached a high pitch. Reacting from deep thankfulness, the crowds swarmed to the British and other embassies this afternoon—to express a tumultuous thanks for the assistance of the various nations in the search for the missing fliers. Portugal, France and Italy also aided in the search.

Headed by a committee from the Aero Club, which included Col. Kindelan, head of the air service, the crowd went first to the French Embassy. The famous transatlantic fliers who recently returned from South America—Jiminez and Iglesias—also were on the committee.

Count San Luis Speaks.

Peretti de la Rocca received the demonstrators at the embassy, where Count San Luis made a short speech of gratitude for the aid of France. The ambassador replied, expressing the sympathy and thankfulness of France for the rescue.

Cheers for the rescued fliers, the French and shouts of "Viva Spain!" ended the demonstration. The applause was deafening when the ambassador appeared on the balcony before the crowd.

The crowd increased with every step as the delegation moved towards the British Embassy. Thousands shouted their enthusiasm and their thanks to the British as the ceremony was repeated at that Embassy.

Celebration Is Growing.

The extent of the celebration appeared to grow with the steady approach of H. M. S. Eagle towards Gibraltar. Although news of the fliers was limited to the rather brief report by Commander Franco, every word from the vessel was repeated a thousand times and every name cheered repeatedly.

Large groups gathered before the Ministries of War and Navy seeking further news and the Aero Club was besieged for word. Comrades of Commander Franco gathered at Cuatro Viento Airdrome outside the capital, where they were joined by the aviator's wife, who constantly had maintained faith that the men would be rescued.

Special editions were published by all newspapers this morning, giving as complete stories of the fliers and their adventure as possible. All expressed gratitude to the nations which aided in the search.

Artist Converts Silo Into Studio

Dane in Rhode Island Puts Battlement Effect Upon Tower.

Cranston, R. I., June 30 (A.P.).—From ensilage to art is the transition of an old Rhode Island silo under the hands of Eric Mangussen, Danish artist and silversmith.

The silo, a 50-foot circular affair, has a battlement effect around the top to distinguish it from other farm buildings, and is connected with the artist's house by a passageway. Within the tower, a circular floor has been laid half way up and a skylight let into the roof. A winding staircase connects the two floors.

Mr. Mangussen has decorated the walls in a series of panels of modern life. Traffic officers, hurrying people, tall buildings and nodding trees brighten the interior of his novel studio. It was conceived in the manner of the famous tower of Copenhagen.

Woodchuck Found Drunk.

Franklin, N. H., June 30 (U.P.).—Seeing his shadow would have been difficult for a ground-hog discovered in a barrel of over-ripe apples in Edward Rayno's cellar here. The woodchuck proved to be intoxicated—the result of applejuice of the hard cider variety, which it had consumed.

POLICE WATCH CUTS TRAFFIC MISHAPS

Police pointed out that motorists generally are cooperating to the fullest extent in observing traffic regulations in an effort to cut down the toll of fatalities and injuries here in motor vehicle accidents during the past few months. A tabulation of traffic cases yesterday revealed that the driving public is observing the rules of the open road and that the bulk of charges arise at street intersections, principally for infractions of signal rules.

Losing control of the automobile that he was driving as it coasted down Good Hope road in front of the German Orphan Home, at Nineteenth street southeast, Willard Hiram Wilson, 25-year-old sailor stationed at the Washington Navy Yard, yesterday afternoon crashed into the machine of Myer C. Handleman, manager of the Standard Cigar & Tobacco Co., slightly injuring the latter's wife, Mrs. Esther M. Handleman, and their 5-year-old daughter, Helen.

The machine driven by Wilson, which is owned by Patrick T. Sombe, of the Naval Air Station, was badly damaged and narrowly missed plunging down a 20-foot embankment at the side of the road. Handleman's car is said nearly to have upset and was damaged to a lesser extent.

Mrs. Handleman received lacerations to the lip and body bruises, while the child was slightly bruised. The Handlemans reside at 3308 Warder street northwest.

Wilson and his companion, Midshipman Harris Petrikin Child, of the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., were arrested by Policeman T. A. Lusby and J. I. Hicks, of the Eleventh Precinct. Wilson was charged with reckless driving and driving without a permit, while the latter charge also was placed against Child.

According to Fred G. Schultz, director of the German Orphan Home, who witnessed the crash, Wilson was coasting at a high rate of speed, and with the clutch of the machine disengaged. Schultz was at the gate of the home greeting visitors to its fiftieth anniversary celebration when the accident occurred.

Negroes Are Injured.

Lucille Wells, 23 years old, of 76 I street southwest, and Frank Green, 31 years old, of 1416 Columbia street southwest, both colored, suffered minor injuries yesterday morning when a car in which they were riding collided with another machine at New Jersey avenue and N street northwest. Marcus Williams, 30 years old, colored, of 1726 Fourth street northwest, driver of their car, and Jerome Johnson, 36 years old, colored, of 630 S street northwest, the other driver escaped injuries.

Herman Winters, 26 years old, of 1240 Eleventh street northwest, received painful body bruises yesterday afternoon when a taxicab he was entering was struck by a street car on G street between Sixth and Seventh streets northwest. Winters said the cab door was pushed forcefully against him by the impact.

Charles W. Jacobs, 21 years old, of 1729 Thirteenth street southeast, suffered lacerations of the right arm, the right hip and his face when the motorcycle he was riding skidded on the wet pavement and hurled him off early last night at Rhode Island avenue northeast near the District line. He was given medical aid at Emergency Hospital.

West Virginia Car in Crash.

Joseph Fitzgerald, 28 years old, of 2228 Decatur street northwest, sustained cuts on the scalp and nose when the automobile he was driving collided with a machine driven by Harry Conley, 30 years old, of Spencer, W. Va., at Connecticut and Rhode Island avenues northwest. His condition at Emergency Hospital was reported as not serious.

Jessie Scott, colored, 17 years old, of 1412 Twenty-third street northwest was cut about the eyes and bruised about the head yesterday afternoon when an automobile in which she was riding was in collision with another automobile at Twenty-second and K streets northwest. She was tresated at Emergency Hospital.

The two automobiles, both of which were damaged, were operated by James C. Fleet, of 3238 Prospect avenue northwest and Robert Taylor, of 2124 F street northwest. The injured girl was a passenger in Taylor's machine.

ONE DEAD, 16 HURT IN 7 AUTO CRASHES

motorists helped Wall right his machine, which careened into a shallow ditch, and changed his tire.

Lewellyn Davis, 21 years old, of 1000 M street northwest, narrowly escaped death yesterday morning when the automobile in which he was riding left the road and overturned after the drvier had lost control of the machine. The accident, in which Davis suffered serious injuries, occurred on the Washington-Rockville xlPe near Germantown, Md.

Davis was brought to Emergency Hospital and treated for possible internal injuries and lacerations. William Ormes, of Germantown, driver of the car, was only slightly injured. The machine left the road while Ormes, police said, tride to pass another machine.

Miss Mary M. Hamilton, 29 years old, of 18 Eighteenth street southeast, was injured seriously about the head and Charles Hoffman, 44 years old, of the same address, suffered a fractured arm when an automobile, driven by Hoffman, crashed into a ditch on the Washington-Marlboro road yesterday afternoon.

Both were brought to Casualty Hospital by passing motorists. Miss Hamilton suffered a fractured nose, cuts to both eyes and cheeks and shock. She remained at the hospital. Police were told Hoffman lost control of the machine when he attempted to pass an-

Nurse Seriously Hurt In Falls Church Crash

Leona Farr, 40 years old, a nurse of 2316 F street northwest, apartment 307, received serious injuries to her head and a compound fracture of the right shoulder when the automobile in which she was riding went off the highway near Falls Church, Va., early last night. She was removed to Emergency Hospital.

Police reported the driver of the machine to be Joseph Erowensky, of 901 C street northwest. Full details of the accident were not available at a late hour last nigh.t

Roumania Bids Swedish Anglers to Strut Catch

Stockholm, June 30 (U.P.).—The Black Sea fish is now to be lured by the latest type of Swedish nets and trolling lines for herring and mackerel. A party of fishermen from Sweden's west coast has been invited by a Roumanian fishery company to show the natives how to get big catches.

For this purpose a Swedish fishing smack has been loaded on a freight vessel and is now en route to Constantinople, from which city the smaller boat will continue along to Constanza. The expedition is in charge of a well-known skipper and deep sea fisherman from the small island of Oeckeroe, in the Gothenburg archipelago, and his yawl is well stocked with all the necessary Swedish paraphernalia.

DISTRICT BEGGARS RECEIVE AID TODAY

Vocational Act Is in Effect; $30,000 Is Appropriated for Education.

AGENCIES ARE PLEASED

Sidewalk mendicants and alms-seekers generally in Washington today join the vast army of unfortunates throughout the Nation who since 1920 have been privileged for rehabilitation through the Federal Board for Vocational Education.

Enacted as a law for individuals incapacitated for ordinary work through loss of sight, arms, legs and other causes, the vocational act recently was extended by Congress to apply to the District of Columbia, effective this morning, with an appropriation of $60,000 for the maintenance of the work here during the first year.

Walter S. Ufford, general secretary of the Associated Charities, yesterday in forecasting an amelioration of street begging conditions here as a result of the new law, pledged the support of the organization he represents to its successful operation.

Charities Welcome Cooperation.

"The Associated Charities and other social agencies in Washington having to do with problems of dependency and need most heartily welcome this newly authorized cooperation of the Vocational Educational Board in trying to solve the long troublesome and difficult problem of public begging which has been so prevalent in the form of peddling lead pencils and other wares by cripples," declared Ufford.

"The main difficulty in the past has been that these unfortunate persons, many of whom are really professional beggars, generally have refused the offered services of private or public agencies, including institutional care or favorable employment," he continued. "They have found it more to their liking to beg money by playing upon the sympathy of the passing crowds, often taking contributions from persons who, if the truth were known, need the coin they toss to the beggar much more than the beggar needs it. It is well known that many of these beggars do not belong here, but travel about from place to place, stopping off here on their way South in the fall or in the spring as they work back North. It is known that many of them make large incomes."

All Can Be Cared For.

"All of these disabled or crippled people who really belong in the city can receive adequate care in our public institutions or with private benevolence if they are willing to accept such service, including the help of the Vocational Board under the new law.

"While the police authorities from time to time have put on an active campaign to rid the city of street beggars, they have found it difficult to obtain convictions under the existing laws and regulations. Efforts to obtain a vagrancy law, supported by the trade bodies and the District authorities, under which the courts might have taken action, thus far have failed.

"What the public wants is the assurance that there is a better way for the street beggar to make a living. There is no reason why Washington, with its abundant resources for the care of its dependents, can not deal with this problem helpfully and intelligently, so that no man or woman need appeal upon the Capital streets to solicit alms."

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

WILL a ten-million-dollar barbed-wire fence stop a gentleman from being forced on the skids? That is the question Mr. Seymour Lowman has placed squarely before the administration. It his counter, from a publicity standpoint, to the flat statements by two news-gathering organizations that, despite official denials, he is to be forced out as Prohibition Enforcement Czar.

Incidentally, in this barbed-wire fence 2,000 miles long on the Canadian border, he has dangled a tempting idea not only before the drys, anxious to to stop rumrunning over that—before Volstead—peaceful boundary, but also before the salesmen of the American Steel & Wire Co. Not to mention the manufacturers of wire clippers, of tanks and of post holes.

* * * *

MR. LOWMAN does strain the imagination a little when he says this idea was conceived by certain dry members of the House—but that he is not at liberty to mention their names! Most of the newspaper men who have been gleaning news and pruning handouts on Capitol Hill will be much surprised at this. So will Representatives Tinkham and LaGuardia. Even John Philip Hill was never as modest as that.

It is all rather surprising, in view of President Hoover's well-known objections to grandstanding, particularly on the prohibition issue. But, on the other hand, Mr. Lowman has made a very shrewd appeal. It has almost limitless possibilities, especially in view of the often demonstrated willingness of Congress to appropriate any amount of money in or out of reason that may be declared necessary to enforce prohibition.

* * * *

FOR the $10,000,000 which Mr. Lowman says would construct the fence in the first place is not all. The power trust would never let the steel wire and wire cutter manufacturers get away with such a plum alone. There would have to be an alarm system, with electric connections, which would show not only when the wires were cut, but where.

One representative of a firearms company here insisted that also the posts should be so equipped that, when the wires were cut close to them, they would discharge a hail of slugs in the general direction of the cut, thus possibly killing the rumrunners and leaving their liquor-laden truck by their bodies as mute evidence that the law must be upheld.

* * * *

IN the last few years, however, Mr. Lowman has built up a tremendous following among the drys. The promptness of the denials that he was to be removed was in sharp contrast with most such reports. It illustrates, incidentally, a very different attitude toward such stories from that entertained at the White House under President Coolidge.

But whether the speed of the denials, despite the conviction on the part of some news gathers that there was some fire under the smoke, indicates merely the changed policy regarding rumor stories at the White House, or whether it indicates a realization of the grip Mr. Lowman's publicity methods have obtained on the drys, it is highly interesting.

And there is no doubt whatever of Mr. Lowman's grip on the drys. The wets deplore the cheering in the House at the statement a young bootlegger had been shot to death. They may deplore Mr. Lowman's statement that the prohibition enforcement officer who riddled a nonbootlegging car containing a woman and children with bullets had a "perfect defense." But the men who compose that big dry majority in the House have demonstrated a fair ability, at least, to guess the political sentiment back in their home districts. If they hadn't they would not have gotten farther than the State legislature. They think there is sentiment back home for going to almost any lengths to enfore prohibition.

* * * *

SO it may be that Mr. Lowman's proposal for a $10,000,000 barbed wire fence will appeal sufficiently to the imagination of the drys out in the country to make it impossible for him to be placed on the skids, oiled and pushed up before him as they may have been.

It will be a good show, either way.

HARMONY OF ACTION IN DRY FORCE SOUGHT

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman and Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran, and of an able prosecutor to succeed Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, the President will have officials of his own selection in the key positions.

Ofstedal is said to be tired of the dry enforcement game. He is now urged for collector at San Francisco, and his chances for the appointment appear good. When he was transferred from California to Washington he was one of the most popular enforcement officers in the Bureau of Internal Revenue on the Pacific Coast.

What the future role of Mrs. Willebrandt is to be now that she is out of the service is the subject of much speculation here. Her friends insist that she still has the ear of the President on prohibition matters and that she is behind the movement to clean out the Treasury end of the enforcement group.

The Hoover idea, according to frequenters of the White House, is for the Government agents in charge of prohibition enforcement to unite efforts for a determined, effective campaign against liquor traffickers. And he feels that such a concerted effort is impossible with the present personnel in the key positions.

Thus far the Antisaloon League and other prohibition organizations have gone along with the President, but there are hints of trouble in the near future. Professional drys are afraid of too many changes. Many of them oppose the program to transfer the Prohibition Bureau to the Department of Justice.

Aside from official activities, there were several developments yesterday in the fight between wets and drys.

Representative George Holden Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts, has started a new antidry campaign. He has written to Attorney General Mitchell demanding that he prosecute the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church for violation of the Federal corrupt practices act. He asks that the officers and the books be summoned for evidence of guilt.

Says Board Is Political.

Mr. Tinkham asserts that the board is a political organization and should make campaign returns. He cites speeches of Dr. Clarence True Wilson to show that the board is political.

The Association against the Prohibition Amendment asserts that 90 per cent of Canada's export liquor is destined for the United States. This statement is based on a survey.

"Based upon official Canadian statistics," the research of the association shows, "$8,000,000 is received by Canada is excise fixes annually on liquor exported to the United States, which, in turn, loses $900,000,000 in revenue."

EDUCATOR IS FOUND BEATEN TO DEATH

Wakefield, announcing his arrival in Atlanta. He planned to spend the night at the Wakefield home, telling his sister he would arrive soon after several business conferences.

Nothing further was heard of the educator until this morning, when he was found slumped over the wheel of his car, which had been parked at a curb on an outlying residential street.

His head had been badly beaten, his chin was crushed and his right ear mangled. Police said his pockets had been turned inside-out and on the floor of the automobile were found two rifled billfolds. Police were unable to learn the amount of money he had when he came to Atlanta.

Japanese Cabinet Expected to Quit

Differences Aired in Recent Treaty Debate Contributory Cause.

Tokyo June 30 (U.P.).—The Japanese Cabinet has decided to resign on Monday, it was understood to day.

The cabinet was shaken recently by the debate over ratification of the Kellogg antiwar treaty, which finally was approved by the privy council and signed by the emperor, with an explanatory reservation attached. The reservation stipulated that the phrase of the treaty, "in the name of their respective peoples," did not apply to Japan, whose emperor signs in his own right. The reservation caused the resignation of Count Uchida, forign minister, who signed the treaty in Paris and insisted it be accepted without reservation.

The treaty question appeared to be only a contributary cause to the cabinet's resignation, however. The Minseito, chief opposition party, has been hammering at the government over the Manchurian incident of June, 1928, when a train under Japanese control was bombed, causing the death of Gen. Chang Tso Lin, northern Chinese war lord. An issue arose between the army and the government, the latter demanding that the officers involved in the incident be demoted. It is traditional in Japan that the army is independent of politics.

It was reported that Yuko Hamaguchi, leader of the Minseito, would be the new premier.

BOND MARKET TONE IS MUCH IMPROVED

Standard Obligations Healthy, Despite Fireworks From Soaring Convertibles.

PRICE AVERAGES ARE LOW

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—Although all the fireworks in last week's bond market came from the skyrocketing convertibles, to the virtual exclusion of interest in other issues, the tone behind standard obligations of the better grades improved. Price averages clung close to the low established late in May, but a few of the pivotal mortgages, particularly in the rail and utility groups, were under some accumulation at attractive yields.

Time money, slightly firmer at the middle of the week, eased again on Friday and appeared at 7½ per cent for the four to six months maturities, the lowest rate since February. The yield rate on bankers' acceptances also declined ⅛. Call money, however, strengthened for the expected mid-year credit pinch, and the flow of funds into the fixed-return securities market was not sizable, although banking institutions were reported as looking with more favor on bonds in the belief that consistently lower time money would appear in the near future.

The public taste for issues offering attractive possibilities for rapid price appreciation was aptly demonstrated in the course taken by the share privilege bonds. Utility and railroad obligations of this type changed hands in enormous amounts on the buying that appeared in the stocks and quotations soared, carrying several convertibles to new high ground on successive days. The most volatile issues were the American & International Telephone 4½s, the former reaching a total volume of around $7,000,000 par value in two sessions, a record turnover for a domestic bond in a single day. Both the telephone bonds made new highs, Atchison 4½s, were also very active and sold in high ground.

New bond offerings of the week totaled $85,046,000, a sharp decline from the $136,251,000 figure a week ago and $117,646,000 in the same week of 1928. The largest issue was a $30,000,000 offering of Canadian Pacific Railway 5 per cent equipment trust certificates on a 5.05 per cent basis. The Mortgage Bank of Chile came into the market with a $20,000,000 offering of 6 per cent bonds at 92. Municipal offerings were light.

Ten Escape Uninjured In Culpeper Home Fire

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., June 30.—The home of J. T. Fraser at Norman, 5 miles from this city, was completely destroyed by fire late tonight. Ten persons in the house escaped without injury. The blaze originated in the kitchen and when discovered had gained considerable headway.

The Culpeper Volunteer Fire Department responded, but was unable to save the structure. Very little insurance was carried.

Police Chief Dies Of Mystery Wound

Ashland Official Is Shot in Head; Found in Back of Pharmacy.

Ashland, Va., June 30 (A.P.).—Mystery surrounds the murder of Harry V. Smeeman, chief of police of Ashland, who was found dead in the rear lot of a pharmacy here early today. He had been shot through the head.

From marks located by the officers here today it appears that Chief Smeeman struggled with some unidentified opponent before he was shot and investigating officers believe he was shot by one man as he struggled with another. His body was found lying prone on the ground with his pistol clasped in his hand. Examination revealed that the pistol had not been fired. The keys to the jail and handcuffs he had carried were missing.

Two suspects, a negro and negress, have been arrested and were held for questioning. The mayor of Ashland has posted a reward of $500 for the apprehension of the slayer.

FRENCH WILL OPEN DEBT DEBATE SOON

ask the chamber at the end of the big debate next week to attach no strings to ratification.

As all parties are split on the question, it is uncertain whether Poincare can get a majority for straight out-and-out ratification; but it is believed that his chances of doing so are greater if the chamber has a chance afterward of registering its reservation by incorporating it in its act of approval.

The entire month of July is expected to be consumed by debate over ratification of the war debt agreement. The finance and foreign affairs commission will devote all this week to their discussion. The following week the general debate will take place on the floor of the chamber which must end either in ratification or a refusal to ratify.

Reservation Firmly Desired.

Passion has been taken out of the question temporarily by Secretary Stimson's diplomatic method of expressing his own affection for France. But this has not lessened the determination of a majority of the deputies to get a reservation on record in some form. This determination is likely to become increasingly evident during the few weeks remaining before the maturity date of the $400,000,000 debt for war supplies falls due on August 1.

No formula has yet been suggested by which a reservation can be avoided either in authorizing the premier to ratify by decree or in approving such ratification. The spirit of conciliation, at least for the moment, is for expressing this reservation in the act of approval rather than the act of authorization.

WEEK'S CURB SALES SMASH ALL MARKS

New Records Are Set Friday and Saturday When Traders Bid Wildly.

PUBLIC UTILITIES STRONG

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—Stocks were turned over in record volume during the past week on the curb exchange as traders bid wildly for public utilities. Sales on Friday were the heaviest on record, with Saturday's turnover establishing a record for a short session.

The market started the week off irregular, but closed with a burst of strength Saturday. Holding of call money rate at 10 per cent, failure of the New York Federal Reserve Bank directors to boost the rediscount rate, merger of the Wright and Curtiss airplane groups and reports of new alignments in the utility field furnished the background for the advance.

New highs were established by more than a dozen utilities. Electric Investors finished the week at 210 with a net gain of 25 points. Electric Bond & Share was another favorite, closing Saturday at a record high price. American Gas & Electric picked up 24 points. Middle West Utilities' sharp rise followed reports of a merger with North American Co.

Stock of Curtiss-Wright, new holding company formed to merge these two airplane groups into the largest aviation organization in the world, was admitted to trading and ranged from 30⅜ to close Saturday at 28¾. Stocks of allied companies, with the exception of Keystone, were inclined to heaviness following announcement of the merger.

Strong spots in the industrial list were Tungsol Lamp and International Projector, the latter scaling new high peaks on reports of capacity production in its plants of talking movie equipment. Libby Owens ran up 15 points on announcement of a stock split-up and increased dividends, but reacted at the close.

Cosden was the leading feature of the oils, shooting up from 64 to 76 and finishing at 70.

Boat Sinks in Alabama Drowning 3 Picnickers

Anniston, Ala., June 30 (A.P.).—Three members of a week-end picnic party were drowned in Choccolocco Creek, near here late today, when a boat capsized. The dead are Tom Ingram, 45; Mrs. Edward Hendrix, 40, and Miss Wilace Harwell, 25. The body of Mrs. Hendrix was recovered about an hour later. The others had not been found late tonight. Two other persons were in the party but first reports did not say whether they were in the boat at the time of the accident.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

GUARD WILL ENTER TRAINING ON JULY 6

1,000 Men of Maryland Unit, in Addition to Officers, to Attend Camp.

DESIGNATE SPECIAL DAYS

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., June 30.—Arrangements have been completed for the field training period of the First Regiment, Maryland National Guard, which will begin on July 6 at Camp Ritchie, Cascade, Md., and continue until July 21. It is expected that about 1,100 men and 65 officers of the regiment will attend the camp. Ten reserve officers also will be assigned to the command during the term of encampment.

Col. D. John Markey, commanding officer of the regiment, announced that with the exception of the three Frederick units and the single Bel Air detachment, which companies will travel to the camp by bus, the remaining sixteen units will go to the camp by rail. The movement last year was almost entirely by bus and the change this year is largely due to the contract signed by the militia bureau of the War Department with the Railway Association for movement of the National Guard of the entire country.

Cascade Dam Being Repaired.

It was also announced that two forces of men are repairing the dam at Cascade, which was washed out. Work is expected to be completed during the first week that the regiment is in camp. The upper Lake Royer, which is almost 10 acres in extent, and which is undamaged, will be used for swimming and boating purposes until the main lake is ready for occupancy.

A number of special days will be observed at the encampment this year with governor's day heading the list, July 12 has been set as the date upon which Gov. Ritchie, commander in chief of the Maryland National Guard will visit the camp, which has been named in his honor and be a guest of the regiment. A special review and parade will be held in the evening, during which the governor will present to the regiment new regimental colors. This distinctive silk flag which has just been received from the War Department, contains the insignia of the First Regiment which was approved last year by the Secretary of War. The insignia, is embroidered in colored silk on the flag and displays in symbol form, the history of the regiment from 1861 to date.

Maryland's chief executive will also present golden-bronze medals to about 150 men of the regiment who have turned in perfect attendance records at the 48 armory drills held during the past year.

Sunday, July 14, will be known as veterans' day during which a special review of the regiment will be tendered all the veterans in Maryland. This custom was inaugurated last year as a tribute to these men and it will be repeated again in light of the gratitude expressed following its inception last year. Special invitations have been forwarded to the G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars and it is expected that this event will bring together one of the largest groups of service men that has ever convened in Maryland.

Banners to Be Awarded.

Friday, July 19, will also be featured by special observances, when special marksmanship insignias, won during the encampment, will be presented. At this time the various regimental banners awarded yearly to the best companies for excellence in rifle marksmanship, machine gun marksmanship, close order drill, pistol marksmanship, combat firing, best kitchen and best guard company will also be awarded.

A new training feature this year will be the overland march of the transportation section of the service company, at Silver Spring, Md., under the command of Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, to the camp. Officers and men are looking forward to the opening of the camp with great interest.

Class of 11 Confirmed In Church at Berryville

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., June 30.—Right Rev. H. St. George Tucker, Bishop of the Diocese of Virginia, was preacher and administered the rights of confirmation to a class of eleven in Grace Episcopal Church this morning.

The Rev. Vincent Franks, the rector, conducted the services, and Mme. Eleanor Schloshauer Reynolds, of Berlin, Germany, one time member of the Chicago Opera Company, but now giving her time to concert singing, was the soloist. Mme. Schloshauer is in this country on a short visit to her relatives.

State Senator Mapp to Speak.

Chatham, Va., June 30 (Special).—State Senator G. Walter Mapp will make another address here on July 4. He came here several weeks ago, but owing to a misunderstanding his headquarters gave no previous notice and the gubernatorial candidate spoke to a small crowd.

Bank Depositors May Get Dividend

Initial Payment Is Expected for Customers of Defunct Virginia Institution.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., June 30.—There has just been entered in the hustings court of this city an order under which Bernard Syme, receiver for the Union Trust & Mortgage Co., will within the next few weeks proceed to make the first disbursement of funds to depositors since the bank went into receivership last fall. The payment to the depositors will be on the 10 per cent basis as ascertained by the audit of accounts and the assets available for the dividends. The report listing general deposits and preferred claims shows that approximately $162,000 will be available for the initial dividend. Just what part of this amount will be disbursed will be determined when the court has passed upon the preferred claims.

It is said that two weeks or more will be required for the detail work of passing upon all claims. The decision of the court which will determine the amount to be paid on preferred claims will regulate the amount of funds which will be available for the 10 per cent payment to general depositors.

Real Estate Transfers Filed in Talbot County

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., June 30.—The following real estate transfers have been recorded in the office of the clerk of the court for Talbot County: W. D. J. Morris to Charles H. D. Hopkins, lot in St. Michaels; James D. Harper to John I. Eyter, farm on Broad Creek, near St. Michaels, containing 99 acres; Maud T. Hastings to George F. Adams, 16 acres near Trappe; Beulah M. Fairbank to Geraldine Hall Porter, the Wier Point Farm, containing 102 acres; C. Howard Lloyd to Dr. W. S. McElroy, farm near Bruffs Island in Miles River Neck, about nine miles from Easton, containing 203 acres; Sallie B. Kimball to Louise A. Holeman, three lots in St. Michaels.

Teachers Honor Resigned Official.

Easton, Md., June 30 (Special).—The teachers of public schools of Talbot County, through Prof. J. H. Caldwell, principal of the St. Michael's High School, yesterday presented Prof. Oscar M. Fogle, who for a number of years has been superintendent of schools of Talbot County, with a white gold wrist watch. Prof. Fogle has resigned and will enter wider fields of education. He is held in high esteem by the teachers, patrons and pupils of the schools of Talbot County.

3 CITIES IN VIRGINIA REPORT DEBIT RISE

Others of Richmond Reserve District Record Declines From Year Ago.

SEASONAL SLUMP SHOWN

Richmond, June 30 (A.P.).—Four Virginia cities reported lower, and three cities greater aggregate debits to individual, firm and corporation accounts for the four weeks ending June 12, this year, than for the corresponding period last year, it is shown in the monthly review of business conditions issued by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond.

Danville, Lynchburg, Newport News, Portsmouth reported lower debits, and Norfolk, Richmond and Roanoke reported higher debits. Greater debits during the four weeks ending June 12 than during the four weeks ending May 15, both this year, were reported by Danville, Portsmouth and Roanoke. Lower debits for the latter period were reported by Lynchburg, Newport News, Norfolk and Richmond.

Total debits during the four weeks ended June 12, May, 15, 1929, and June 15, last year, respectively, follow for the various cities: Danville, $7,560,000 $6,772,000 and $7,740,000; Lynchburg, $17,017,000, $19,017,000 and $17,469,000; Newport News, $9,592,000, $9,778,000 and $9,600,000; Norfolk, $56,952,000, $37,832,000 and $56,171,000; Portsmouth, $5,058,000, $4,978,000 and $5,060,000; Richmond, $118,768,000, $125,883,000 and $113,101,000, and Roanoke, $29,211,000, $28,640,000 and $26,513,000.

Aggregate debits given by the 24 reporting cities of the district totaled $1,213,762,000 for the four weeks ended June 12, 1929, a decrease of 4.5 per cent under the debits aggregating $1,270,938,000 reported for the preceding four weeks this year ended May 15, the review said. This decline was largely seasonal, due to holidays. Eighteen cities reported lower totals for the four weeks ended June 12, most of the decreases being relatively small, but larger totals were reported by six cities, Danville, Roanoke, Portsmouth, Va.; Charleston, W. Va.; Durham, N. C., and Spartanburg, S. C.

It is interesting to recall, the review continued, that a year ago only seven cities reported larger debits for the June period, in comparison with the May period, and among that seven Roanoke, Spartanburg, Charleston and Durham are listed.

Mothers' Vacation Home In Talbot Ready to Open

Easton, Md., June 30.—New Bonfield, on the Tred Avon River, near Oxford, Talbot County, the Vacation Home for run down mothers and their children, that has been donated by Carroll Downes, of Philadelphia, in memory of his wife, will open next Tuesday with fifteen guests, and will each week this summer have fifteen persons a week there at Downes' expense.

A handsome new house has been built on the site of the historic old Bonfield mansion, and it has been perfectly equipped and furnished and is now ready for company. The plan of accepting the beneficiaries for the vacations is all perfected and is considered to be a model of its kind. There is no cost to those who come and they will be treated just like they were guests in a hotel. Downes has been widely commended. The whole plan is a memorial to Mrs. Downes, who died a little more than a year ago.

VIRGINIA WEDDINGS.

Petersburg, Va., June 30 (Special).—Miss Virginia Bell Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Smith, of Franklin, Va., was married to Dr. Emerson Macauley Babb, of Ivor, Va., son of Mrs. Hannah Babb. The ceremony was performed in the High Street Methodist Episcopal Church by the pastor, the Rev. George H. Spooner, assisted by the Rev. S. Shepp, jr., of Ballston, Va. The bride entered the church with her father by whom she was given in marriage. Her matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. G. W. Goodwyn, jr., of Edenton, N. C. Livingston D. Babb, of Ivor, was best man. The ushers were W. H. Smith, of Richmond, and E. S. Smith, jr., of Washington, D. C., brothers of the bride, and the Rev. D. E. Wood, of Petersburg. Dr. and Mrs. Babb left on a wedding tour.

Miss Mildred Sue Barker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thornton B. Barker, of Sunbury City, and Charles Claude Ramsey, of Henry, Va., were married in the home of the parents of the bride. The Rev. Dr. Curry, the bride's pastor, officiated. Miss Hattie Rudd, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and Sulvey Lee Barker, brother of the bride, was best man. Little Miss Frances Powers, cousin of the bride, carried the ring on a heart shaped pillow of white lace. The couple left on an extended motor trip.

The PENNSYLVANIA announces 48 hour Coast to Coast Service by RAIL and AIR

"... the word 'railroad' no longer is adequate to describe the transportation service which up-to-date railroads now offer to the public. We are no longer railroads alone; we are transportation companies ... We must be prepared to offer you railroad service where it is most desirable, or bus service, or service by airplane ..."

GENERAL W. W. ATTERBURY,
President of the Pennsylvania Railroad

THE Pennsylvania Railroad has proceeded with characteristic attention to the safety and comfort of the traveling public in its participation in the first 48 hour Coast to Coast Rail-Air Service—effective July 7th from New York—July 8th from Port Columbus and Los Angeles, daily thereafter.

The Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc. — with which the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Santa Fe Railway have associated themselves in this new project — has engaged in the most searching investigation and preparation.

Under the supervision of a staff of experts—headed by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh—air routes have been selected, mapped, tested by flights. Millions of dollars have been spent in the building of extensive airports. Airplanes have been most rigorously tested.

A private meteorological system has been developed ... also an elaborate system of communications—making it possible for planes in flight to receive weather reports compiled from observations at 82 different points ...

In short, everything possible has been done to ensure in this new enterprise the highest standards of speed, security, comfort — such as mark the daily operations of "the largest fleet of trains in America."

For information, etc., phone Main 9140. Sundays, holidays phone National 7370. A. B. Smith, General Passenger Agent, 613 14th St., N.W., Washington, D. C.

Aboard The Airway Limited, luxurious Pennsylvania Flyer which carries passengers between New York and Port Columbus in the new 48 hour coast to coast Service, you have the conveniences of a private club—unexcelled dining service, observation car, club car ...

Lindbergh will pilot the first plane July 8th! .. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is Consulting Aeronautical Engineer to the Pennsylvania Railroad and Chairman of the Technical Committee of the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc. He has been active for many months in the work of preparation.

Arlington County Religious Leaders Say Support of Public Is Won.

BUDGET WILL BE $3,000

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Sponsored by religious leaders of 35 churches and Sunday schools of the county, a drive will be launched beginning the week of July 7 to raise the necessary funds for the establishment of week-day religious education in the public schools throughout the county, according to an announcement by Charles F. Kincheloe, member of the State Council of Religious Education.

For the past two years the Arlington County Council of Religious Education, formerly known as the Arlington County Sunday chool SAssociation, has been formulating plans for the work and this drive is the result of their work.

Much time has been spent by the executive committee informing the people of the plan and the benefits to be derived, and, according to Mr. Kincheloe, the movement has today the approval of more than 85 per cent of the pastors and Sunday school superintendents and workers of the county and already more than one-half of the estimated budget of $3,000 has been pledged.

The work will start in the fourth and fifth grades of the public schools, and, if time permits, will be extended to take in the third and sixth grades. Only those children whose parents desire it will be included in the classes. The present plans provide for the classes to be held in the churches or other rooms as near to the schools as possible. The classes will be for one hour.

The plans as now formulated provide for half-day sessions once a week throughout the school term of ten months.

The communities where it is proposed to carry on the work include Livingston Heights, Cherrydale, Ballston, Clarendon, Potomac, Arlington, Aurora Hills, Fort Myer Heights, Aurora Heights, Lyon Park, Virginia Highlands and Ashton Heights.

Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, has announced that beginning today he will inaugurate an educational campaign for the further curbing of tuberculosis within Arlington County.

This campaign will be in addition to and will in no way interfere with the monthly clinics now carried on in the county; instead it is proposed to increase the number of clinics held during the year.

A series of letters have been prepared by Dr. Chichester and will be sent to every home in Arlington County, in addition to circulars covering the entire program of the campaign.

Dr. Chichester further announced that he will seek the cooperation of the churches, schools and all civic organizations in the county to fight against the disease.

The records in the office of the county commisioner of revenue show that during the past week six certificates were issued for the erection of new buildings representing an expenditure of $31,000.

Before actual work is started on any of the buildings, the certificate will go to the county engineer, and, after the approval of the zoning commissioner is

The monthly meeting of the Arlington County Civic Federation will be held tomorrow night in the Lyon Park Community Hall at 8 o'clock.

Among the projects to be discussed are the resolution now before the organization for the receding of Arlington County back to the District of Columbia and plans to have representatives at the public hearing to be held in the Circuit Court of Arlington County Wednesday morning, July 24, on the petition now before the court for the establishment of Arlington County as one sanitary district.

Owing to Thursday being a holiday, the Arlington Rotary Club will meet Friday at noon at the Washington Golf and Country Club. The president, Dr. R. N. Sutton, announces that there will be a special meeting of the aims and objects and program committees at his home at Lyonhurst, Arlington County, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

The Edward Douglas White Council, No. 2473, Knights of Columbus, will meet Wednesday night in the auditorium of the St. Charles School, at Clarendon at 8 o'clock. Plans for the annual picnic to be held at Linton Hall, Sunday, August 11, will be discussed.

The Potomac town council will hold its semi-monthly meeting tonight in the town hall at 8 o'clock. Mayor Walter B. Fulton will preside.

Mrs. Harry A. Fellows, of Falls Church, has been reelected president of the Robert E. Lee Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy. Other officers are: Mrs. John Edwards, first vice president; Mrs. Spence Thorne, second vice president; Mrs. W. M. Herring, secretary; Mrs. Otis Turner, assistant secretary; Mrs. Charles Lee, treasurer; Mrs. Harry Payne, registrar, and Mrs. John Henry, historian. The chapter has voted to discontinue meetings until September.

The annual dance recital of the dancing pupils of Miss Katherine Toulotte will be held in the Lyon Park Community House tonight at 8 o'clock. A feature of the program will be a specialty dance and tableaux, "The Wedding of the Painted Doll."

The Falls Church school board will meet tomorrow night to discuss the appointment of teachers and the budget for the coming school year.

The young people of the Falls Church Presbyterian Endeavor Society will hold their annual banquet tomorrow in the church parlors. The pastor, the Rev. A. B. Altfather, will be the toastmaster. The president, George S. Thompson, will deliver the address of welcome. Miss Mabel N. Thurston, of Washington, will be the principal speaker. Music will be furnished during the evening by Miss Evangeline McGroaty, Mrs. Mary E. Ryer and William S. Frick. The dinner will be served by women of the church.

Col. Lindbergh and Bride Arrive in Kansas City

Kansas City, June 30 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh arrived at the municipal airport here tonight at 7:50 o'clock after a flight from St. Louis.

The flier is inspecting the route of the transcontinental air transport, for which he is the technical adviser, and he hopes to be in Los Angeles by July 8, when the new coast-to-coast air-rail service is inaugurated.

FOUR DEAD, TWO HURT IN AIRPLANE CRASHES

into a 200-foot radio casting mast of station WAIU, north of here, early today and was instantly killed. His plane fell upside down, pinning him beneath it.

Albert Muncie and Robert Bass, caddies at the Elks Country Club, pulled Robey's body from the wreckage. A lighted flashlight was grasped firmly in the pilot's hand, leading to the belief that he had been having trouble with the plane and was trying to locate it.

According to Charles Horn, who witnessed the crash, the ship struck the top of the east mast, tearing off the left wing and then crashed into the center of the west mast.

In a pocketbook found in Robey's clothing was a card asking that in event of accident, Mrs. W. A. Robey, of Holden, Mo., be notified. This is his mother, it was believed.

W. M. Robertson, Department of Commerce aviation inspector for this territory, is making an investigation of the accident.

NEW OWNERS TAKE OVER WATER UTILITY

Alexandria Concern Will Pass Today From Hands of City's Residents.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 323.

The Alexandria Water Co., the stock of which has been owned locally for almost 80 years, will pass into the hands of the American Waterworks & Electric Co., Inc., today. An offer to purchase the stock of the company, provided not less than 95 per cent was offered, was made several months ago, and negotiations have been conducted with the stockholders, some of whom are nonresidents who inherited their stock from their Alexandria relatives. The offer of the waterworks company for the shares is a little more than $300 each, to be paid in cash or in stock of the waterworks company, at the option of the seller. There are 4,000 shares outstanding.

Arrangements for the transfer have now been completed, and the new company will formally take over the property today. The board of directors, which is composed of Urban S. Lambert, Arthur H. Bryant, Clyde C. Larmond, C. S. Taylor Burke, Carroll Pierce, George S. French and Worth Hulfish, will meet at 11 o'clock this morning and the members will tender their resignations. It is understood the present force of employes, including Urban S. Lambert, president, and Charles E. Tennesson, secretary and treasurer, will be retained by the new company, although their titles may be changed.

The distinction of being the oldest member of the board of directors goes to George S. French, who has served on the board for 48 years.

The Alexandria Water Co. was incorporated March 22, 1850, and within the last few years has extended its service not only throughout the city but to several of the nearby suburbs and to portions of Arlington and Fairfax Counties. It will be the second public utility of this city to pass into the hands of large corporations in the last few years, the other being the electric company, now known as the Virginia Public Service Co. There remains now only the gas plant, which is owned and operated by the city.

The Belle Haven Country Club members have arranged a Fourth of July program as follows:

Swiming race for men and boys over 14, race for boys under 14, and diving contest for the men and also for the ladies.

A series of races and games for children under 12 years of age, when prizes will be given the winners, as well as in the swimming and diving contests.

A special dinner has beten atrranged for the occasion with a special menu for the children. After the dinner an elatborate display of fireworks will be given.

The events will commence at 4 p. m., an dthe judges will be announced shortly.

Mrs. Ella Cordelia Gillingham, aged 86 years, died on Saturday at her home at Franconia, Fairfax County, and the body was brought to the Funeral Home of Cunningham, Kennedy & Watkins. The funeral will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from Pohick Church, with burial at Pohick.

The monthly business and social meeting of the Westminster Bible Class of the Second Presbyterian Church will be held at 8 o'clock this evening at the Westminster Building, with the teacher, Frank W. Noxon, in charge.

The Alexandria Garden Club will meet tomorrow morning with Mrs. William B. Ord at her home at Wellington. given, the permit is issued from the county engineer's office.

Easton Mayor Succumbs To Heart Attack in Home

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., June 30.—James Clark, mayor, died at his home here tonight from heart disease. He had been confined to his rooms for the last week.

He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Carrie Fiah, of Eaton, and a dughter, Mrs. Margaret Clark, of Baltimore. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Mother Who Let Girl Die Held for Manslaughter

Freehold, N. J., June 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.). Mrs. Ethel Schabelitz, of Port Monmouth, who let her 13-year-old daughter, Marie, die a week ago without medical attention because she believed it was right to trust only in God and that the child would surely die if a doctor were called, was arrested today on a charge of manslaughter and locked up in the Monmouth County Jail here.

Mrs. Schabelitz refused the offer of County Detective Len Shields to see about a lawyer and bail. To seek bail or the aid of a lawyer, she declared, would not be trusting in God. "No lawyer can help me," she said. "How could he help me without the spirit of God in him?" So it appears likely that Mrs. Schabelitz will remain in jail, at least until July 11, when the grand jury meets.

BARBERS IN FAVOR OF SUNDAY CLOSING

Cumberland Mayor Speaks at Maryland and District Convention.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 30.—The second annual convention of the Maryland and District of Columbia Chapter of the Associated Master Barbers of America was held here today. Mayor Thomas W. Koon gave the address of welcome and told the barbers he favored barber inspection at stated periods.

A resolution was passed favoring the closing of barber shops throughout the State on Sundays. It was announced that classes are being formed over the State among organized barbers to give them opportunity to get the required education to raise the standard of barbering, according to the curriculum laid down by the Education Council of the National Association of Master Barbers.

Fred Driscoll, of Cumberland, was elected president to succeed Carl Becker, of Baltimore. Other officers chosen are:

Vice presidents, Louis Coonin, of Baltimore; John L. McGeady, of Cumberland; David L. Miller, of Cumberland; Louis Berger, of Baltimore, and James Arnold, of Baltimore; secretary-treasurer, Joseph E. Zito, Baltimore; legislative committee, Louis Rueling, of Baltimore; chairman, Louis Berger and Louis Coonin, of Baltimore; T. O. Swain, Calvin Childers and Adolph Duerr, of Cumberland.

Warrants Charge Illegal Malt Sale

Danville Police Take Action Against Two Concerns; Hearing Tomorrow.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., June 30.—Warrants have been brought by the police against Hamlin & Hamlin and Turner Brothers, local wholesalers, who are alleged to have violated the State prohibition law by selling a malt mixture from which, the police say, "fair results" can be obtained by those who care to make home brew. The cases have been set for a hearing Tuesday.

Action was taken by the police on account of complaints, but from what source was not divulged.

Basis for action was Section 16 of the Layman act, which bans the sale of malt extracts or even its possession outside the home. Officers are permitted to seize such material and to detroy it.

POINCARE'S POWER.

Premier Poincare, of France, holds in the palm of his hand the power to end the threatened crisis over payment of the $400,000,000 American war-stocks bill. If the French politicians balk at ratifying the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement, Poincare can ratify it by decree. He has the power and the courage to act if he chooses to do so.

This extraordinary power was given to Poincare by the French Parliament in June, 1926. It was a time of financial crisis with the franc becoming worthless and confidence in the financial integrity of the government at low ebb. Constructive measures necessary to insure stability and the sacrifices incident to meeting obligations or paying unwelcome taxes were made targets of attack by the politicians, who basked in the momentary favor of popular acclaim as a result of their outbursts. The same tactics may be observed in the recent outbursts in the French chamber over payment of France's obligations to America.

Poincare had been asked to assume the almost impossible duties of finance minister. He had a definite idea as to the procedure to follow and he was willing to risk his political life to rescue his country from its plight. But he knew that it was hopeless to expect popular support for sound measures in the face of perpetual attacks by the politicians. The need for taxes, the imperative need for France to live up to solemn obligations would find natural endorsement among the French people under normal circumstances, but such measures Poincare well knew could not withstand the barrage of eloquent speeches advocating in their stead the usual line of quack remedies such as reliance on honor, or justice, or patriotism in place of the more prosaic but more necessary financial measures to keep the country's credit intact.

So, Poincare imposed a condition before accepting the portfolio of finance minister. That condition was that the parliament give him power in advance to take any financial action which might be imperatively necessary, by decree. Parliament voted Poincare that power. He accepted his task reinforced with that extraordinary power. He has never made use of it, but he could in the present emergency use it. Ratification by Premier Poincare of the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement would be binding and effective irrespective of the action of the French chamber.

In order to be doubly sure of Poincare's power in this respect, leading French jurists were recently brought together to ascertain if any legal obstacle now existed against the exercise of the power. The radical movement in France last year, led by Caillaux at Angiers, brought about the resignation of radical ministers, including Herriot and Sarraut, and made a break in Poincare's grip. The jurists have decided that this incident did not affect the grant of power by parliament. It was also found that the power was not affected by the fact that Poincare is now performing the duties of Premier without portfolio.

Poincare knows that there is no hope of persuading President Hoover to postpone the payment of the $400,000,000 war stocks debt. He knows that Mr. Hoover has no legal power to do so without the consent of Congress. He knows that France must pay $400,000,000 to America on August 1 next if the Mellon-Berenger agreement is not ratified. And by agreement between France and Great Britain a cash payment to America would mean a cash payment of a sum almost as large to England.

If the French chamber, under such circumstances, will not act and spare France the need of parting with huge sums, Poincare may act on his own initiative. Unless he goes down within the next few days under the onslaughts of the politicians the Mellon-Berenger agreement will be ratified.

SOIL CONSERVATION.

A new movement has been launched to curb erosion of soil from American farms. Heretofore the problem has been left to the Department of Agriculture and the agricultural boards of the various States. The creation of a permanent organization for soil and water conservation by eight States of the Southwest should stimulate other agricultural sections of the country to action.

The Department of Agriculture began its extensive investigation into soil erosion in 1917. It was found that the soil of American farms is being washed into the sea at an alarming rate. Recently soil erosion stations have been established to determine what methods of prevention are most applicable in each section of the country. If the States cooperate in this program there is hope that research will be accelerated and that agriculture interests will be awakened to the seriousness of erosion losses.

H. H. Bennett, specialist of the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, told the conference at College Station, Tex., of entire counties in the Southeastern States in which the agricultural lands have been practically denuded of soil by erosion. Unless this destruction is checked by scientific methods, he said, farmers in those localities may be barely able to exist on their depleted lands. Estimates are that more than 1,500,000,000 tons of soil are carried to the sea from American farms and pastures each year at an annual loss of more than $2,000,000,000. If the present rate of erosion is allowed to continue, it is estimated that 75 per cent of the cultivated land will be unproductive in 50 years. The loss is not immediately perceptible, but over a period of years the whole productive surface of a farm can be carried away.

Soil erosion damage can be prevented. Farmers who look to the future are sodding their pastures and terracing their cultivated fields, thus saving water and soil at the same time. The principal need at present seems to be application of the known remedies to the land. Farm owners need to be educated to the benefits of terracing and sodding. Since this can be done better by the States than by the Government, the cooperative plan inaugurated by Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, Kansas, Louisiana, Colorado and Missouri should commend itself to the other agricultural States.

THE EAGLE'S CATCH.

The world rejoices with Spain in the rescue of Maj. Ramon Franco and his flying companions, Maj. Eduardo Gonzales Gallarza, Capt. Julio Ruiz de Alda and Sergt. Pedro Madariaga. A week ago Friday they took off from Alcazares Air Field, Cartagena, bound for New York and the progress of the flight was followed to a point off the coast of Portugal where the sound of the plane's motor was heard by a ship early Saturday morning. Then came a long silence which extended until yesterday when the British airplane carrier Eagle announced that a rescue had been effected 100 miles southeast of the Island of Santa Maria off the tip of the Azores Archipelago. The fliers were unharmed by their week's exposure to the elements, and their plane, slightly damaged, was salvaged.

The daring Spaniards have written a chapter in the interesting book of adventure, but they have contributed no new material to the book of aerial progress. The hardships they suffered and their dramatic rescue emphasizes the fact that aeronautics has not progressed to a point where commercial transatlantic flying is either practical or safe. It probably will be days, and it may be never, that the cause of the mishap will be known, but even if it is found possible to ascribe a definite cause for the disaster the flight will have contributed little to the advancement of aviation. The plane presumably was the best that could be obtained for the flight. That it failed proves conclusively that present-day planes are not suited to transatlantic flying.

The fact that the flight failed, however, does not detract from the admiration the world holds for the daring Spaniards. They proved their courage and, in having sustained themselves in good physical shape for a week while tossed about on the sea in a cockle-shell, their resourcefulness. Their rescue was a triumph for the airplane carrier Eagle, whose task was no less difficult than the proverbial search for a needle in a haystack.

SURVEY OF PROHIBITION.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran has decided, with the approval of the Treasury Department, to use most of the $50,000 which Congress appropriated to educate Americans concerning prohibition, for compilation of statistics on the subject. A survey of what has been accomplished under the eighteenth amendment is reported to be already under way. Activities of the Federal, State and local governments will be considered.

Little accurate information is available as to the effect prohibition has had on the country. The drys quote statistics to show that the antiliquor laws have saved the country billions of dollars and added to the peace and happiness of its citizens. The wets, on the other hand, point to the high cost of enforcing the Volstead act, the loss of liquor taxes and innumerable other factors to show that prohibition has been extremely costly, while the evil of alcoholism remains unabated.

So much unreliable information has been unloosed by both sides that the prudent man believes none of it. Prohibition has probably caused more unfounded talk, in official as well as unofficial circles, than any other question before the American people. Yet when the Federal crime commission recently began its work the first difficulty noted was the lack of accurate statistics on law enforcement in this or any other field. It is time that the people be given accurate information on the subject. If Mr. Doran can do that, he will be rendering a service to the whole Nation.

It was not announced how the department intends to assemble its information. There are certain phases of prohibition for which accurate figures are perhaps available, but since rum-running is an illicit occupation, the extent to which the country has been flooded with liquor since enactment of the eighteenth amendment can not be accurately ascertained. What exact information about the liquor traffic can the survey reveal? Will it be an impartial presentation of facts, or statistical propaganda based only on the favorable side of the eighteenth amendment? Will the survey be made by prohibition agents or scientifically trained investigators? The survey can be made enlightening, or it can be used as merely a means of spending the $50,000 appropriation for educational purposes. But in any event it is encouraging to find that the survey is to come before the educating.

PEACE IN CHINA.

The Chinese have a happy faculty of settling their disputes without bloodshed. Three weeks ago a war cloud of the darkest augury hovered over China. The Nationalist government had ordered the arrest of Marshal Feng Yuhsiang, who controlled the vast northwestern territories. To the Western World war seemed certain, since both factions had declared their hostility and had moved nearly 500,000 soldiers to strategic positions. The struggle was of signal importance to the new Chinese government. Unification of the country under a single regime was challenged.

Now the war clouds have broken up and are apparently floating away with hardly a trace of their former forebodings. It is not certain why Marshal Feng has yielded to a peaceful settlement. Rumors are afloat to the effect that some of his allies deserted him, but all that can be ascertained is that the general has accepted a money settlement and will leave the country. President Chiang Kaishek has announced that Marshal Feng will become commissioner of foreign economic affairs for the Nanking government. He will be given $100,000 for "traveling expenses," and the Nationalists will also furnish $3,000,000 for payment of back wages to Feng's troops.

President Chiang has appointed Yen Hsishan, who is known as the model governor of the Shansi province, to take over command of the territory being relinquished by Feng. The new governor has been associated with the Nationalists and he may be expected to bring the northwestern territories under complete authority of the existing government. If the plan is carried through without a hitch China will again be unified with a capital at Nanking. President Chiang has expressed belief that the resignation of Marshal Feng marks the end of the old-style militarists and that opposition to his government is at an end. Such a view is indeed optimistic at this time, but it is certain that the elimination of Feng is a long step forward for China.

The situation will no doubt encourage the Nationalists to put an end to the military system. China will not be secure from internal war until the entire armed force is responsible only to the central government. Feng was the last outstanding military chief who opposed President Chiang but others may rise to take his place as long as they have the nucleus of an army under their direct control. Yet the country can not be demilitarized in a day, and undue haste may provoke resistance. The test of the Chiang Kaishek regime will no doubt come in its attempt to substitute civil for military authority.

GREAT FALLS.

By ELMER EUGENE BARKER.
(In New York Times.)

The past year has been crucial for one of our historic and beautiful streams—the Potomac. If we could let our imaginations personify this stream in a river god as did the pagans of old, we might say the Fates have been preparing for great changes in his destiny. But the decision is not yet. What the Fates or Congress (or some other group of men) have to decide is whether the water god of the Potomac is to be enslaved and henceforth made to toil at turning turbines, or whether he is to play with city weary humans, sport with them in his rapids, lure their canoes to sylvan channels overhung with forest boughs and continue to pour the waters, thundering as of yore, over the great cataract as a spectacle.

There is no denying these waters possess very great potential hydro-electric power that could be put to service. And one can not deny the outstanding scenic beauty and grandeur of the same portions of this stream and their value for men's recreation. The economic values are being weighed against the esthetic and recreational values—truly a task, because these different sorts of things are not to be measured by the same weights and gauges.

Not notable for height, nor at some seasons of the year volume even, it is the cataract together with its setting that creates a noble picture. The wide-flung cataract tumbling in white foam through many a channel, uniting at the foot of the rocks to rush into the ravine far below; the forest background; the wooded island on the Maryland side, with its own channels and lesser cataracts—these all combine to create an ensemble that is as impressive as it is charming. To one person it is the loveliness of the foaming waters that captivates; to another it is the extent and ruggedness of the black rocks through which the waters have cut their way that impresses; to yet another it is the might of the surging torrent in the gorge, like Niagara's, that fills him with awe.

As long ago as 1901 a congressional commission made plans for developing Washington into one of the most beautiful capitals in the world. It advocated a park development here, urging that "the beauty of the scenery along the route of this proposed noble riverside improvement is so rare, and in the minds of the commission of so great value, not only to all Washington but to all visitors, American and foreign, that it should be safeguarded in every way. No building should be allowed between the drives and the river, and no change should come to pass in the character of the canal that will tend to transfer its primitive character and quaint beauty. The canal has a charm of its own."

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission has a definite plan to save this region as one of the show places of America. It urges that the Federal Government acquire the entire gorge from the top of the Virginia bluffs to the hilltops in Maryland and from Georgetown to and including the Great Falls, a strip of 10 to 12 miles. This area would then be connected directly with the park system of Washington.

A great park there assuredly will be along the Potomac River above Washington, but as to its nature, that will be determined by the action of Congress. If power development is permitted, there will be a park whose main feature is a placid lake with irregular wooded shores and some remnant of the palisades, gorge and woodlands; if provision is made for a national park to develop the river in its natural state, excluding power development until such time as it is felt that electrical energy is more needed than its scenery and recreational advantages, then there shall be preserved a section of scenery wide in extent and unsurpassed in the Northeast.

To such a world traveler as Ambassador Viscount Bryce it was inconceivable that we should ever even think of destroying or marring the cataract. He said: "No European city has so noble a cataract in its vicinity as the Great Falls of the Potomac, a magnificent piece of scenery, which you will, of course, always preserve."

MEXICAN SUSANS.

Growing wild along highways and byways of old Mexico may be found masses of an unpretentious little plant somewhat resembling in form our common black-eyed susan, although the center is yellow and the petals are reddish.

About 1858 some seeds of this native Mexican, says Nature Magazine, found their way to the West Indies and thence to the nursery of M. Grazau at Bragneres, France. But either these were not the usual seeds of this simple species or else the plants responded wonderfully well to rich nursery soil and changed climate, because instead of producing the ordinary daisy-like type of blossoms, double flowers of brilliant hue rewarded M. Grazau's faith in trying out this stranger.

M. Grazau called the attention of the great French flower breeder, Vilmorin, to this newest of nature's offerings. Vilmorin, much impressed, decided to do a little breeding of the promising newcomer on his own account and two years later he publicly introduced the first double forms of that popular garden flower, zinnia.

FRIENDSHIP

Who stops to count the cost in gold,
Or measure closely time and care,
May reach his goal before he's old,
But friendship will not follow there.

Who spurns the inconvenient deed,
Because it takes him from his way,
May reap the rich rewards of greed
But at his side few friends will stay.

Who does no act that is not wise,
But follows reason to the end,
May to the heights of conquest rise
But he will never be a friend.

For friendship is a gentler art,
It does the good deed, right or wrong,
On kindly missions quick to start,
It cares not that the road is long.

To count the cost it doesn't wait,
The need is all it asks to see,
Nor time, nor trouble are too great
For all that friendship wants to be.

We Are the New China, Where Custom Excuses the Killing of Infants.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE only dangers men fear are new ones.

When the fruit fly invaded Florida, State and national governments combined their resources to destroy it. A quarantine was established; guards were posted; tourists were searched.

When a sand boil developed in the levee south of Greenville, Tenn., business houses were closed; selfishness and private ambition were forgotten; rich and poor labored night and day to save the city.

Any new danger inspires frantic efforts to avert or escape it, but men live happily in the shadow of an ancient volcano and rebuild their valley homes washed away by floods.

Once a way of death has become common, men no longer think it dangerous.

And thus it is that automobiles are permitted to maim and kill thousands each year, while an indifferent Government and an equally indifferent public accept the slaughter as an inevitable detail of progress because familiarity has blinded them to the horror of it.

If a new disease should appear and claim scores of victims within a week, every resource of Government would be mobilized to combat it; because the slaughter by automobiles developed gradually, it occasions no more alarm than the knowledge that disease germs lurk in the air.

"An unavoidable accident," the jury says, and men shrug and forget. All must die soon or late. What matters the method?

Unavoidable accident! The words are an insult to human intelligence. Is it an unavoidable accident when a madman, permitted to run at large, crushes the skull of a child that crosses his path?

The death of children certainly is unavoidable if they are given matches and permitted to play in a powder house, but why invite disaster?

The loss of the Vestris was "unavoidable" when she was sent to sea unfit to weather a storm.

Nine-tenths of the automobile accidents are the result of reckless driving. The driver of a wrecked car was drunk, or he was going too fast, or he was criminally careless, or he is a simpleton or an imbecile unfit to be trusted on the highway.

The accident was unavoidable at the speed he was making, but the speed wasn't unavoidable. To call it an act of Providence is to reveal the mental caliber of a congenital idiot.

It is inexcusable slaughter and it must be stopped.

Heavy fines and jail sentences may punish the family of the killer, but it is more just for them to suffer want than for the family of an innocent victim to suffer greater wrong.

The driver who has accidents is more dangerous than a mad dog at large. Fining him for one will not change his nature or prevent a second.

But a penalty sufficient to inspire dread will teach the careless to be careful, and the right to drive can be taken from those who addle their wits with alcohol and those who are inherently unfit to be at large.

Only thus can the slaughter be stopped, and to delay action is to confess stupidity.

The slaughter is tolerated only because custom has blinded men to the horror of it. In retrospect it will seem as mad as the hanging of Salem witches.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Young Mr. Marsh, Whose Job Printing Establishment, According to His Business Card, Was "Established in 1929," Contributes a Poem to The Post.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Inclosed you will find a poem I have just written, to help Mr. Hoover. Would you please publish it for me in your paper?

I am only 10 years old, but I am very anxious to be a writer. I have just completed my first book and I expect to have it published soon.

I am inclosing one of my pictures, also one of my business cards. You will do me a great favor if you will publish my poem in your paper.

WILLIAM J. MARSH, Jr.
New Milford, Conn.

Master Marsh's poem:

LET US HELP.

Now boys and girls, you all understand
That Herbert Hoover "is the Greatest Of Men."
He has asked the People of Our Wonderful Land,
If they would lend him a helping hand.
In his Probation Speeches, on the Ra-di-o,
He said bootlegging, in this country, sure must go.
Now if boys, and girls, would do "what is right."
Against liquor, they help him fight.
In years I am ten, yet I, understand,
He wants America clean all over her land.
Now, "Its up to parents, to teach, what is right".
Be honorable, "Dads", help us liquor fight.
Don't serve in your homes, Mothers! fancy glasses of wine,
For "You" will ruin some ones child, in time.
Let us pledge, "our Honor," to our President dear,
And tell Him, We'll never touch—wine or beer.

"Faulty Minds," Not "Faulty Cars," Cause Traffic Accidents; Traffic Authorities Should Campaign Against Imperfect Headlights.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is no doubt whatever but that the present traffic safety campaign will result in much good and increase the margin of safety of both the walker and driver. Much is being said about the "faulty car," which we have by the hundreds, but, in my opinion, if a check could be made it would develop more "faulty minds" than "faulty cars." It's the fellow with a new car who really makes one think his time has come to bid farewell to this old world.

Glaring headlights greatly retard traffic because one must reduce lawful speed when they are met. They are one of the most dangerous defects in connection with a machine, but I am told that many advocate increasing the candle power of lights. There is an amber-colored light used by some that does not glare. If they pass the required test, why are not all of us required to use them?

Many "family men" have absolutely quit driving at night on account of the danger of glaring lights. Another light defect, of which we have many, is the car with only one light. If two officers were stationed at the top of Cedar Hill, Pennsylvania avenue southeast, the fines resulting therefrom would pay the salary of a dozen officers.

M. S. B.

Removal of the Loading Platform Will Speed Traffic in Connecticut Avenue; Automobiles Should Be Permitted to Pass to Left or Right of all Loading Platforms.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I approve, as do most of us who drive in Connecticut avenue with regularity, the decision to remove the street-car loading platform from in front of the Mayflower Hotel. The traffic situation in this block has been intolerable. Without doubt the platform was not wholly responsible, but its removal will assist in making possible an even flow of traffic where formerly there was a bottle neck.

A less drastic remedy, however, might at least have been tried. It always has struck me as ridiculous that vehicular traffic should have been barred from going to the left of the platform. I have been unable to see any good reason why the center of the street, at loading platforms, should be reserved exclusively for street cars. The public is safe on the platform. Automobiles would pass by it as rapidly as street cars. The signs reading "Pass to the Right" should be removed from all loading platforms in the city so that as much of the street can be used by as many vehicles as possible.

MOTORIST.

Bill Boards Are "Unfair to the General Public and the Property Owner."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The National Association of Real Estate Boards has condemned unsightly billboards and pledged its members to aid in the war against them. At the Boston convention, which has just closed, they pronounced outdoor advertising which detracts from the sightliness of residential areas and mars rural scenic beauty "unfair to the general public and the property owner." They went on record opposing the erection of billboards in positions where they constitute a traffic hazard.

The association voted to request the Department of Commerce to investigate and make recommendations concerning the possibilities of regulating outdoor advertising in the interests of the public. It is time that the rights of the public were recognized in this matter. A few selfish advertisers threaten to take the joy out of motoring by enclosing highways in lanes of hideous billboards. By all means let the investigation be made.

HARLEIGH M. MILLIKIN.

An Appreciation.

To the Editor of the Post: Sir: As a contributor to the moral training campaign, I inclose herewith my check for the balance due on my subscription.

Kindly receipt and return the inclosed bill.

I regard this as one of the very best educational campaigns which could be conducted at this time.

Cordially yours, C. C. CALHOUN.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Mrs. Hobart Views Status Of Mrs. Gann

Wife of Vice President in Former Regime Doubts Propriety of Claim.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THOSE who have been interested in Vice President Curtis' fight to have his sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, given recognition as his "official hostess"—and who has not been?—will enjoy the illuminating chapter of social history contained in Mrs. Garret A. Hobart's "The Second Lady" in the current Saturday Evening Post. For Mrs. Hobart was the wife of the Vice President in the McKinley administration, when the question of precedence between the Vice President and Ambassadors came up for decision.

The matter had not arisen before, as foreign nations had been represented at Washington only by Ministers Plenipotentiary. But, when Great Britain's diplomatic establishment was raised to the rank of an embassy, Sir Julian Pauncefote, the first Ambassador to the United States, contended that, as the representative of the person of his sovereign and dean of the corps, he should rank immediately after the President, since in monarchical countries Ambassadors were given place immediately after the royal family. And he made an issue of the question, which set society by the ears much as the Gann controversy has done more recently.

Mrs. Hobart writes that neither she nor her husband felt that precedence mattered in their personal relations, but that they were determined to uphold the dignity of the position of the Vice President of the United States in his role as the President's "heir apparent."

Stalemate Was Reached In McKinley Regime.

So matters reached a stalemate. Lady Pauncefote would not call on Mrs. Hobart nor Mrs. Hobart on Lady Pauncefote. Hostesses feared to invite the two distinguished couples to the same party, lest the battle be fought out in their drawing rooms. When the Vice President and Mrs. Hobart and the British Ambassador and Lady Pauncefote met at a musicale at the Austro-Hungarian Legation, two imposing sofas were provided in the front row, on one of which the Vice President was seated with the British Ambassadress and on the other Mrs. Hobart and Sir Julian. When they went into supper the British envoy went first, but he had to take in Mrs. Hobart to do it.

Mrs. Hobart quotes Lady Pauncefote as saying, "The outside of your house is charming," to which she replied, "You should see the inside." But neither dignitary would give way, and the British Ambassador sailed for home on his summer holiday without social amenities having been exchanged.

It was not until the British government took a hand and decided the question in favor of the Vice President of the United States that the matter was settled. After that the Hobarts and the Pauncefotes became great friends.

Apparently, however, from her article, Mrs. Hobart is not convinced that a Vice President's sister should be accorded all the honors vouchsafed a Vice President's wife. The wives all seem to be jealous of their prerogatives where "other ladies" of official households are concerned.

Because of a long friendship between Vice President Hobart and President McKinley, the Hobarts were on terms of closest intimacy with the White House and Mrs. Hobart was often called upon to preside at White House festivities when Mrs. McKinley, who was an invalid, was unable to attend.

She writes with charm and distinction and her article presents a delightful picture of life in Washington in a simpler day.

Vice President Curtis Is in Kansas for Visit.

The Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, has gone to Topeka, Kans., for a short visit. Later he will visit his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Webster Knight, in Providence, R. I.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann will go first to visit in Providence and then will go to her home in Topeka. Mrs. Gann will leave today for a brief stay in Detroit.

The Minister of Bulgaria, Mr. Simeon Radeff, will leave today for New Lexington, Ohio, for a short stay. Later he will join Mme. Radewa, who is passing the summer in Maine.

The Minister of Siam, Maj. Gen. Prince Amoradat Kridakara, and his children, will leave today for Gloucester, Mass., where they will pass the summer. The members of the legation staff also will go today to the North Shore, where the legation will be established for the season.

The Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Arthur M. Hyde, will leave Wednesday for Atlanta, Ga., where he will deliver a Fourth of July address. He will go from there to Jackson, Mich., to make a speech, and then will return to Washington.

Signora Lais, wife of the retiring Naval Attache of the Italian Embassy, will leave Washington July 15 for the North, where she will make several visits before joining Commander Lais in New York, whence they will sail August 1 for Italy.

Mme. Fisa, wife of the first Secretary of the Czechoslovakian Legation, has gone to the Catskill Mountains, where they have taken a cottage for July. In August Mme. Fisa will go to Canada, and about July 15 Dr. Fisa will sail for Europe, to pass several weeks visiting in his native country.

He will deliver an address Saturday at the seventy-fifth anniversary celebration of the birth of the Republican party, to be held in Jackson, Mich. From there he will go to his home in Colorado to remain several weeks.

Dr. and Mrs. William C. Rives have taken the Clay estate, Finisterre, at Gloucester, Mass., for the summer. This is the first season that Dr. and Mrs. Rives have taken a cottage on the North Shore, although they have frequently been visitors there.

Mrs. James Hubbard, of Galveston, Tex., and her daughter, Miss Alberta Hubbard, who graduated this year from Martha Washington Seminary, have returned to Washington from a trip to Virginia Beach and Atlantic City. Mrs. Hubbard's married daughter, Mrs. William Haywood Furman, of Henderson, N. C., was with them at the Mayflower for the week-end. Mrs. Hubbard and Miss Hubbard will leave for New York the first of the week and will take the steamer from there to Galveston.

Dr. William O. Callaway, of Burlingame, Calif., who graduated from the Army Medical School in Washington a few years ago, spent the week-end at the Mayflower accompanied by his mother, Mrs. E. L. Callaway. They are sailing from New York on July 6 aboard the Ile de France. Dr. Callaway will study at the University of Bordeaux during the summer and in September he and his mother will make a motor trip through Italy, returning to this country about October 1.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Eberhart Haynes will leave Washington tomorrow for a trip through the Canadian Rockies to Banff and Lake Louise and thence to the Coast, from where they will sail for Honolulu to pass some time. Mrs. Haynes was, before her marriage last spring, Miss Frances Larner Gore.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Howard, of Oakland, Calif., have motored across the continent and are spending several days at the Mayflower. They are en route to New York and Canada and will return West by way of the Canadian Rockies.

Mrs. Henry G. Doyle Going North Today.

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, with her children, Henry, Marion and Robert, will leave today, immediately after the meeting of the Board of Education, for Boston, where she will visit relatives in Cambridge for a few days before going to Islesboro, Me., where Dean and Mrs. Doyle have taken a cottage for the summer.

Dean Doyle is staying at the Cosmos Club until mid-August, when he expects to join his family for a brief vacation.

Mr. J. D. Miles has returned to the Wardman Park Hotel, where he will pass a short time before going to his home in Miles City, Mont.

Mrs. Bradford G. Chynoweth and her three children have arrived in Washington from Fort Benning, Ga., and will be at the Mayflower for a week. They are en route to Camp Perry, Ohio, to join Maj. Chynoweth, who will be on duty there until after the international rifle matches in August. Maj. and Mrs. Chynoweth were stationed in Washington several years ago.

Mr. Joseph J. Moebs has gone to Marblehead Neck, Mass., to pass two weeks with Mrs. Moebs at their summer home there. He will be at the Mayflower upon his return to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Stout, of a prominent Philadelphia family, are passing some time at the Grace Dodge Hotel.

Mrs. Emmons Smith will close her apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel the middle of July and go to Atlantic City for the remainder of the summer.

German Envoy Plans Vacation In Native Land

Will Sail Soon With Wife and Daughter, Now at Hot Springs.

The German Ambassador, Herr Friedrich von Prittwitz und Gaffron, will be joined at the end of next week by Frau von Prittwitz and their daughter, who have been in Hot Springs, Va., for several weeks, and with them will sail for a vacation in Germany.

Dr. O. C. Klep, Counselor of the German Embassy, will be at the Essex Country Club at Manchester, Mass., this summer. Herr Rudolf Leitner, first secretary of the Embassy, with Frau Leitner and their family, also will be at Manchester, and the Rowe cottage has been taken for the other members of the staff. They will be established there from July 15 until the middle of September.

Mrs. Charles Edward Bateson will go in about two weks to Onteora Club in the Catskills for the remainder of the summer. Mr. Bateson will remain in their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mr. Philip Briscoe Bateson has gone to visit his grandfather, Mr. P. J. Briscoe, at his farm near Knoxville, Ky. Mr. Charles Edward Bateson 3d has gone to a camp at White Sulphur Springs.

Mrs. Wilson-Greene sailed on the Leviathan Saturday for Europe. She was detained in Washington for several weeks having planned to sail on May 15. After passing several weeks in Paris, she will go to Venice.

Mrs. S. Wien Howard, wife of Dr. Howard, and her son, Mr. William Howard, have left for California, where they will pass some time. They will make a number of visits en route to the coast.

Mrs. T. Q. Donaldson Rejoins Husband in South.

After a short visit in Washington, Mrs. T. Q. Donaldson has rejoined Maj. Gen. Donaldson in Greenville, S. C., where they now make their home. She flew from Greenville to New York with her son, Mr. John O. Donaldson, who was one of the American aces of the World War and who is now with a commercial aviation company. She passed several days there with another son, Mr. Augustus Donaldson, and then came to Washington to stay with Mrs. Eli Helmick.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Brashears and Miss Mildred Brashears have closed their house in Sixteenth street and have gone West for the summer. After spending several weeks in Hollywood, Calif., they will return by way of the Canadian Rockies, stopping at Banff and Lake Louise. Miss Brashears was graduated from George Washington University on June 12.

Miss Beulah B. Coward, of Pasadena, Calif., will spend Thursday and Friday at the Grace Dodge Hotel en route home from Atlanta, Ga., where she is attending the National Education Association convention. With her will be Miss F. C. Hampton and Miss M. C. Glenn also of Pasadena, Calif.

Mrs. A. M. Vincent, wife of the assistant superintendent of mails in Buffalo, N. Y., will stop in Washington over the Fourth of July on her way back from the Atlanta convention and will stay at the Grace Dodge Hotel. Mrs. Tonkin, of Buffalo, is accompanying her.

Maj. Gen. Benjamin A. Poore, U. S. Army, retired, has returned from a motor trip of about six weeks, which included a visit with his daughter, the wife of Maj. D. A. Robinson, at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and return by way of the Middle Northwest, Chicago, Detroit and Canada.

Commander and Mrs. Paul Bastedo have gone to Hot Springs, Va., for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Carroll Todd and their daughter, Miss Frances Todd, are also arrivals at Hot Springs.

Mr. Robert G. McGregor, jr., of New Rochelle, N. Y., has taken an apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel.

HALF YEAR CLOSES WITH PROFITS HIGH

CREDIT GROWING EASIER

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—Business closes its books for the first half of the year with aggregate profits around record high levels, and every indication that current prosperity will continue well into the second half of the year. Meanwhile credit conditions, recent tightness of which has had a retarding effect on building activity and other lines, apparently have definitely turned easier.

Steel output receded somewhat in the past week but this was attributed primarily to seasonal influences and physical limitations of equipment rather than any appreciable falling off in demand. The current rate of operations is still far ahead of the corresponding period last year, with indications that semi-annual statements of leading producers will set new peacetime records.

Freight car loadings in recent weeks have been running well ahead of the corresponding weeks of 1928 and 1927. Several large equipment orders were announced in the week, indicating that the railroads are looking forward to a heavy movement of freight this fall.

Overproduction continues a troublesome problem in the oil industry, but the leading producers and refiners are expected to show fair-sized profits for the first half of the year. Keen competition continues in the automobile industry, but as yet this has not been reflected in any drastic price alterations. Several of the auto accessory manufacturers are working at capacity, with the aviation industry furnishing some of the business.

Continued warm weather has had a beneficial effect on the textile business. The leather business also has shown signs of improvement. Some unsettlement has developed in the motion picture industry because of the changes made necessary by the widespread introduction of so-called talking pictures. The copper business continues steady with consumers apparently reluctant to buy heavily for future needs because of the possibility of a further shading of red metal prices, and with producers just as insistent that no further reductions are likely.

Except for the threatened strike of 30,000 workers in the New York cloak and suit industry, there are no serious labor disturbances in sight. Both the number of business failures and the total of liabilities are expected to show a reduction of about 5 per cent below last year's totals when the final figures are compiled.

Important merger developments have taken place in the last week in the aviation, food, amusement and New York banking fields. Plans for new combinations also are reported to be pending in the public utility and oil industries. Sale of Henry Ford's Detroit, Toledo, & Ironton Railroad to an undisclosed principal, believed to be the Pennsylvania Railroad, was announced in the week.

Heavy withdrawals of gold in London for shipment to New York attracted widespread interest in business circles because of its bearing on credit conditions. No changes were announced in Federal Reserve rediscount rates, and the feeling is now growing that the next change will be downward, with the initiative taken by Western banks.

Unsettled weather of the past week has interfered with the growth and harvesting of some of the leading crops, but to date the damage has not been unusually serious.

Motoring is at its best in the springtime. Among the used cars advertised in the classified columns of The Post are to be found all types, sizes and prices.

sion of the contest. It was announced for three weeks and three weeks is all that it will run.

Many took advantage of the chance to advance toward a place in the movies by turning in the required number of subscriptions to The Sunday Washington Post during the first week of the contest. An even greater number were busy the second week of the contest and qualified for screen tests.

Now the third and final week is on. Two sets of screen tests of Capital people have been shown at the Fox Theater and much favorable comment has been heard about several of the contestants, who have shown a naturalness on the screen which is beyond the expectation for amateurs.

Even though the Fox film executives may not select any of the ten leading contestants for positions in the movies, each of the ten will receive a six-month pass to the Fox Theater, where they may see how the stars, character actors and actresses and extras do their work. And each entrant in the contest receives the film of his or her test as a souvenir.

John E. Campbell, director of the contest for The Washington Post, will be glad to help any entrant with information regarding the contest, tips on how best to secure the necessary subscriptions to qualify for a test and what a test means to the amateur trying to break into the motion picture industry. He may be reached on the fourth floor of The Post Building or by telephoning National 4205.

Five Men Drowned In Bridge Collapse

Workers, Opening Lock Gate, Are Hurled Into St. Lawrence River.

Quebec, Quebec, June 30 (A.P.).—Five men were drowned at Riviere du Loup today when a bridge at the Warren Mills on which they were standing collapsed and threw them into the St. Lawrence River.

The dead, all workmen, were attempting to open the gate of the locks at the Warren Mills when the bridge suddenly gave way.

The dead are two Morin brothers, whose first names were not learned; Joseph Franck, Elysee Mailloux and Emile Gagnon, all of Riviere du Loup. The bodies of the first four were recovered.

Cities Service Common Stock

The advisability of buying Cities Service Common stock and holding it for investment has been amply demonstrated.

An investment of $2,000 at the date of issuance, January 1, 1911, if all stock dividends had been held, would now provide at its present yield, a yearly income of about $3,400 in cash and stock—much more than the original investment.

Third Radio Chain to Use WOL in City

American Broadcasting Co., of Western Origin, Is Becoming Competitor In East—Hookup to Begin August 1.

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

It was learned authoritatively last night that Station WOL has been selected definitely by the American Broadcasting Co. as its Washington station. This company is forming a third new Nation-wide chain in competition with the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia System. It originated on the West Coast, and already one station is operated as far East as Chicago. Capitalized at $20,000,000, the company now serves thirteen stations with all or part of sixteen hours of programs.

For several months the backers of the new chain have had WOL and WJSV under consideration, but the decision has finally been made on WOL. Eric Palmer, of New York City, representing the company, and Adolph Linden, banker of the chain, declined to discuss the situation, but from another source the prediction was made that programs originating on the Pacific Coast, in such cities as Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles, would be coming into the Capital as early as August 1.

No station has yet been acquired in New York, but several are under consideration, and one is expected to be chosen in a few days. A station having a transmitter in Fairmont probably will be the Philadelphia outlet. Among other Eastern cities under consideration is Norfolk, Va., which also may be included in the chain.

Anticipating its connection with the American Broadcasting Co. hook-up, LeRoy Mark, owner of WOL, which now has 100 watts power, has applied to the Federal Radio Commission for an increase in power to 250 watts, and later it is understood, will ask for 500 watts. As far as known, the station will continue on the same frequency.

The American Broadcasting Co. has been serving as the Western carrier of programs of the Columbia System. This arrangement, however, will be discontinued as soon as the Western chain is established as a competitor in the East.

There is considerable curiosity on the part of the Federal Radio Commission as to how the rearrangement of radio frequencies will behave under summer conditions.

The new plan worked out by the engineers was launched November 15, which was during the best radio season of the year. Listeners long ago reached their own conclusions as to the merit of the plan under winter conditions, but there may be entirely different results now that the static curve is beginning to rise. It is on the upgrade and will continue so until September 1, when the peak will be reached, followed by a rapid decline in September with the best atmosphere conditions prevailing from then until March.

This is not so apparent to listeners as in years past because of the increase in power, the increase in the number of local stations and the perfection of receiving sets. Nevertheless the millenium has not yet arrived in atmosphere conditions and the assigned frequencies are not expected to have the same results this summer as they have had during the winter.

However, by the time Congress reconvenes in December and the heavy sword of decapitation again swings over the heads of the Federal Radio Commission, a year's operation of the reallocation plan will be a matter of history and this may play an important part in whether or not the harassed commission will be allowed another lease on life.

The Radio Commission will maintain the policy of refusing exclusive use of a broadcasting frequency by a station engaged primarily in promoting the interests of a special group or organization, no matter how large, it was indicated recently when a reply to the appeal of station WCFL, operated by the Chicago Federation of Labor, was filed in the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia. The Chicago station had appealed from a decision of the commission denying WCFL a cleared channel and full-time operation with 50,000 watts of power.

In answer to one of the chief contentions of the labor agency that the application should be granted because of the large membership of the American Federation of Labor, the commission states that it is its opinion, and is so found, "That there are numerous groups of the general public that might similarly demand the exclusive use of a frequency for their benefit. There are nearly 5,000,000 Masons in the United States and about as many Odd Fellows. Their fraternal interests might be urged as a reason for having specific frequencies set aside for them. This classification could be carried on until more classes than frequencies would be found.

"Since there is only a limited number of available frequencies for broadcasting, this commission is of the opinion that there is no place for a station catering to any group, but that all stations should cater to the general public and serve public interest as against group or class interest."

The commission also pointed out that Illinois already has allocated to it more than twice its share of transmitting facilities, while Nebraska, which is in the same zone, has only the quota to which it is entitled.

Nearly 400 persons are employed on the New York staff of the National Broadcasting Co. Only a few of these, including the announcers and a few staff members who take part in dramatic programs, ever go before a microphone.

Gym Suit As Foundation

© VOGUE

EVERY woman who adopts the current mode of softly moulded silhouettes must take constant inventory . . . not of her frocks . . . of her curves. She must exercise both for shapeliness and for grace, because the new clothes allow for neither the awkward nor the less-than-perfect figure.

So, perhaps we might call the exercise suit the actual foundation of the smart wardrobe. Here is one of blue linen that is a far cry from a middy blouse and bloomers. A sleeveless blouse, laced amusingly at the shoulders, is worn with shorts, the yoke of which is also laced at the sides. When this suit is made of white linen, it may appear with agility on a private tennis court, a fashion which was instituted in Palm Beach last winter.

Vogue will be glad to assist in solving individual problems of dress. Inquiries may be made to The Washington Post and must be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS.

GETTING FRESH FOODS OLD.

SO long as men insist on living in cities they must surrender the luxury of eating fruits and vegetables that have ripened on the vines and in the ground. A fish eaten on the banks of a stream from which it has just been caught, a carrot pulled from the ground, washed and eaten at once, berries, melons and fruit which reach the breakfast table with the dew still on them—all these have a quality which we call freshness which can not readily be discovered in the laboratory but which adds wholesomeness as well as appetite appeal.

Some men who can not gather their food from their own premises and eat it within a few minutes can still provide their families with vegetables and fruits ripened on the vine. However, the great majority of city residents must eat things that are picked green and artificially ripened. Such foods spoil too rapidly and shipping and marketing a product that was ripe when it was picked is not feasible.

Bananas are as green as grass in appearance when they leave Panama for the United States. The tendency to ripen and then spoil rapidly is so great that it must be restrained by refrigeration. On the other hand, tomatoes and many other vegetables, most fruits and some berries must be helped to ripen. An old method was called sweating. In this method the fruit or vegetable was kept in a room where the temperature and humidity were right until it was ready for display. Recently the method which has been displacing the older ones is that of exposure to dilute ethylene gas. This gas causes the development of the color by which ripeness is generally judged. The green of the orange skin turns to a golden yellow, tomatoes become a deep red. The color changes are perfect. They are exactly those caused by sunlight as the fruit hangs on the tree, vine, or stalk.

However, change in color is not all the process of ripening. How about flavor, odor, consistency, acidity, sugar content, pectin and similar substances? Are foods ripened artificially poisonous or harmful? Are they wholesome? These questions have all been investigated and the laboratory work is still going on. Nothing poisonous or harmful has been found in them. Many are regarded as wholesome. However, they are not up to the level of the products ripened on the vine. They did not have quite as much sugar and their proteins were not quite up to the top. They had rather too much acid. Cranberries did not have quite the top amount of pectin.

To sum it all up in the words of the store man, "These foods do not top the market." However, foods ripened with ethylene gas ranked higher than those picked a little green and ripened by exposure to air.

Light Opera Is Scheduled Over WRC

"H. M. S. Pinafore" to Be Feature Tonight, and Last Empire Builders' Legend Will Be Given; "Bugs" WMAL Topic.

High-powered stations from outside Washington had no difficulty breaking through the static last night. However, it was easier on ears to listen to local stations.

"H. M. S. Pinafore," famed light opera by Gilbert and Sullivan, will be broadcast tonight over WRC as the first of the summer season series. The program begins at 10 o'clock. Replacing grand opera, the operettas will be presented over the National Broadcasting chain each Monday night at the same hour.

Graham Harris, conductor last year, who won further honors in Lewisohn Stadium, New York, as leader of several symphony concerts, again will wield the baton, presenting the following artists in the cast: Leslie Joy, baritone; Paul Hemminhaus, contralto; Frank Croxton, bass; William Rainey, tenor; Theodore Webb, barytone; Elsie Thiedo, soprano, and Frank Moulan, barytone.

"H. M. S. Pinafore" is one of the brightest of the famous "Savoy" operas of London and has gained considerable favor here as a result of recent revivals in New York City on an elaborate scale.

The last legend of the current series of the "Empire Builders" will be heard at 9:30 o'clock. Another Indian legend of Glacier National Park and the Waterton Lakes will ring down the curtain for the summer on these weekly dramatizations featuring "The Old Pioneers," Jack, Betty and Aunt Jane.

A new feature, the first program of which will specialize in insect songs, will be broadcast over WMAL at 10 o'clock tonight. Billed as the Black Flag Boys, the entertainment will include music and comedy dialogue.

The theme, "Shoo Fly, Don't Bother Me," will usher in this hour and conclude it, while other "bug" songs to be heard are "Some Little Bug Is Going to Get You," and "Speaking of Insects, How Is Your Aunt?"

Musical Vignettes will turn to the south for inspiration at 7 o'clock tonight. Myddleton's "Down South" will open the half-hour program and will be followed by Hosmer's "Southern Rhapsody" and Gardner's "From the Canebrake." A feature of the program will be the Largo from Dvorak's "New World Symphony." The program will be closed with the popular southern jig number, "Turkey in the Straw."

The U. S. Navy Band will play from the Capitol at 8:30 o'clock under the leadership of Charles Benter.

The second of the series of programs by the District of Columbia Society, Sons of the American Revolution, will be broadcast by WJSV from 9 to 9:15 o'clock tonight. Col. B. J. Lloyd, of the U. S. Public Health Service, will speak on "Influences Inimical to Our Form of Government."

David Martin, Washington baritone, will be presented by WOL in joint recital with Melville Slaughter, of Richmond, at 6:30 p. m. This will be the first time the Virginian has ever been heard over WOL.

Two members of the staff of the Department of Agriculture will give timely tips to wheat growers and grain elevator operators during the program of WRC and other N. B. C. stations at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. G. A. Collier will give his monthly review of the wheat situation, while D. J. Price will continue his series of talks on various farm and industrial hazards.

What Today Means to You

JULY 1.

"CANCER."

IF July 1st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this day are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 9:30 p. m. to 10:45 p. m.; the danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Planetary aspects of this date are extremely favorable, principally for work in hand. It may not prove an auspicious opportunity for launching any new enterprise, but the influences will prove exceedingly beneficient for general advancement and progress, along determined and conservative lines.

A child born July 1, will in adulthood, always want to be a leader: "not like dumb, driven cattle, but a hero in the strife." It will be artistic and poetic, fond of music, and of travel. It will be adaptable and popular.

Men and women born July 1 differ greatly, not only in characteristics, but temperament. Women are naturally intuitive, spiritually inclined, and overly superstitious. They will, at different stages in their lives, evince an interest —albeit superficial—in occultism and philosophy. They will be very much in earnest at the time they are engaged in striving to fathom a new cult. On the other hand, they will have a good deal of poise, and will always be original—in speech as in deed—and ingenious. They will be kind-hearted, and especially tolerant of the opposite sex. Their affections, once caught, will "stay put."

Men, on the other hand, will be intensely practical, and the value of everything will, in their minds, be judged by its productive value in dollars and cents. Their vision will be limited, and their interest will be in the present, and they will allow the future to take care of itself. They will never cross bridges till they come to them. Justice, not mercy, and fairness, not generosity, will characterize their thoughts and their actions. They will be obstinate—sometimes to the point of being pig-headed—and their natures will be self-centered and selfish. Their marital happiness will be very limited, as those who want their own way in everything are, as a rule, bad matrimonial partners.

Successful people born July 1.

IT IS HARD for us to realize the size of the sun.

If we walk ten miles, we feel that we have made quite a distance; but if we were to go clear around the earth, at the equator, we should have to travel about 2,500 times that far.

Diagram to show comparative sizes of Sun, Jupiter and Earth.

Yet the sun is more than 1,000,000 times as large as the earth. Its diameter is 866,000 miles.

Let us suppose that a marble an inch in diameter stood for the size of the earth. Then the sun would need to be imagined as a ball about nine feet through.

The sun is not perfectly round. All about the outside are mighty flames which shoot up for thousands of miles. These give the edge a ragged appearance when looked at during a total eclipse.

A total eclipse comes when the moon gets exactly in the way of the sun. The moon is much smaller than the sun. It is even a good deal smaller than the earth. The reason that it can hide the sun is because it is so much closer.

If we look at the sun without dark glasses, it dazzles and almost blinds us. No one should look at the sun through a telescope without protection for his eyes. When viewing the sun through a telescope fitted with a dark glass, I have seen the famous "spots."

The spots of the sun were discovered about 300 years ago, but to this day no one can tell for certain what they are. It is supposed that they may be clouds of burning gas, which are not so bright as the rest of the sun. It has also been suggested that they may be "holes" made by hot winds sweeping in and out. At any rate, we know that sun spots last for a time (days, weeks or months) and that they then vanish. The presence of the spots has helped scientists learn that the sun twists around, once in about four weeks.

If the sun spots are holes the average opening is large enough for the earth to be dropped in without touching the edge at any point.

Paris INTERPRETS the MODE

An unusual outfit of jade green Shantung silk with interwoven threads of black, and trimmed all around in black edging. (Courtesy of Martial et Armand, Paris.)

SLEEVES continue to be one of the most studied effects of the mode—it seems as though the couturiers are sitting up nights seeking new and individual ways of treating this part of Miladi's dress. One can summarize more or less successfully about most other features of fashion at the moment, but not about sleeves.

We found that this is equally true in England. Sleeves of every conceivable cut, type and trimming are being shown, and in the case of two charming frocks we saw, it is the sleeves more than anything else that stick in our memory.

One was a thrilling creation of bright yellow crepe georgette, which had bishop sleeves coming to a very tight cuff. They were laced with a de luxe version of what would otherwise have been shoe-laces, made of yellow silk braid with bright gold tips.

The other frock was in crepe de Chine of a fairly vivid green, cut in "wrapper" style, with the two sides overlapping in front, and a band from the under side passing through a slit in the other, to pass around the waist and tie in a bow in the back. This was wrapped very tightly to the figure, emphasizing by contrast its big Russian sleeves.

Truly a volume might be written this season merely describing the thousand and one sleeves!

The Lovely-Lady dress! Heavenly lines, which reveal while they conceal too, too womanly curves: That's what this week's illustrated leaflet—for which you can send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post—tells you how to make.

It gives you three dresses really, because the sleeveless version built on the same bodice and skirt line, except very much longer in the back, makes a beautiful summer evening dress, the one with the high scarf-collar and long tight sleeves makes an extremely chic street dress, and the one with the clever low-rolled collar and big circular sleeves a lovely afternoon frock. Address and mail it!

Rather unusual, but certainly smart, was the suit of jade green Shantung silk I illustrated for you today. It had interwoven threads of black in its fabric, and was bound all around the edges with black. Nice?

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN.

JULY 1.

GEORGE SAND, the celebrated French novelist, was born this day, 1804, at Paris. At the age of 18, the dreamy and emotional girl was married to Baron Dudevant, but after nine years separated from him and went back to Paris to begin a Bohemian career. After a brief period of poverty came success. Her first novel, "Indiana," met with wide enthusiasm.

She was a disciple of Rosseau and in her first group of books she attacked marriage as a tyranny. Her next group was dedicated to social reform and humanitarianism. In her third group, filled with pastoral idyls, are the books most widely read today. In the last period she wrote sentimental stories free from impossible fantasy.

The novelist's life was as romantic as any of her novels. She counted among her lovers Alfred de Musset, Chopin and Liszt. She was an extraordinary worker, producing more than 100 novels, besides four volumes of autobiography and six volumes of correspondence. Her writings are marked by richness, delicacy and power of style.

Other noted women born this day are Susan Glaspell, dramatist, 1883; and Alice Barber Stephens, American artist, 1858.

LONDON JUBILATES OVER KING'S RETURN

STREETS ARE DECORATED

London, June 30 (A.P.).—The Royal British standard, signifying that the monarch is in residence, will wave again over Buckingham Palace at noon tomorrow for the first time since King George was carried thence five months ago to recuperate from his long illness at Bognor.

London tonight was joyfully anticipating the sovereign's return to his London home and to health, its millions of inhabitants prepared to give him the warmest of welcomes.

King George will drive from Windsor Castle and appear in the city in the royal automobile. At the royal borough of Kensington he will enter a horse drawn carriage and make a triumphal return to Buckingham Palace.

Recovered From Illness.

His majesty has completely recovered from the slight setback he experienced at Windsor last month and will return in good health in time for the Thanksgiving service for his restoration to health at Westminster Abbey next Sunday.

To this service the ceremonial drive from Kensington to Buckingham Palace tomorrow will be a fitting prelude. The king will change from automobile to carriage in front of Albert Hall, Kensington, and drive by Piccadilly, St. James street and the Mall to the palace.

Despite intermittent showers and the threat of more rain tonight, the stretch of Piccadilly opposite the lovely green park and the roadway leading past St. James Palace through the Marlborough gate to the Mall were gay with bunting in honor of his passage.

American Flag Conspicuous.

The American flag was conspicuous among the flags of all nations which decked the fronts of the various public and club buildings along the route his majesty's carriage will follow. The spirit of the welcome was typified by the inscription "Long Life and Happiness" on a big blue streamer over one doorway.

King George has been at Windsor castle since he left his seaside home at Bognor, Sussex, in the middle of May.

Fiery Cross Made Her Mate Worse, Wife Says

Pana, Ill., June 30 (A.P.).—Even a fiery cross, burned in his front yard, failed to stop John Stoneburner, 82 years old, from "inhuman treatment" of his wife Maggie, 75, she testified in divorce proceedings instituted in Circuit Court here. They had been married 60 years.

Stoneburner "kept all food under lock and key," his wife charged. He worked her in the field until she "dropped in her tracks" and then left her lying there. Neighbors who learned of her treatment burned a cross in the front yard and thereafter Stoneburner treated her worse, the wife charged.

Contempt Count in Rum Case Mistrial Dismissed

New York, June 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The contempt charge against Edwin J. Carroll, the juror whose relationship by marriage to the defendant's brother caused a mistrial in the Government's liquor case against James M. McCunn, "society bootlegger," was dismissed by Judge Holmes in United States District Court today.

The judge ruled that the juror had committed "an error in judgment," but that there had been no evidence to show any criminal intent or conspiracy with the defendant or his brother.

Like Fluffed Silk...
So Gentle, So Exquisite!

Every Day, 10,000 Women Change from Present Ways
To This Utterly NEW-TYPE Hygiene

A totally NEW Scientific Accomplishment That Adapts The Indescribable Gentleness of Pure Rayon Cellulose, The World's Softest Material, To Banish The Discomforts of Old Ways, Besides Providing Protection That Lasts Hours Longer!

INSTANTLY one's hand touches this utterly New-Type hygienic pad, one feels the amazing difference between it and any other pad yet known . . . the caressing softness of Fluffed Silk, it is made so it cannot chafe or irritate.

YET—it provides 10 times the absorbency of any other sanitary pad now known or ever known to women. And that means it can be worn in full security and peace-of-mind hours longer than any other sanitary pad.

Then, too, it provides 76% greater powers of deodorization than old-time sanitary pads. It is as quickly disposable as tissue. It is made so it cannot irritate. Experts say it soon will revolutionize the hygienic habits of women the world over.

Developed by a Six Hundred Million Dollar industrial corporation, its scientific importance cannot be over-estimated. It marks the expenditure of millions in money and the work of years of ablest scientists, both of Europe and America by the company in whose laboratories the rayon industry was cradled.

VELDOWN is 3 to 5 times longer lasting than present hygienic methods. Women know what this means to safety, security and peace of mind.

Veldown
Soft as Fluffed Silk
Filled with Pure Rayon Cellulose

Rayon Cellulose Filled!

Its filler is the superlatively soft Rayon Cellulose, the basis of the remarkable fabric that revolutionized the silk industry of the world; and that now comes to banish harshness, chafing and discomfort from the wearing of sanitary pads.

Protected by World-wide patents, there is no other pad like it. Its use is sweeping from one end of the world to the other. Recent tabulations estimate that every day, in the very limited part of America in which it is as yet on sale, an average of over 10,000 women are changing to it. Consider what this means.

Its common-sense price is never more than 40c. And that places the best that science knows in the reach of every woman . . . makes going on with less gentle ways a folly.

ISABELL OSTRANDER, R. N. noted student of women's hygienic problems, following a period of exhaustive research and study on VELDOWN declared: "This great discovery completely revolutionizes women's most difficult hygienic problem."

Do as millions are doing—try it. On sale in wrapped packages everywhere under the name VELDOWN.

SIGHTSEEING TRIPS ENGAGE EDUCATORS

VISITORS OCCUPY PULPITS

Atlanta, Ga., June 30 (A.P.).—Educators from all sections of the United States, here for the convention of the National Education Association, today took a post-graduate course in phases of Southern history and culture in Atlanta and vicinity.

From early morning to night, automobiles, furnished by local civic clubs toured the city and surrounding battlefields. Primary teachers were especially interested in the Wren's Nest, where Joe Chandler Harris wrote of the doings of Uncle Remus and Br'er Rabbit in the bramble patch. The site, the relics and the gigantic oil painting of the Battle of Atlanta during the Civil War attracted the attention of the history experts, as did nearby Kenesaw Mountain, the scene of another hard fought struggle.

Growing Cotton Lures Northerners.

Cotton, still green in the boll, lured those from the far North, to whom the great Southern staple always has been something of a mystery; and the magnolia trees, just now shedding their fragrant white blossoms, furnished an exotic background for those interested in the romance of Dixie.

Besides learning about the South scores of the educators occupied pulpits of churches in the city and nearby towns, all speaking on the theme of the convention, "Education for a New World."

The only general gathering of the convention delegates today was at vesper services, where Dean Walter Williams, of the University of Missouri school of journalism, was on the program with an address on world affairs from the viewpoint of a newspaper reporter.

Ten Nations to Participate.

Uel W. Lampkin, president of the association, announced today that ten nations will participate in the first inter-American conference on education, which will open tomorrow in connection with the N. E. A. convention. They are the United States, Chile, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala, Mexico, Panama, Peru and Venezuela.

The conference will last three days and will center around two major themes, character education and elementary education for farm, office, factory, store and home. Plans for an inter-American federation of education associations also will be discussed.

The first meeting of the representative assembly, governing body of the N. E. A., will be held tomorrow morning.

Al Smith to Dedicate Tammany's New Building

New York, June 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A new Tammany Hall is to be dedicated July 4, with the responsibility of the dedication speech resting on the shoulders of its most famous living son, Alfred E. Smith. Others to take part in the ceremonies are Gov. Roosevelt, Mayor Walker, Surrogate Foley and Supreme Court Justice Schmuck. Admission, as admission to the wigwam always is, will be free. Tickets are not even necessary, and the rule will be, first come, first served, except, of course, in the case of the chosen few, as again is the custom in the wigwam. The new hall is at Seventeenth street and Union Square east.

Graf Zeppelin Gets New Clutch.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, June 30 (A.P.).—The breaking of the Graf Zeppelin's crankshafts on her last attempt to fly to the United States is now definitely attributed to overstrained clutches and couplings. A new style of clutch is being installed with new motors.

IN AUTO FATALITY

wife of the theatrical magnate of Los Angeles, is held on a charge of second degree murder as the result of the death of a Japanese in an auto accident.

Soviet Sentences Seven Secret Agents to Death

Moscow, June 30 (A.P.).—Seven persons described as former imperial secret agents and speculators were sentenced to death today by the District Court at Mohilev, in White Russia. Nineteen others were sentenced to varying terms of imprisonment. It was charged that the defendants set fire to a cooperative farm and attempted to assassinate representatives of Soviet authorities in the Town of Juravichi.

Insult to America Seen In Vandalism by Haitians

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, June 30 (A.P.).—A statue of the Emperor Dessalines, national hero of the Haitian republic, was desecrated by unidentified vandals this morning. The statue was smeared with white paint and a small empty beer keg was hung over the uplifted right arm.

Government circles were inclined to believe that the vandalism was an attempt to discredit the American marine force and the government.

Rifle Test Board Meets Here Today

Numerous Inventions Are Submitted to Army for Examination.

The board of officers appointed by the War Department to conduct tests of new type semiautomatic rifles will convene here today, it was announced yesterday.

The membership of the board includes: Brig. Gen. George S. Simonds, Lieut. Cols. Edwin Butcher, James J. O'Hara, Commander Ernest W. McKee, Majs. John N. Hodges, Ralph Talbot, Jr., Charles G. Mettler, Robert D. Harden, Rapp Brush, Albert W. Waldron, Closen H. Tanny, Harold C. Pierce, and Capt. James L. Hatcher.

Inventors both of the United States and foreign countries have shown great interest in the coming tests and have submitted numerous types of rifles for competition. The models so far submitted are very similar in external appearance and compare favorably in size and weight with the present Springfield rifle. However, their power is much greater and they deliver projectiles almost with machine-gun rapidity.

The tests will be conducted in Washington and at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., at such times during July as may be designated by the board.

The combined efforts of skill, study and the ideals of service have made the classified section what it is today.

Occasional Chair

Replica of a noted museum piece, greatly underpriced for the occasion. Skillfully shaped arms and frame are of solid mahogany; seat and back upholstered with assorted damasks in three colors.

Illustrated are just a few typical examples of some of the splendid values available throughout our Furniture Department in odd and occasional pieces, to say nothing of complete suites.

Coffee Table, $18.75

Solid Mahogany

In the spirit of Duncan Phyfe from the oval top with pie-crust edge to the well-turned legs and stretcher and antique brass claw feet. Another rare value.

D. & M. FURNITURE SECTION—Second Floor

Secretary With Chair, $57.50

An extraordinary offering for such a modest outlay. The chummy size of the Secretary, 72 inches by 30 inches by 18 inches, makes it adaptable with equal grace to small apartment or spacious home. Two base drawers surmounted by a sensible desk with compartments and shelves are merged into a most useful piece of real beauty. The chair seat is upholstered in tapestry and is removable at will for recovering. Mellow walnut finish. Only a limited number available.

14,000 FANS SEE NATS TROUNCE ATHLETICS, 12-2

Marberry Lets Macks Down With 6 Hits to Break Jinx.

Judge and Ruel Lead Hitters; Bluege and Cronin Stars.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

As the schedule calls for them to be out of town on the Fourth, the Nationals decided to set off their fireworks yesterday, and the crowd of approximately 14,000 was given quite a thrilling afternoon, during which four Philadelphia pitchers were burned while the Nats were turning in a 12-to-2 victory. It was Fred Marberry who finally stopped the league leaders, who previously had won 13 of the 14 games played, no less than 11 defeats having been administered by them in succession.

John Pincus Quinn, the spit-baller of ancient vintage, essayed to do the mound work for the Mackmen and managed to worry along for two frames before the Nats decided to put on their pyrotechnical display. Then they blasted him off the hill, showed signs of duplicating the stunt at Carroll Yerkes' expense and slightly singed Ed Rommel before the third frame finally ended with eight juicy runs chalked up opposite the Nationals' name on the score board.

Mackmen Score Only Runs In Seventh Inning.

From then on it was just a matter of finishing out the string, with two more runs later registered at Rommel's expense and another pair charged to Bill Breckenridge's record after the former Dartmouth star had been given his major league baptism starting round 7.

While all this was going on Fred Marberry was pitching exceptional ball. All told, he granted but six hits, and it was not until the seventh, by which time he had no cause for worry, that the aliens were able to crowd more than one in the same inning. This round netted the only Quaker runs, the result of an opening single by Foxx, a walk for Miller, Dykes' double to left and Boley's useful out. Marberry fanned five during the contest and issued but three passes.

Third Inning Attack Is Story of Game.

As far as Washington was concerned, its "big" third round was the whole story of the game. Twelve men came to the tee, Judge doubling his first time up and singling on his second trip, and Quinn and Yerkes were sent to the "weeping" room before the first out was recorded.

Marberry led off with a pass, took third on Judge's double and Rice scored both runners with a one-shot to center, taking another base when Haas toyed with the ball. Goslin followed with a single and Myer's safe fielder's choice, on which Rice, after being stopped trying to score, managed to retire to third in safety, filled the bases and saw the end of Quinn. After Bishop messed up West's roller and Bluege walked, forcing in a run, Yerkes's relief shift ended and the task of stopping the Nat rally was put up to Rommel. He finally did it, but not until after Ruel and Judge had singled and Bishop had kicked in with another miscue.

Two were out when West's double, Bluege's single and theft and Ruel's singleton after Cronin had walked, gave the Nats two more in the fourth, while those coined in the seventh re-

Maj. Van Vliet In Net Title Defense

Lieut. Baker and Maj. Finley Are Beaten in Semifinals.

MAJ. ROBERT C. VAN VLIET, of the Panama Canal Zone, hurdled the next to last obstacle yesterday in his fight to retain the Army singles tennis championship when he successfully countered the attack of Lieut. E. S. Baker, of New York, the "dark horse," in the semifinal round of the tournament at Columbia Country Club. The slender but rugged 1928 winner unloosed his best game to take a hard-fought match by scores of 8—6, 6—1, 6—8 and 6—4.

Today at 4 o'clock, Van Vliet will engage Lieut. J. W. Strahan, of New York City, in the final clash for the title. Strahan, seeded No. 2 in the draw, disposed of Maj. Thomas D. Finley, of West Point, N. Y., yesterday. The scores were 6—3, 6—1 and 6—2.

The Van Vliet-Baker match was a battle between two hard drivers with the greater steadiness of the defending champion gaining the decision. Every point was hotly contested and the challenger's threat was dangerous even as far as the first eight games of the fourth set.

Baker's Play in Third Set Is Best of Match.

Both players seemed to relish the going when it was the fastest and battled strenuously at the net time after time in volleying duels that kept the gallery on edge. But the steadier work of Van Vliet usually terminated these skirmishes in his favor, with Baker banging the ball either into the net or out of bounds.

Baker evinced his power in the opening set by running up a lead of 5 to 1. His forehand drives had the titleholder on the run. But Van Vliet quickened the pace and succeeded in overhauling the New Yorker to win seven of the next eight games.

The second set was almost a rout with Van Vliet smashing through Baker for a count of 6 to 1. Then came the sensation of the match.

Baker opened up in the third set with terrific speed on his service and gathered a lead with aces. He maintained the advantage, although Van Vliet fought back valiantly and captured the set by 8 to 6.

Doubles Semifinals on Card for Tomorrow.

Again in the fourth set Baker burned his service past the champion and tied things up at 3 to 3 and 4 to 4, but when he chose to meet him at the net, he brought on his downfall and Van Vliet captured the last two games with placements.

Two quarter-final doubles matches were played with the youthful team of Lieut. Sherburne and Lieut. Robinson defeating Lieut. Strahan and Lieut. Baker by 6—3, 2—6, 6—3, while Col. Johnson, the oldest player in the event, paired with Lieut. Hedekin, singles runner-up in 1928, eliminated Maj. Welsh and Maj. Sheedy by 6—0, 6—2. The latter pair were the only remaining Washington officers.

The doubles semifinals will be played tomorrow at 4 o'clock.

Robins and Braves Split; Bissonette Hits Homer

Brooklyn, June 30 (A.P.).—Boston gained an even break with Brooklyn here today winning the second game, 10 to 6, after bowing to Dazzy Vance in the opener by a 5-to-3 score.

Although yielding a dozen hits, Vance came through with the fifth victory of the season when Bissonette hit a homer with two on in the fifth.

The Braves hammered five Brooklyn pitchers hard in the second game, while Smith went the route for Boston.

Cubs Come From Rear To Beat Cards, 14 to 8

St. Louis, June 30 (A.P.).—Trailing, 8 to 1, at the start of the fourth, the Chicago Cubs tromped on the St. Louis Cardinals here today, 14 to 8, for the fourth victory of the series and the eighth straight. The former Card Manager, Rogers Hornsby, starred at bat, getting four hits out of five times up, including a double and triple.

Red Sox Bow, 6-4, as Babe Drives Home Four Runs.

BOSTON, June 30 (A.P.).—Babe Ruth's tremendous home run drive, to the very last row of the center field bleachers in the fifth inning with Lou Gehrig on base, was the dominant punch in the Yankees' 6-to-4 victory over the Red Sox today.

It was one of the longest safe hits ever made at Braves Field, and is the Babe's sixteenth homer of the season and his third in two days. Danny McFayden was pitching. Mr. Ruth drove in four runs today in all, one with an infield out and the other with a double.

Russ Scarritt of the Sox drove in three of Boston's runs.

Belated Rally Futile As Reds Bow to Bucs, 7-6

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 30 (A.P.).—The Reds staged a belated rally in the ninth here today to score two runs, but with the tying tally on second Critz drove one to center for the last out and Pittsburgh won, 7 to 6. The Pirates climbed all over Luque for six runs in the first three innings and sewed up the game in the ninth with another counter.

Charles and Volger Fight Victors Abroad

Bologna, Italy, June 3 (A.P.).—Benny Valger, New York lightweight, stopped the Italian, Nando Simionato, in the tenth and final round of their bout here tonight.

Pifano Isias, Argentine negro heavyweight, knocked out Karl Krempp, of Germany, in the first few seconds of fighting in the first round.

G. U. DOUBLES PAIR BOWS IN FINAL

Mangin and Pare Lose to Occidental College Team.

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 30 (A.P.).—Benjamin Gorchakoff and Arthur Kussman, Occidental College, today won the intercollegiate tennis doubles championship by defeating Gregory Mangin and Emmett Pare, Georgetown, in the final round. The scores were 5—7, 6—1, 6—4, 6—4.

Berkeley Bell, University of Texas, won the singles title yesterday.

The first set of the doubles went twelve games before the Georgetown team broke through Kussman's service to win 7-5. In the second set, Gorchakoff's drop shot was working beautifully and with excellent teamwork, the Occidental youths quickly ran up a score of three love. Pare won on his serve to take the fourth game, but Gorchakoff and Kussman, flashing brilliant tennis, breezed through the next three games to capture the set 6—1.

With the count four all in the third set, Gorchakoff and Kussman broke through Pare's service to take the next two games and the set.

Again in the fourth set the score was tied at four all. Gorchakoff and Kusswon won the ninth game 4—2 and the tenth went to deuce three times. the Far Western pair finally breaking through Mangin's service to win the set and the match.

Rice's Shoestring Catch Saves Game for Tigers

Detroit, June 30 (A.P.).—Climaxed by a circus catch by Harry Rice which cut off two runs that would have given Cleveland the lead in the ninth inning, Detroit and the Indians staged a wild hitting game today which the Tigers won 11 to 10. Each team hit seventeen times.

With two on base in the ninth, Jamieson lifted a short fly back of second base. Rice, coming in fast, took the ball off his shoestrings, somersaulted and came up still running to end the game. Rice, returning to the game after a long layoff, also starred at the plate, getting four safeties in five trips.

NATS GIVE WALTER BEALL UNCONDITIONAL RELEASE

McCullough To Be Added To List

Brown to Face Macks in Philadelphia Game Today.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

PITCHER WALTER BEALL, former District sandlotter and Yankee, yesterday was given his unconditional release from the Nationals, Manager Walter Johnson explained that this action was taken not because Beall had failed, for he admitted that the pitcher had not been given much of a chance, but it was necessary to make room on the player list for Paul McCullough and Beall could be spared easier than any of the others.

McCullough, after Baseball Commissioner Landis had ruled that the Nationals must complete their purchase of him from the Toledo Club, despite the fact that he was weak from prolonged illness, has gradually worked himself into condition and will be eligible to play just as soon as Landis O. K.'s his reinstatement. He will leave this morning with the Nationals.

President Griffith also has announced the signing of Don Savidge, a right-handed former college star, who has seen previous service with the Williamsburg Team. This lad probably needs more experience and will be sent on option somewhere just as soon as arrangements can be made. When this is done First Baseman Harley 'Boss' name also will be put on the eligible list.

Nats Play Macks At Philly Today.

The Nationals leave for Philadelphia this morning for a three-game series which starts this afternoon. It will be in the nature of a test, as Johnson's men are anxious to see whether shey actually broke the "jinx," which the A's have had on them this season in yesterday's game or if it was merely strained. Lloyd Brown will do the Nat hurling, with George "Rube" Walberg probably opposing him.

While the Nats have released Willard Hershberger, the Fullerton (Calif.) High School catcher and infielder, he is still sticking with the team. Manager Johnson considers him a fair prospect as a catcher and is trying to place him somewhere so that the Nationals will get another chance to look him over after he has gained more experience.

Connie Mack practically pulled down the Athletic flag after the Nats' third yesterday, yanking out Catcher Mickey Cochrane, First Baseman Jimmy Foxx and Outfielder Al Simmons so that they could get some needed rest. Cessie Orwoll, who was both outfielder and pitcher last year, relieved "Waterbucket Al" in left, this being his first fly-chasing assignment of the current season.

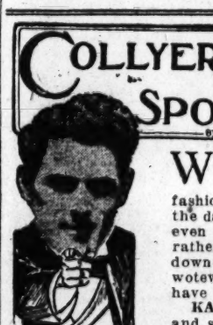
COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT E. COLLYER



WASH DAY.

Down at Latonia this afternoon the Weisenheimers are going to cut a real old-fashioned "wash day" melon—BLUE PENCIL in the day's opener—and I don't believe the issue will even be close. As a matter of fact, these people, rather I should say, those who are "operating" down there have been unqualifiedly "successful"—woteverinell that is—during this meeting. You have the answer in your lily-white duke.

KATHERINE W shows speed—when "hot"—and should be the contender with ADELOT holding the others safe.

MY CAROLYN looks like a stand-out in the second because UMBRIAN PRINCESS is a doubtful starter.

The consistent W[illegible]ORAC, this way rigged, should bring home the bacon in the third. This plater is just a bit above the average.

I also look for SUPERLOVE to continue to show improvement. KADIAK, in the closing spasm, was another overnight "commission" horse. This is a pretty fair sort of a hide and don't need "help." However, if one gets a bit—why worwey, eh wot?

The Canucks have arranged another mess of "poison" for the common enemy at Hamilton by sending JEWEL KIT after a bale of Uncle Sam's negotiable grass—in the day's opener. She stands out head and shoulders over this mob.

OLD CUDGELLER ran so kindly the other day that I am going to take him to repeat.

This boy Bedwell has some "stuff" that would make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's eye. CHANNING L and FRENCH LASS are so closely aligned that only racing luck will separate them. You will note my selections elsewhere.

And now we come to the old devil himself—PRINCELY ATTENTION—in the closing dash, over the turf. As a matter of fact, I would like to tell you all I know about this race—but I am in honor bound not to. However, I will say this: Unless you're solid ivory—from the shoulders up—you will have the old two megs riding right smack bang on the old beezer. Ye wekkum. More anon.

Brookland Insects Top Georgetown Nine, 6 to 5

The Brookland Boys Club Nine outrallied the Georgetown Insects yesterday to gain the lead in the Capital City League insect section in a 6-to-5, ten-inning neck-and-neck struggle. After the Georgetown Team had chased over two runs in their half of the tenth, the victors came back to go them one better.

A hit to left field, which the Georgetown team claimed was foul, enabled the Brookland lads to gain the decision. Manager Oddone, of the losing team, filed a protest last night, charging that several Brookland players are over age.

De Bettencourt allowed the losers seven hits, while his mates touched the offerings of Shore an even dozen times.

Peacock's 77 Wins Medal In Congressional Play-Off

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

ROGER PEACOCK, an 18-year-old member of the Indian Spring Club, who tied with George F. Miller, of the Manor Club, for the low medal in the recent tournament of the Congressional Country Club, each with 75, yesterday won the play-off on the Congressional course. Peacock's score was 41—36—77, as against a card of 41—38—79 for Miller.

Both players reached the sixth tee in the same number of strokes, but on the sixth hole Miller missed his second shot, overapproached the green on his third and finally holed out in 6. Peacock securing a par 4. By scoring a par 4 on the seventh, Peacock taking 5, and by reaching the 498-yard eighth green with his second shot and holing out in two putts for a birdie 4, Miller evened the strokes and with the ninth hole halved in par 3s, both players were all square at the turn.

Peacock Makes Gain on Last Six Holes.

They were still all even when the twelfth hole was reached. On that hole, 510 yards, Peacock was over the green on his third shot, but chipped in from the green for a birdie 4, gaining two strokes on his opponent, who took three putts after being on the green in 3.

Miller lost another stroke on the fourteenth when he drove into the rough and failed to reach the green on his second shot and he would have been beaten by three strokes instead of two if he had not run down a 6-footer on the eighteenth green for a birdie 3. Peacock missed his 3, although his putt was not over 2 feet in length. The cards:

Out—
Peacock	5	6	3	5	5	4	5	5	3	—41
Miller	6	5	3	5	5	6	4	4	3	—41
In—
Peacock	5	3	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	—36—77
Miller	5	3	6	4	5	4	4	4	5	—36—79

The tournament on the course of the Washington Golf and Country Club yesterday resulted in a quadruple tie. A field of 130 entries participated in the competition, each player being allowed to select nine holes to play in a match against par, with handicap allowance, the prize being a set of matched clubs valued at $100 donated to the golf committee. Four players—Thorp Drain, Dr. Thomas D. Webb, Dr. B. S. Taylor and Erwin P. Hair—were each six up on par. It is expected that there will be a play-off to determine the winner.

Mehary and Wear Reach Henry-Williams Final.

The contest for the Henry-Williams cup at the Bannockburn Club has now reached the final round which will be played between W. E. Mehary and Dr. H. L. Weer. In the two preceding rounds Mehary defeated R. L. Burgdorf, 7 and 6, and John Thacker who won the cup last year defeated Russell N. Low, 2 and 1. Dr. Weer defeated Eugene Parsvano by default, and J. H. Arndt defeated R. G. Lamb, 3 and 1. Mehary then defeated Thacker, 3 and 2, while Weer eliminated Arndt, 2 and 1.

The blind bogey tournament yesterday at the Indian Spring Club resulted in a triple tie. The lucky number was 79. The winning scores were Elliott Spicer, 87—8—79; A. M. Houghton, 106—30—79, and P. J. O'Connor, 98—19—79.

The sweepstakes handicap at the Bannockburn Club yesterday was won by Luther Florine, 73—9—64. Clinton Dowling, 85—16—79, was second and John Williams, 96—26—70, was third. In the women's competition there was tie—Mrs. Robert F. Cole, 45—3—42, and Mrs. Luther Florine, 48—6—42.

Golfers Reach Semifinals In Tribal Bowl Play.

In the semi-final round of the Tribal Bowl competition at the Indian Spring Club, William P. DiEste will play against LeRoy D. Sasscer, while Emmert Heitmuller will meet either Byrn Curtiss or George C. Gist, whose match has not yet been played. These three players respectively eliminated Homer S. Pope, 5 and 4; Dr. E. R. Tilley, 7 and 6, and J. W. Harvey, jr., 3 and 1.

ROMPING over the disorganized Brentwood Hawks yesterday in a 21 to 4 fashion, the Miller Aztecs kept their record in the Capital City League unlimited section unblemished. At the same time the St. Joseph Nine was defeating the Auths in a 6-to-5 battle on the Plaza, and the National Press Cards were eeking out a 3 to 2 victory over the Tremonts. The Brown's Cornermen got back on even terms by virtue of a 7 to 6 win over the Dixie Pigs. Edmonds Art Stone Co. tossers profited by a 9 to 0 forfeit verdict over Capitol A. C.

Taylor was too much of a puzzle for the Hawks while his mates were battering the offerings of Bellman for sixteen safeties. The Aztecs gathered 25 safeties in all. Enzor, who relieved Bellman when he touched freely in the last four frames, Much, Mulhall and Walker fattened their batting averages.

Farrington Stops Auths as Farrell Wavers in Seventh.

Jack Farrington relieved Farrell in the eighth inning to save the St. Joe cause. He held the Auths in check after his mates had taken the lead with a five run rally in the seventh. Deuterman worked well for the losers until the seventh. Ruppert of the Auths hit two home runs and Hoffman, a team mate, also hit for the circuit.

The Tremonts carried the Cards into the ninth frame before taking the count. In that session, with the count 2-all, Young singled, stole second and advanced to third on E. Durycee's sacrifice. He was squeezed over on Harrington's bunt. Young and McCracken engaged in a heated mound duel. N. Gaskitts drove over the Tremont runs with a timely single.

Lionels Defeat Vic Nine In Crucial Junior Game

Kramer Hurls Lionels to Victory; Ty Cobbs Profit by Close Decision Over Langleys; Murphy-Ames Is Victor, 6—4.

HARRY KRAMER'S good right arm and stellar support from his mates enabled the Lionel A. C. Nine to take the lead in the Capital City League junior section race yesterday. Kramer held the Vic Sport Shop clubbers to six hits and fanned twelve while his cohorts were taking a 6-to-4 victory, which may cop the first series title for the Lionels.

By virtue of a well earned 5-to-4 victory over the Langleys, the Ty Cobbs gained undisputed possession of third place, as the Potomacs were forced to idle when their engagement with the Calhouns was postponed.

The Corinthians had no trouble in disposing of the O'Briens, 11 to 3, and the Murphy-Ames Nine moved upward by taking the Mardfelds into camp, 6 to 4.

Vic Sluggers Unable to Solve Offerings of Kramer.

Kramer was master of the Vicmen at every turn. His team gave him three runs in the second and clinched matters with a pair in the fifth. Carter's triple in the ninth gave the losers their final counter. Risler, McPherson and Clarke played prominent roles in the feature contest.

Tate hurled well for the Corinthians and his cronies had two big innings at bat to sew up the issue. Mates held the Ty Cobbs to five hits but got some ragged support from his fellow Langleys. Davis worked steadily for the Cobbmen.

After a wild start, Stevens settled down for the Murphy-Ames Nine and blanked the opposition the remainder of the way.

JONES BEATS ESPINOSA IN OPEN

urday at the end of the regulation 72 holes.

Jones delivered a knockout wallop to par figures as well as to the swarthy Spaniard by shooting successive rounds of 72, even par, and then 69, 3 under, for a total of 141. Espinosa straggled behind with 84—80—164. The Chicagoan's game blew up on the last nine holes of the morning round with a detonation that stunned a gallery of close to 5,000 and made the final round nothing more than a workout for the South's favorite golfing son. It was all a distinct anticlimax after yesterday's sensational finish.

Espinosa beat himself with one of the wierdest exhibitions in the history of big league golf, but it is doubtful whether any player in the world could have matched strokes today with the par-cracking, remorseless Georgian. As if to redeem himself in the eyes of the thousands who saw him allow the championship to slip almost from his grasp yesterday with his worst round of the tournament, Bobby, with the exception of only four or five holes, played as close to perfect golf as can be produced.

It started out brightly this morning like a battle as Espinosa, taking advantage of Jones' shaky getaway, jumped into a lead of two strokes on the first hole and again on the third. But Bobby did not take long to settle down to the main business at hand. He drew level at the sixth, went into the lead on the seventh and never was in danger of losing the lead after that.

Jones 2 Strokes Ahead At First Turn.

At the first turn Jones was two strokes in front and he boosted this to a twelve-stroke margin at the end of the first 18 holes, as Espinosa cracked wide open. Al, as courageous as they come but badly off his game, tried desperately to stem the overwhelming tide without avail. If Espinosa made a great shot, as he often did, Jones made a greater one and so, through the remaining 18 holes, Jones nearly doubled his margin of victory, with a round that duplicated the best he has ever registered in American open championship play.

Jones has now won this national championship classic for the third time and, oddly enough, at three-year-intervals, only one man, the late Willie Anderson, has won it oftener. Willie turned in four victories in 1901-2-3-4-5. But even that achievement is dwarfed by the marvelous record the Georgian now has compiled. Bobby's victory, in 1923, was gained by beating Bobby Cruikshank in a play-off at Inwood and his second, in 1926, without the trouble of any extra competition. This was his fourth play-off, and the contest of Espinosa gives him an even break with the professional talent, which stopped Jones in 1925 with Willie MacFarland and last year with Johnny Farrell.

Few Moments of Excitement in Match.

There was little drama in this final play. Few moments of excitement or any suspense whatever. The only competition was between Jones and par, and even that became slightly one-sided in the afternoon as Bobby clicked off a trio of birdies in five holes.

It takes the figures to tell the story. Espinosa won only 6 of the 36 holes and halved 8 others. Figuring on his match play basis for purposes of comparison, he would have been beaten by 12 up and 11 to go. The collapse of the professional's game is best shown by the fact that he was in one or more traps on 11 holes, and in the rough at least once on 20 holes. Jones was in traps only three times and in the rough on 12 holes.

Jones beat Espinosa at his own game—the ... y to the green that is supposed to be the Spaniard's main reliance. After the first two holes the tables were reversed, with Jones consistently outdriving, outapproaching and easily outputting the Chicagoan.

A few holes tell the story of the futile chase, after a weird 8 at the twelfth in the morning round, putting him 9 strokes behind. Espinosa saw Jones drive to an unplayable position on the fifteenth, take two strokes penalty and a 6. Al regained 2 strokes, but on the sixteenth he drove into the rough, sliced his iron behind a tree, took 2 more to reach the green and a 6. The 2-stroke gain was wiped out in five minutes.

Both Players in Trap On 31st Hole.

At the thirty-first hole, 213 yards, both hit tee shots into a trap. Espinosa chipped a beauty to within 4 feet of the cup, while Jones partly missed his shot and was 18 feet short. Bobby then sank his long one, and Al took two stabs to get in.

Both hit long drives. Jones pitched 8 feet from the pin but Al got a foot inside him with a great shot. Bobby sank the putt for his 3, however, while Al took two. It was that way all day.

Espinosa, nevertheless, hit probably the two greatest shots of the whole play-off. The first was on the ninth hole of the morning round, where, after bounding from one trap across the fairway into another, he fired a long iron over high trees fully 200 yards to the green to get his par 5. Even more spectacular was his second shot on the twenty-fifth where he also carried the green, 10 feet from the pin, after hooking his drive to an adjoining fairway and being completely stymied by a grove of trees and flock of traps.

The first few holes have been a "jinx" to Jones throughout the tournament and today was no exception. His six on the first hole was due to a hooked drive, hooked iron and weak approach. There, Espinosa, from just off the green, hit the pin with his third after having waved the caddie away from it. The ball stopped dead, on the lip, and would have gone in for a birdie if the boy had been there to remove the stick.

Jones hooked his iron to the 217-yard third hole badly. He failed to get out of the rough with his third and got a "break" when his third bounced off the limb of a tree onto the green.

Espinosa Hangs On Desperately.

He then sank a 25-foot putt to save a four and lost only one stroke. From there on Bobby put on the pressure. He sank his putt for a birdie four on the fifth and rammed home a 17-footer for another "bird" on the sixth after driving to one side of the 323-yard green.

Espinosa hung on desperately, making a great fight on the ninth to save himself from being more than two strokes behind at the turn. This was where his third reached the green after he had trapped his drive and pulled across the fairway into another sand pit with his second. Jones also got five on that hole by missing one of his few short putts.

Coming in, however, Espinosa blew up with a 45 that represented the poorest golf ever witnessed in a championship play-off. He was in a flock of trouble and traps on six of the nine holes and his putting touch, never very good, deserted him completely. The climax of his difficulties came on the treacherous 497-yard twelfth, where Al duplicated his eight of the day before. He drove out of bounds, hooked his next tee shot into the rough, fired the fourth into a trap, took two more to reach the green and two putts.

Jones' "jinx hole," the fifteenth, where he took a seven yesterday, cost him a six and momentarily checked the rout. An unplayable lie on his drive cost him two penalty strokes, but the Georgian recovered magnificently, reached the green and dropped only two strokes where he was in danger of losing a half dozen, for Espinosa played the hole perfectly. That brief mishap out of his system, Bobby finished 4—4—4 to gain five strokes on Espinosa, who staggered in with 6—6—5, a thoroughly beaten golfer.

Afternoon Round Is Unnecessary.

The afternoon round was necessary only because the rules compels the contestants in a play-off to go 36 holes.

Jones increased his lead on the very first hole, added steadily to it at intervals and treated the big gallery to one of his finest all-round exhibitions. There was no contest outside of the tussle with par and no complications except for the statisticians trying to keep up with the mounting lead of the Georgian.

Jones played even par, 36, to the turn, to Espinosa's 40. Coming in, Bobby hit a swifter pace, bagged birdies on the twelfth, fifteenth and sixteenth and took a 33 for his 69, while Espinosa carded another 40 for 80.

Espinosa "took the money," nevertheless. Before the play-off started Al was assured first cash prize of $1,000, the biggest so far padded out for the leading professional, winner or not. Gene Sarazen and Densmore Shute, who tied for third place at 296 yesterday, collected $700 apiece. Tommy Armour, tied with George Von Elm for fifth, got $500. Among the other 20 prize or money winners, $5,000 in all being distributed, Leo Diegel received $300, Horton Smith $150 and Walter Hagen only $50.

JONES' RECORD IN OPEN

Winged Foot Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., June 30 (A.P.).—Here is Bobby Jones's remarkable record for ten years of competition in the American open:

1920—Eighth, with 299.
1922—Tied for second, with 289.
1923—Won play-off, after tying with Bobby Cruickshank at 296.
1924—Second, with 300.
1925—Lost play-off, after tying with Willie MacFarlane at 291.
1928—Lost play-off, after tying with Johnny Farrell at 294.
1929—Won play-off, after tying with Al Espinosa at 294.

7TH HOLE DECIDED TITLE, SAYS PEGLER

five strokes to the bad against a golfer who had shot four rounds in six strokes over par.

There was a little dispute at the fifteenth hole which was explained away at the time, but revived when the tournament was over and Jones was champion and Espinosa, feeling most gum, was trying to formulate some idea how this happened to him. On the fifteenth, Bobby's drive fell into a heap of field stone so deep it could hardly be recovered much less played.

Jones Strokes Ball To Green for 6.

Findlay Douglas, president of the U. S. Golf Association, and H. H. Ramsay, the vice president, were with the players supervising the round. Douglas lifted Jones' ball out and teed it up in the rough at a cost of two strokes according to the rule. But he carried it toward the fairway and played it in a position which Al thought was an improvement over the original one. Al spoke to Bobby and Bobby said: "I'm not doing anything about it. It's up to the U. S. G. A." Then he stroked it to the green and took two putts for a six.

Al said nothing more about this until after the round was over when he referred back to it as a point where the working mans rights were invaded.

"Under the rule you can tee up from an unplayable lie but you have to move it backward, not closer to the hole. If that ball had been carried back, Bobby might have taken a ten. It was the same kind of situation that bobbed up in Bill Mehlhorn's first round and he took a ten, but instead of teeing up he dropped the ball backward over his shoulder."

There is nothing much to be told about Bobby's play. He just hit his shots the way the golf architect who laid out the course visualized perfection. His approaches were hoisting gracefully and dropping on the green. His approach putts were running up but not in and his second putts were dropping. In fact, Robert and Al together gave a graphic demonstration of the way to play and the way not to play almost every shot in the game. Espinosa's drives began to hook before he finished the first nine. When he tried to correct the hook he sliced and when he cured the slice he went back to hooking.

The Valley of Delight

SUN-BATHED and warm, it lies in the forested heart of Southern hills—offering new zest of life—and health—to those who go there for rest or gayety. Virginia Hot Springs—the friendly valley of delight—is the playground of men and women of the world.

Since the days of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, The Homestead, one of the country's foremost hotels, has provided perfect service and luxurious pastime to people of taste and fashion. The health-giving mineral waters, are not all that The Homestead offers. Many of its guests come for pleasure alone. And so, early in the morning, the trot of spirited horses echoes through the valley highroads and byways. In the hunting season, the music of the hounds in full cry thrills the drowsy countryside. Over the hotel's three courses wander the lovers of golf. Above the tennis courts rises a staccatto, "game"!

Evenings, across the gleaming ballroom floor, glide featherlight feet—irresistibly caught in the rhythm of crooning syncopation, rendered by The Homestead's own orchestra.

The day is done—lights go out one by one—weary, happy bodies snuggle into downy covers. While outside, the star-strewn Virginia sky twinkles merrily above the hushed valley of delight. May we send a well illustrated booklet?

Success of Farm Act Is Held as Dependent On Public Sympathy

Key to Agricultural Relief Seen to Lie in Creating An Attitude Among People Supporting Legislation Recently Enacted By Congress—Voices Are Now Exceedingly Discordant.

By LEWIS F. CARR
(Agricultural Economist; Author of "America Challenged").

The fight for farm relief is over. The fight for farm relief has just begun.

The bill has passed, to be sure. But the passage was not accompanied by the blaring of trumpets, the ringing of bells or the shoutings of the farm multitude. This must have been due either to the fact that the farm element did not understand the bill, or to the fact that, understanding it reasonably well, they realized that its value depended on the intention behind the bill; and they could not as yet gauge that intention.

Briefly the bill provides in general for "the effective merchandising of agricultural commodities . . . so that the industry of agriculture will be placed on a basis of economic equality with other industries." Hence the immediate question: What is "economic equality?" And hence, too, the necessity for the fight to attain it—whatever it is—through the machinery set up by the bill.

In particular, the bill provides:

First—That the Federal Farm Board can lend money to cooperatives. That's a big step. Such loans should help them tremendously in their fights. Say that a cooperative is struggling for sufficient control of its product to enforce higher prices. With a loan from the Government, it can offer better prices temporarily to farmers and thus gain more members and more strength so that it can eventually win its fight and pay back the money. Further, with money it can carry on a publicity campaign, showing how it is merely fighting inefficiently in distribution and how higher prices to the farmers should not necessarily raise prices to the consumer.

Provides for Stabilization.

In the city—Dayton—in which I write, there are some 40 distributors of milk, with a resultant great inefficiency in distribution. The local cooperative association can not make much headway because it can not control sufficient production. But with adequate finances, it could make progress toward a better price to the farmer and a no higher price to the consumer. In an adjoining county there are 80 collectors and distributors of farm products. By greater financial strength, the "co-ops" there could organize a more efficient system of distribution.

Second: The bill provides that the Federal Farm Board can assist cooperatives to insure against price declines.

Third: The bill allows the board to help cooperatives set up clearing house associations. This also is a great step. When a thousand cars of cabbage are moving North, some combined coordinated action is necessary to prevent tremendous gluts at some markets and scarcities at others. With the proper direction and management, these clearing house associations can help much in marketing and possibly in the intelligent direction of planting so that surpluses may be avoided. A limited control of production is contained in the provision that the board may refuse loans when such might be likely to produce too great a surplus.

Finally, the bill provides for stabilization corporations. This is the most important provision.

Let us take wheat. Say that there are about one million and a quarter principal cooperative wheat associations numbering perhaps half the total of growers in their membership. By the provision of the bill, those twelve cooperative associations can form a stabilization corporation—with charter and by-laws specified by the board—which can look to the Government for "working capital."

Bill Violently Opposed.

At harvest time the stabilization corporation can begin buying wheat from nonmembers of the cooperatives. It exports that wheat out of the American market, thus raising the American price, by which the members of the cooperative will profit. In doing this, the stabilization corporation runs the risk of loss. Buying wheat for export just to get it out of the country would be at best but swapping dollars with a heavy chance for loss, for the world price may prove to be lower than the price paid in America.

But there are two ways out of this. If the cooperative buys enough wheat so that it will have some left over after the true surplus is exported, then it can sell that left-over wheat at the higher price, and possibly make up the loss. And though the bill provides that the cooperatives shall not be held liable for the losses of the stabilization corporation, still it is easy to see how they could profitably afford to make up those losses. For they would have benefited tremendously by the activity of the corporation. Further, the action would tend to draw all wheat growers to the cooperative associations. And when that happens, farm relief will accomplish itself.

I imagine that almost every person who has interested himself in the cause of farm relief is at the moment in some doubt about the future. The McNary-Haugen bill would have raised prices. The present bill can do so. But will it? The McNary-Haugen bill would have conquered the opposition to high prices with its passage. But with the bill, that opposition remains to be conquered.

And that opposition is everywhere. I pick up this morning's copy of a financial journal and that opposition spits fire from the second column of the front page. There is in the article a sneer of contempt at the cause of farm relief. There is the tacit and unworthy assumption that pleaders for farm relief have been seeking a law that would "take the place of hard work and business sense in farming" and that would "nullify the fundamental law of supply and demand."

Blame Farmers.

Ridiculous, of course, not in accordance with the facts, not even cognizant of the salient points of the true situation, but nevertheless published by a reputable journal having great influence among business men. Another financial paper dismisses farm relief agitation as "the veriest nonsense."

Reviewers of farm relief books—though they themselves are known as agriculturists, or at least as "Park Avenue Farmers"—take pleasure in "panning" the farm relief of view. And almost with one voice, a great body of business men proclaims that the whole trouble with the farming industry is due to its own failure to keep up with the march of progress and that therefore it has no case.

The fact seems to appear that this country has existed so long under the policy of protection for manufactured articles and no protection for agricultural products that the mere suggestion of deviation from this policy becomes heresy. It appears, too, that this country is so loyal to its creed of efficiency that it believes increased efficiency can solve any problem. The average business man finds difficulty in accepting the fact that one whole growing season is required to produce one crop, a tremendous limitation on productivity to which industry is not subject.

And with a farm relief bill passed, the fact becomes supremely important that this country is now dominantly urban, with agriculture constituting but a scant third of the population. Now can that scant third convince, and keep convinced, the other two-thirds that it has a right to survive?

That is the greater farm problem. That is the question that occasions serious doubt when one looks into the future and sees the agricultural population constantly dwindling both in numbers and influence and the urban population constantly waxing greater in every way.

Farmer Unprotected.

The press of the country is urban in influence and tradition. To every editor fighting for justice to the farm element, there are ninety-nine who, for one reason or another, are on the other side of the fence, who can not see the farm point of view, who do not concede its worthiness. Further, the leaders in many lines—business, government, teaching—have been educated in academic colleges which are not seriously aware that agriculture exists.

And there is really no agricultural press. What farm press there is is dominated—with a few exceptions—by the urban point of view.

Only a handful of men, only a handful of publications, see the situation in what appears as its true light and have the courage of their convictions. Those convictions in part are:

That the levels of costs in this country have been raised too high to permit agriculture to function at a profit if it receives only world prices for its products. These high levels of costs account for the fact that American agriculture, according to Virgil Jordan and my own studies, now lacks "$5,000,000,000 a year of paying its way as a going concern."

That, while commercial, mechanized farming—tractor farming—is practical and feasible under present conditions in perhaps a half dozen States, it is not feasible in the other forty or so and that therefore this much-touted answer to the farm problem is not sound.

That the family farm must be preserved, not only because it is the most desirable humanly, but also because it is the most economic.

That prices to the farmer can be greatly increased by intelligent direction of marketing without similar increases in cost to the consumer, and that it is to the common good to cut out this inefficiency of distribution.

And frankly, that since the levels of costs in this country were raised through the instrumentality of Government action—high tariff, railroad regulation, immigration restriction—the only just and decent answer to this problem is higher prices for agricultural products. If the tariff forces the American farmer to pay $65 for a certain manufactured article which could be laid down here from Europe for $40, and if by reason of that fact the American manufacturer is able to pay common labor $5 a day instead of $2 a day—forcing farmers to pay wages in line with this—then the only answer to the situation is higher prices for agricultural products.

Need Publicity.

Only a dozen or so forces in America seem to recognize these and similar things. Can these few "sell" the country on the justice of adequate prices for farm products?

Wheat at $1.50! And millers perhaps attempting to pass that cost on in the form of eleven and twelve-cent bread! Think of the cry that will go up! It will go up in spite of the facts that our most reliable studies indicate that the cost of producing wheat in this country is about $1.40 and that 10 cents a bushel is less than 7 per cent profit. And if the farm board exists under an industrial, big-business administration, won't public opinion force it to compel the stabilization corporations to sell wheat and thus lower the price, as can be done by the provisions of the bill?

Perhaps. But perhaps not. Possibly the Federal Farm Board will be able to consolidate farm opinion behind it and mold out of the present discordant voice of agriculture a greater, more powerful voice that will make itself heard in the land and respected. Agriculture may still find a way to speak. It may be able to generate a more national point of view on questions of policy and bring us to a time when the importance of agriculture to the Nation will insure justice to it.

ENVOY OF GERMANY IS ONE OF SPEAKERS AT ORPHAN ASYLUM

HIGH TRIBUTE TENDERED TO WOMEN'S SOCIETIES

Representative F. N. Zihlman and President Zimmerman Also Talk.

The German Ambassador, Dr. Friedrich von Prittwitz, Representative Frederic N. Zihlman, of Maryland, W. C. Zimmerman, president of the German Orphan Asylum, and others interspersed with addresses an elaborate program at the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the institution at the asylum yesterday afternoon. One surviving founder, Mrs. Louisa Roberts, attended the celebration.

Since the founding of the asylum more than 2,000 orphans have been cared for and educated and been given a good start in the outside world.

The German Ambassador spoke of the many changes that have occurred throughout the world within the last 50 years and commented upon the nobility of the older German generations who founded the asylum. He praised the work of the institution and those who have supported it.

History Is Reviewed.

Mr. Zimmerman reviewed the history of the institution and paid high tribute to the Ladies' Aid Society and the Ladies' Sewing Circle, both auxiliaries of the parent institution, for their faithful work throughout the years, particularly in emergencies.

He told of the 2,000 and more children who had been cared for and equipped with educations and taught trades and professions. Many, he said, had made marks for themselves and had, in turn, helped the institution to carry on its altruistic work. It has forty-one resident children now, and all old enough are beginning their education under the guidance of and tutelage of the officials.

Representative Zihlman declared that the institution is a credit to not only the founders and those who have labored through the years, but a credit to the National Capitol as well, and a model of its kind.

Society's Work Is Told.

Mrs. Mary Schlotterbach, president of the aid society, outlined the scope and accomplishments of the society's work and how it fitted into the daily life at the institution.

Mrs. Catherine Loffler, president of the sewing circle, expressed appreciation to the institute and to the workers within the circle who have given their time and effort to keep the children properly clothed and to make the asylum a real home for the orphans.

The Rev. J. D. Buehler, pastor of the First Reformed Church, said the invocation. The children of the asylum sang a song of welcome to the guests, numbering some 700. Miss Matilda Kolb sang a vocal number, and orchestras and bands rendered many numbers. The children danced a minuet, and the Rev. Charles Enders, pastor of Concordia Lutheran Church, said the benediction.

A buffet luncheon was served following a reception by the officials of the asylum.

Former Soldier Uses Gas to Commit Suicide

Carl E. Gustafson, 49 years old, a patient in the United States Soldiers' Home Hospital, last night committed suicide by inhaling gas from a burner on a stove in the diet kitchen next to the hospital dining room. Dr. J. Ramsay Nevitt, District coroner, issued a certificate of suicide.

Gustafson, who had been under mental observation at the hospital since his discharge from Company I, Twelfth United States Infantry, March 29, last, was found by Nicholas Fitzgerald, an orderly, and Sister Theresa, of the hospital staff, according to police. Gustafson, a native of Sweden, had been despondent for some time, police were told.

Burglars Frightened From Rheem Residence

Burglars were frightened away from the residence of Edmund D. Rheem, 2363 S street northwest, yesterday afternoon when a burglar alarm sounded after the front door was opened.

Police said that the manner in which the door was opened revealed that the job had been done by expert yeggmen. No one was in the house at the time of the attempted robbery, the Rheem family being out the city. Mr. Rheem is vice president of the firm of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey. The home is close to the former Hoover home and opposite Mrs. Woodrow Wilson's.

Byrd Aid Is Grandson Of Washington Woman

Capt. Ashley McKinley, who, according to the report of Commander Richard E. Byrd, has made an aerial survey of newly discovered land in the Antarctic, is the grandson of Mrs. Ashley McKinley, of Washington, and the great-grandson of Justice John McKinley, who served on the Supreme Court bench from 1836 to 1862.

Capt. McKinley's wife is now in New York and is said to be keeping in touch with her husband by radio.

JUDGE GIVES ADVICE ANENT HER OWN SEX

SPEAKS FROM EXPERIENCE

San Francisco, June 30 (U.P.).—Judge Genevieve R. Cline, the only woman Federal jurist in the United States, recently tendered a little advice. It was:

"Never make women appear ridiculous."

The advice, according to Judge Cline, expresses the definite policy she has "formulated after a rather extensive experience among men."

"Dignity and the respect of discriminating persons are the most important assets of a woman in public life," she said.

"A desire to be different, to substitute her own way for masculine tradition, to express opinions on any subject, no matter how irrelevant to her own work—all these may bring notoriety but never influence.

"Women in high office should remember that their actions either pave or obstruct the way of women who follow them."

Judge Cline, who came here to try some 1,200 cases, said that the upward progress of her sex was a matter of concern to her.

"There is a familiar disparagement," she said, "used by men. It is 'just like a woman.' I hate to hear that."

Sleeping Alcoves In Huts Banned

Relic of Middle Ages Is Disappearing in East Friesland.

Emden, Germany, June 30 (A.P.).—With the campaign of the insurance companies against the "schlafbutze" (a sleeping alcove in the peasant huts of East Friesland) another relic of the Middle Ages is disappearing.

As in most cases the "schlafbutze" is no more than a recess in the wall of the thatched hut and closed from the rest of the interior by a heavy woolen curtain, it is in great demand in winter as a retainer of warmth. Anything like ventilation is out of the question in this windowless alcove, which often becomes a hotbed of infectious diseases, especially tuberculosis.

Yet the East Friesian peasants have clung to their "schlafbutzen" with all the stubborn tenacity of their race. And it was only when the insurance companies agreed to pay a premium on the abolition of this unhygienic sleeping quarter that the money loving country folk gradually began to dispense with it.

Koreans Learn Japanese.

Seoul, Korea, June 30 (A.P.).—Japan's efforts to diffuse the language of that country in Korea, part of the plan for complete absorption into the empire, is making marked progress. Officials claim that 974,000 Koreans speak the tongue. This is only 5 per cent of the population, but it is an increase of 100 per cent among the users of Japanese in ten years.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

JUDGE J. CHEW SHERIFF, of Laurel, Md., is bereft of a courtroom. Court usually is held in the national guard armory. This week the guardsmen go away to camp. No one to care for the courtroom, the judge has abandoned sessions.

A high-pressure salesman of portable courtrooms went to Laurel.

"Where can I find Sheriff Judge?" he asked a bystander.

"You mean Judge Sheriff?"

"I'm looking for the man without a courtroom."

"The sheriff's got a jail, so it must be the judge you want."

Unable to see the judge, the salesman tried to interest some of the councilmen and the Leading Citizen.

"A good riddance," said the Leading Citizen, who had just escaped arrest for reckless driving. He was an old, reformed hit-and-run driver. "The courtroom out of the way, this community may now settle down to business. Too much time wasted attending court, a pernicious habit at best."

"But," said the salesman, turning on his high pressure, and getting out his samples, "I have here a courtroom, latest thing on the market. Examine it. Try to find a flaw in it. Get the judge to use it for the summer months. If it isn't exactly as I represent, return it and the deal's off. That's the kind of firm I'm with—Willikins, Wumpkins & Co., their motto: "When Better Courtrooms Are Built, We'll Build 'em—and How!"

* * * * *

THE Leading Citizen looked the courtroom over with an appraising eye. Many a courtroom had he seen in his day. "I don't think," he confessed, "that this will appeal to Judge Sheriff."

"By the way," asked the salesman, getting out his notebook, "what is he, confidentially, a judge or a sheriff?"

"So far as you are concerned," said the Leading Citizen, casting an exceedingly cool look in the direction of the stranger, "he is the judge, jury, witnesses, defendant, plaintiff and sheriff, all rolled into one——"

"But he hasn't any courtroom," interjected the salesman. "What good is a judge, or even a jury, without a courtroom? Let me supply the want. Look this article over closely. Feel the fabric. Pretty? It has all the comforts of home, including a cooler for the prisoners. Yeair, the latest refrigeration plant, guaranteed to keep everything well under the prescribed 50 degrees, which is what the Department of Agriculture and the Bureau of Public Health advise at this time of year. Furthermore, this has the indorsement of the Good Housekeeping Institute, the Department of Commerce, the Society of American Courtroom Builders and the American Bar Association. They adopted it the year they met in London, 1924. The members like this better than the one in Buckingham Palace, so Laurel can't go wrong!"

"You'll have to speak to Judge Sheriff about that," said the Leading Citizen, growing weary of the man.

"Where can I find His Honor?" asked the salesman.

"I think," said the Citizen, "he's going to camp with the National Guard."

* * * * *

A BUGLE blew. The boys in khaki assembled on the Main Stem. Mothers, wives, sisters, sweethearts waved good-by. Flags flew. Dogs barked. Automobile horns honked. 'Twas a gala day. The judge and jury, the sheriff and constable marched away, leaving Laurel in the lurch. The salesman folded his portable courtroom, followed the caravan over the Baltimore pike.

"Somebody in this outfit is bound to get court-martialed, so I might sell Judge Sheriff a courtroom, after all," he mused, waving good-by to the Leading Citizen.

Nothing beats a trial but a judge.

GOLD SOVEREIGNS SCARCE IN ENGLAND

NONE MINTED SINCE 1925

London, June 30 (A.P.).—The gold sovereign, or coin of one pound sterling, is under suspicion by the present generation. Before the war it was the most popular coin in the realm, but it soon disappeared from circulation and has since appeared rarely.

The currency notes, replacing the sovereign, have become so much a part of the life of England that the appearance of a golden sovereign means little to the person who handles it.

Young cashiers, grown up since the war, ask "what coin is it?" Messenger boys declare they have "never seen one before," bus conductors frown at it and declare they have no change.

Sovereigns therefore are relegated to the prosaic business of foreign exchange dealings.

The last time sovereigns were coined in London was in 1925 when 3,500,000 were minted. They are still minted in Australia, Ottawa and South Africa.

U. S. STOCK DECLINE ENCOURAGES EUROPE

WAS DRAWING THEIR GOLD

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—Each new decline in United States security prices and correspondnig check on America's speculative pace brings muffled cheers in financial centers abroad.

London, Paris, Berlin and Amsterdam have had to take heroic measures recently to keep their gold supply from being drawn into the American whirlpool.

Private advices reaching New York banking houses state that foreign financial leaders have watched with considerable relief the melting of security values on this side of the Atlantic.

Editorial comment in financial publications abroad has tended strongly in recent weeks to criticize the situation in the United States as abnormal and dangerous to the economic welfare of other communities.

Europe has followed the contest between the Federal reserve authorities and those who oppose interference in stock trading almost as closely as it was followed in the United States.

From where foreign observers sit they are disposed to view the present weakness of the market here as proof that traders have wearied under constant pressure and are ready to withdraw temporarily.

Curiosity Causes Squirrel To Become Inmate of Zoo

Little Gray Visitor Forces Way Into Cage and Is Then Unable to Get Out; 35,000 From Many States Visit Animals Yesterday; Baby Leopards Popular.

Curiosity led a little gray squirrel to become an involuntary contribution to the Zoo yesterday. Of the hundreds of acres of beautiful forests, running water and plenty of "mass" for him to feed upon in Rock Creek Park, the little wild fellow's curiosity yesterday caused him to force his way into the Beatrice Henderson cage, filled with cockatoos and macaws, and now he can not get out because he could not locate the slightly larger mesh where he squeezed in.

His curiosity satisfied, he turned his attention to getting out. Hundreds of people watched his almost panicky efforts, and said to each other that it served him right. The perky little fellow will be taken from the cage and put in another with other squirrels, a gift from himself to the Zoo.

Some 35,000 visitors flocked to the Zoo yesterday, and, judging by inquiry, all knew of the plight of the little lion cub that was mistreated last Tuesday by his mother, Johanna. Zoo officials reported that he is doing nicely on a bottle. The litle fellow has a cut place behind one ear where his mother slammed him against the bars of the cage while pacing back and forth with him in her mouth. He will be raised on the bottle.

N'gi, the young chimpanzee, which has been ill fro some time, principally because of the heat, was much better yestreday and was a source of inquiry by the many thousands of animal lovers who visited the lions' house, where he was formerly housed.

They were told the good news and that N'gi had been removed to the monkey house, where many flocked to see him and express their good wishes for a complete and hasty recovery.

Two litters of baby leopards were the cause of probably 10,000 'Aw, ain't they cutes" being said in admiration before the iron cages. One litter is several weeks old; the other came last week. They are all feet, and the latest cubs hadn't their eyes open yet and can hardly skid on the slick floor of the den of theri mother.

The day was ideal for both animals and sightseers. Relief from the oppressive heat of last week seemed to pep both up. The bears remained out of theri pools most of the time and none of the heavy furred animals semeed to be suffering.

Visitors were there from probably every State in the Union, judging by automobile tags on the cars lining the roadways.

Britain Considers Ban On Filling Stations

London, June 30 (U.P.).—If the government adopts the recommendations of the special committee of the home secretary's office, Great Britain soon will be rid of hideous, many colored gas filling stations.

In order to safeguard the scenery of the countryside, the committee has proposed that all stations may be painted only in one color, that flashing electric signs be prohibited, that advertising lettering be made smaller, and that corrugated or galvanized iron be forbidden for roof construction.

The committee is also seeking a "standard" advertising sign for use along the roadside eliminating the hideous variegated billboards now employed.

Toy Balloon in Flight 700 Miles From Budapest

Budapest, June 30 (U.P.).—What is claimed as a world record nonstop long-distance flight for a child's toy balloon has just come to light here.

Last autumn Gyula Koch, the 5-year-old son of a Budapest postal official, released a red toy balloon, to which his father had tied a label bearing a message in the city park. A letter has just been received from Ukrainia, in which the writer, a boy living in the village of Gadjacs, states that the toy balloon and its message were found by workers in the fields near the village of Velikaja-Budogda.

OLD FIRE WAGON BOUGHT BY FORD

IN SERVICE 100 YEARS

Westwood, Mass.—The town of Westwood gave up one of its most treasured relics recently with the transfer of what is considered one of the oldest fire engines in the United States to Henry Ford, who will place it in his industrial museum at Dearborn, Mich. The exact price which was paid for the pump could not be ascertained but it is understood that a substantialu sum changed hands in the purchase.

The pump was the original hand engine used more than 100 years ago in Westwood, or West Dedham, as it was then called. After many years of service it was replaced by more modern apparatus and in 1878 sold to Henry Glover, of Mill street, Westwood, who bequeathed it to his nephew, Charles A. Robbins. The sale was negotiated through Ernest J. Baker, of Westwood, who recognized the tub's historical value, and William Taylor, of Sudbury, representative of the automobile manufacturer.

Official town reports tell an interesting story of the engine. In the Town Report for 1876, under the heading of Fire Department, one is informed that "Norfolk No. 6, in West Dedham, is the oldest engine now in the service of this town, having probably been in use more than 50 years.

Suction Pump Urged.

"In the condition in which it now is, it would be of very little service at any fire, and as this part of the town is from one to two mile from any reliable means of extinguishing a fire, the Board of Engineers would recommend that a small suction pump be purchased to take the place of the one there now."

A further search of the records shows that the voters followed the recommendation of the Fire Department, retiring the Norfolk No. 6 after a half century of service. In 1878 the report states, "Sold Norfolk No. 6 engine to Henry Glover for $25."

Built of sturdy timber, the machine is still in excellent condition today. It is very different from the modern fire engine, and even presents a large variation from the side-stroke suction engine seen at musters.

This machine is hung low on hand-forged metal suspension rods which hold the body on the axles. No provision was made for horses and when the alarm was given everyone lent a hand and dragged the pump along as best they could.

Built before the days of the double action pump, the Norfolk No. 6 had no means of drawing water into it, consequently a large crew of bucket men were always needed to keep its water tank full.

Like Hand Cars.

The pumping handles resemble those of a railroad hand-car in that they are placed at right angles to the vehicle and not parallel as were most of the later hand models. Surmounted on top of the engine is the original old-time bell, as good as ever.

A further important feature of this engine is the ancient hose made of leather, firmly riveted together, and still in good condition today. Leading from the hose is a long brass nozzle. In the front part of the machine is a hose reel containing four upright pegs.

The oldest ranking engine now at the Ford museum is the Fountain, built by Ephriam Thayer, of Boston, who made fire engines for many years, beginning in 1794. The year in which this particular machine was built is not known but it is believed to have been subsequent to the time when fire hose came into general and successful use in 1814, but before suction engines appeared in 1822.

50 Boys' Club Members Open Camp Tomorrow

Fifty members of the Boys' Club, 230 C street northwest, will leave by motor bus tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock for a two weeks' vacation at their summer camp on the Wicomico River at Mount Victoria, Md. F. V. Thompson, executive secretary, will be in charge of the trip.

The vacation routine will include swimming, boating, athletic games, woodcraft and handicrafts and, at night, camp fire councils. Between 200 and 300 boys are expected to visit the camp during the summer.

Boy Badly Bitten on Face When Playing With Dog

While playing with a friend's dog yesterday afternoon, Mathias Kerselbum, 14 years old, of 351 Eleventh street southeast, was bitten on both sides of his face, it was learned at Casualty Hospital, where the boy was taken.

The dog was owned by Daniel Sullivan, 12 years old, of 351 Tenth street southeast. Kerselbum was bitten while playing in the back yard of the latter home.

Lucas Tendered Dinner By Louisville Friends

Kentucky friends of Robert H. Lucas, commissioner of internal revenue, tendered him a testimonial dinner Saturday night at Louisville, according to advices received here.

Lucas, who has been commissioner for about a month, went to Louisville last week to aid his family in moving to Washington, and his friends took advantage of his presence in the State to honor him. The dinner was held at the Brown Hotel and approximately 500 persons attended, it was said.

Police Hunt Missing Persian Cat.

A valuable female Persian cat with yellow hair was the object of a search by Seventh Precinct police yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Clinton Ward, 3707 Q street northwest, the owner of the feline, told the police that it had disappeared early in the afternoon. She believes that it has been stolen.

Lunch Room Manager and $75 Missing.

Charles Comert, of 1313 Thirteenth street northwest, owner of a lunch room at 2011 Georgia avenue northwest, reported to police yesterday that his night manager, Harry Sleppy, disappeared some time Saturday night with $75 from the cash register.

Lieutenant's Camera Stolen.

A moving-picture kodak, valued at $150, was reported by Lieut. C. W. Huntington, U. S. N., yesterday to have been stolen from his apartment. Lieut. Huntington told police that his trunk had been pried open and the camera taken.

Death Stops Clock.

Snowflake, Ariz., June 30 (U.P.).—After 51 years of continuous service, an ancient clock brought to this district by Mrs. Lucretia Owens in 1878, stopped 3 minutes after her death June 1, and has since failed to run.

THE NEW WEEK'S BILLS

FOX

"THE BLACK WATCH." Fox all-talking production, with music and songs, adapted from Talbot Mundy's "King of the Khyber Rifles," with Victor McLaglen starred, supported by Myrna Loy and notable cast. Directed by John Ford. Reviewed Saturday night.

By NELSON B. BELL.

It is, I think, safe to say that in his first articulate role Victor McLaglen belies every preconceived notion of what he would be like. Instead of a tough soldier, a rowdy sailor or a murderous crook, Mr. McLaglen, at least to the ear, is here an officer and a gentleman. I am not sure that "The Black Watch" was not slowed down considerably to enable him to appear to be one.

The story of Capt. King, of the Khyber Rifles, detailed to a secret mission in India at just the moment his regiment was ordered to the front in France during the Great War, and so made to seem a yellow renegade to his comrades, is peculiarly spotty. There are moments when the flame of drama leaps high. There are even more when it only smolders, and a few, it must be said, when it seems to have gone out entirely.

It is the task of Capt. King to stamp out a seditious enterprise undertaken by a mysterious young woman of the hills, who plans a Holy War to exterminate the unbelievers—meaning the meager British soldiery left behind from the debacle in Flanders to guard the frontiers of the empire—and seems in a fair way to succeed. A love affair springs up between the two and it is to this that "The Black Watch" is indebted for a majority of its defects.

Mr. McLaglen, whatever else he may be, is not an actor who may essay the graceful gestures of romance and the gentle cadences of love, either with natural ease or conviction. His lines are not badly spoken—in fact, they are read surprisingly well—but for the benefit of this effect they are retarded in tempo until warmth and spontaneity are wholly lost. The more vigorous movements of the tale are effectively executed, with more than ordinary attention to the creation and maintenance of a sense of magnitude, not only in material investiture but in the importance of the activities in which the principals are engaged, as well.

The entraining of the troops midst the skirling of the pipes and the hubbub of the station seemed to me an especially fine bit of realism. For the Roly rites of the tribesmen in the weird cavern of the echoes in the mountains above Khyber Pass I felt less enthusiasm, although the scenes were bigger and, I imagine, designed to be more impressive. Perhaps it is only that I am not familiar with the strange rituals of the native hillsmen over whom Yasmani wielded her odd hypnosis.

In this role of Goddess of the Hills, Myrna Loy impresses me as offering her best-judged performance for the audible screen. While frequently the part is less vibrant than it should be, Miss Loy still has hit upon the proper ratio of volume and tempo to effect an evenly sustained characterization. Others who contribute commendable portraitures include Lumsden Hare, as the Colonel of the Black Watch; David Rollins, as King's kid brother, Malcolm; Mitchell Lewis, as Mohammed Khan, the blood-thirsty repentant; Roy D'Arcy, Cyril Chadwick, David Torrence and Walter Long, all of whom are intelligible and intelligent in their portrayals.

The stage revue is agreeably colored with red, white and blue in honor of the Fourth. The Jazzmanians and the Foxettes open patriotically with Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" and John Irving Fisher then introduces "Tangle-foot," a loose-jointed saute-dancer; the Trainor Brothers, tap dancers; Frankie Morris, a rollicking blues singer; Ernie and Fisher, eccentric dancers, and Mr. Fisher, pianist, who plays "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise" cold and "hot." Then the girls and their drums and curtains.

The Fox Movietone News and the second installment of Post-Fox screen tests round out the excellent holiday bill.

PALACE

"THE BRIDGE OF SAN LUIS REY." M. G. M. sound-picture with talking sequences, from the Pulitzer prize novel by Thornton Wilder. Directed by Charles Brabin, with Lily Damita heading all-star cast. Reviewed Saturday night by Mary Porter Russell.

The official responsible for selecting Mr. Wilder's famous novel for the purpose of the motion picture was more than an ambitious person. He was a courageous one. It would be difficult to think of any work of recent date which would offer more perplexities in its transition to photo-dramatic form than this thoughtful narrative of life and death and unhappiness and love and perhaps the why of it all. That the makers of the film have failed to render a faithful interpretation of the ideas in the author's mind and of the characters through which he gave them voice, is in no way a reflection upon their ability. It is simply one of those rare race cases in which the cinema is basically futile.

This does not mean that the screen version of the story is lacking in interest. It has been accorded intelligent treatment by the director and a superlative cast, and the scene of the falling bridge, with its five impotent figures hurtling through space, is an achievement to make photoplay history.

Upon the falling of the bridge, as the world knows, the plot centers and clings. "Why did it fall?" clamored the terrified citizens of ancient Lima. "Where was the saint who had lent it his protection? And why were those five killed, out of the hundreds who crossed it daily?" There was a reason, claimed the wise and understanding Brother Jupiter, and he told the story of the five tragic lives, and of another, equally tragic, whose suffering, Providence had reason to decree, must continue on.

Lily Damita, it is, who must go on living. As the actress whose genius electrified Peru, she offers an altogether brilliant performance that is coarse, hateful and breath-takingly vivid—as different from her portrayal of the restrained, poised young Englishwoman of Conrad's "The Rescue" as imagination could picture—and thereby adds versatility to the list of her fascinations. In contrast to the complex, often pitiable Camilla of the novel, she is merely a wholly physical, totally bad dancing girl, who asks no understanding and obtains no sympathy.

Emily Fitzroy, as the Marquesa, is once more the Parthy Anne Hawks of "Show Boat." Don Alvarado and Duncan Rinaldo are more authentic in their interpretations of the twins, having simpler material with which to work. Raquel Torres and Jane Winton are excellent, and Henry B. Walthall again reveals the voice we have been longing for in the role of the priest.

Art Frank, star of the "Rah, Rah, Rah," stage show, must be devastatingly funny, to judge by the reception given him Saturday night, though to some of us his "love" scenes seemed a little long. With him in the presentation are Helen Lewis and her collegiates, a band easy to look upon; the Foursome male quartet; Barbara Vernon, Marie Paul, Lew Beck and the Palace Syncopators, without benefit of "Hollywood's Ambassador of Joy."

An orchestral prelude and the newsreels are the added attractions.

COLUMBIA

"THE COCOANUTS." Paramount's singing, talking and dancing production, based on the musical comedy of the same name, starring the four Marx brothers, supported by Mary Eaton and Oscar Shaw. Directed by Joseph Santley and Robert Florey. Reviewed Sunday (second week) by J. F. Brady.

Good, clean humor, the kind which one can enjoy whole-heartedly and be glad to remember, put over in a snappy, catchy and noisy manner, is what makes "The Cocoanuts," now in its second capacity week, a picture which one will not want to miss. That is, of course, if you like comedy. It is truly a laughfest.

In addition to the comedy, there are dances done by beautiful girls in pretty costumes, and backed with wonderful settings, there are several songs, especially the theme song "When My Dreams Come True," by Miss Eaton and Mr. Shaw, and there are harp and piano specialties—all aiding in the success of this musical revue, which marks another bull's-eye for Paramount. There is but one apparent flaw and that is found in the occasional spots of bad photography, perhaps it was faulty projection.

"The Cocoanuts" is well directed and sumptuously mounted. This is one of the few pictures which bring audience applause when the final curtain is drawn and at times when the specialties are on.

While the four Marx brothers stand out prominently throughout with their rapid-fire, and at times slapstick, comedy, Mary Eaton and Oscar Shaw, as well as Katherine Francis contribute some good bits. The songs sung by Miss Eaton and Mr. Shaw were written by Irving Berlin. Miss Eaton also executes a short dance number backed by a large chorus. One thing missing in this musical revue is the singing chorus, but its absence is not especially noticed.

Supplementing the feature are short Movietone acts, including Bernardo de Pace, mandolin wizard, and Carl Emmy and his clever dogs (which is really a treat), the newsreel and the orchestral overture.

A splendid bill.

METROPOLITAN

"THUNDERBOLT." Paramount talking picture, starring George Bancroft, supported by Richard Arlen and Fay Wray. Directed by Josef von Sternberg. Reviewed Saturday night by C. Ransom.

Whether it is a true picture or not, George Bancroft gives us as "Thunderbolt" a formidable and persuasive portrait of a murderous gangster with lovable traits. Furthermore, the story of the film is conceived with far more original imagination than any previous example of the underworld breed of movie. "Thunderbolt" is one of the strongest and most interesting talkies issued to date.

All through the common run of underworld pictures the obvious human values have been neglected for the sake of incessant gunplay and sensational action, with a conventional clinging to a few plain lines of incident, involving the reactions of hostile gangs to each other and to the police, with the inevitable night club and a few women woven in. "Thunderbolt" fails to escape the cabaret, and there is no lack of vigorous action, but it runs far off the beaten ways in its searching of character and in the quality of its drama. The closing sequences, covering perhaps half the run of the reels, occur in the "death house" of a State prison, with eight or ten condemned prisoners living out their days, conversing and jibing at one another with an appalling humor and effectiveness.

The story is simple. Thunderbolt is a masterful gang leader and proud killer who is hunted by the police and whose one unselfish interest is his love for the girl, Ritzy. The girl, played by Fay Wray, wants to get free of her gang associations and has taken up with a nice young bank clerk, who is Richard Arlen. On learning the truth the gangster vows prompt death for the youngster, but is caught by the police while attempting to carry out his threat. Sentenced to death, he has his gang carry out a plan to "frame" his rival, who is also convicted and comes to occupy the cell across the open passageway from Thunderbolt. The remainder of the tale develops the conflict between the killer's passionate eagerness to destroy the man who took away his girl and certain underlying traits of fairnss and humor that rise victorious in the end.

Whether such a man could be, and whether the ways of the condemned can strike quite so callous and jovial a note as is here depicted, are questions that the skeptic is free to dispute upon. The fact remains that the scenes are developed with a plausibility an ingenuity of incident, and a feeling for the vivid color of life that few directors are capable of showing. Tully Marshall as the warden of the death house contributes a rich and original piece of humorous drawing, though it borders on caricature.

There are musical passages in the Harlem cabaret scene and among the prisoners, who find comfort in negro spirituals and other snatches to song. Bancroft's voice booms through the film tremendously, and all the speeches are clearly audible.

The other items on the program are a Vitaphone reel with songs by Miss Kate Smith, an old Washington favorite, and news pictures.

EARLE

"WOLF SONG." A Paramount sound picture with songs, featuring Gary Cooper and Lupe Velez. Directed by Victor Fleming. Reviewed Saturday afternoon by W. A. Whitney.

The great Southwest in the early days of the roaring forties forms the background against which Gary Cooper and Lupe Velez, assisted by Louis Wolheim, Ann Brody and others, work out the intricacies of a story of the love affair of an unkempt mountaineer and a da ghter of the aristocracy.

In this drama Director Fleming has produced a picture which, although possessing all the potentialities of a most hackneyed rehash of innumerable other stories of this general character, does not hesitate to deviate from the ordinary stereotyped treatment. Gary Cooper, playing Sam Lash, offers a faultless characterization of the mountaineer who is forced to yield to the divine afflatus of the love of a good woman. Lupe Velez, portraying the role of Lola Salazar, gives an equally satisfactory impersonation of a young woman who loves not only wisely but well. Miss Velez in the present part is more lovely than ever and holds herself entirely within the bounds of rationality.

The minor roles are likewise admirably handled. Michael Vavitch has the part of Don Solomon Salazar, Lola's father, who labors under the natural impression that mountaineers are an inferior lot and yet, at the crucial moment, does not lapse into the common fault of carrying his misplaced ideas to the extreme. Ann Brody once again does a fine piece of work as the duenna who has Lola's best interests at heart. Louis Wolheim and Constantine Romanoff, as Gullion and Rube Thatcher, respectively, pals of Sam, the trio constituting the three musketeers of the mountains, are fine and offer what little comedy relief is needed.

"Wolf Song" is without dialogue save for a very short sequence at the beginning of the picture. However, audibility does not stop there for, in the course of the reeling, Miss Velez sings five times; Mr. Cooper, once; Russell Columbo, twice; and the mountaineers, twice. Among Miss Velez's songs are "Yo Te Amo Means I Love You," "De Lola," and "Mia Amado," all charmingly done, their tunefulness enhanced by a guitar which she appears to be playing.

But one adverse criticism can be offered; the sudden use of silent closeups immediately following a song is at times disconcerting, expecting, as one does, a further continuation of the vocal passages.

"Dear Vivian," a Paramount talking comedy, with Raymond Hatton, Sam Hardy, Lorraine Eddy and Mabel Forrest, is a diverting number with blackmail as the source of fun. A "Mickey the Mouse" animated sound cartoon is one of the best efforts to date to synchronize this type of picture.

The composite "Earle Topical Review" is unusually well accompanied by the Earle Orchestra, under the direction of Daniel Breeskin. The orchestra offers the "Overture" from C. W. von Gluck's opera, "Orpheus," during which Milton Schwartz plays the included violin solo excellently. The overture and the carefully selected numbers accompanying the news reels are high lights on a diversified and highly-entertaining program.

District Engineer Claimed by Death

Funeral Services for Karl H. Neuhs Are to Be Held Tomorrow.

Karl H. Neuhs, chief mechanical engineer of the District of Columbia and one of the most popular of the younger District officials, died Saturday at his home, 4603 Illinois avenue northwest. He had been ill for three months.

Mr. Neuhs was born in New Haven, Conn., and received his early education there. He was an honor student throughout at Catholic University here. During the World War he was a member of the university's student Army training camp and had received an appointment to Plattsburg a week before the signing of the armistice.

Entering the office of the Municipal Architect in 1921, Mr. Neuhs rose to the positon of chief mechanical engineer of the District in 1925. He received high tributes from public officials for his work in connection with the Washington school-building program of the last few years.

Mr. Neuhs was a member of Catholic University Alumni Association, the Society of Mechanical Engineers, and St. Gabriel's Holy Name Society. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret C. Neuhs; a son, Karl H. Neuhs, jr.; his mother, Mrs. Bart Neuhs, and two sisters, Dr. Elizabeth N. Smith, of this city, and Mrs. W. H. Steinecke, of New Haven. Funeral services will be held in St. Gabriel's Church tomorrow morning.

Three Are Held in Theft From Printing Concern

Three negroes were arrested yesterday by Sergt. A. S Bohrer and Detective R. B. Carroll, of the First Precinct, and charged with housebreaking in connection with the reported theft of paper and type from the National Capital Press, at 1210 D street northwest.

The prisoners gave their names as John Robinson, 20 years old, of 612 M street northwest; Christopher Lewis, 20 years old, of 1631 Fourth street northwest, and his brother, William Howard Lewis, 22 years old, of the same address. The three youths, who, police said, admitted the theft, sold their loot for $20 to a junk dealer. The type and paper were valued at several hundred dollars, police were told.

Sneak Thief Gets $125.

A sneak thief, entering the office of the gasoline station at 326 John Marshall place northwest early last night while Therman Cash, the manager, was serving a customer, rifled the cash register of $125, police were told.

Model Home Viewed By 2,000 on First Day

Start of Construction Work to Embrace 500 Houses Widely Praised.

Two thousand persons viewed the model furnished home of Chevy Chase Gardens, at 4624 Langdrum lane, which was opened for public inspection yesterday, and two houses were sold during the day by the Chevy Chase Gardens management.

The crowds seeing the exhibit home of this North Washington operation, which will eventually include 500 dwellings, expressed delight and praise at its artistic and substantial construction.

Hundreds of visitors referred to the structure as one of the finest model furnished homes ever placed on display in the city. It will be open for inspection daily from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock in the evening for the next 30 days.

Those who desire to see this exquisite residence may proceed straight out Wisconsin avenue to Langdrum lane, opposite the Chevy Chase Country Club; then up the latter thoroughfare to the building, located on the corner of Langdrum lane and Stratford road.
